Zaire Threatens War

By The Associated Press

Zaire threatened Friday to declare war on Communist-backed forces in neighboring Angola that have routed their rivals in the northern zone of the country.

The Soviet news agency Tass said units of the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA) — supported by the United States and Zaire — were "retreating in panic."

Washington advised its allies by telegram that FNLA and Zairean troops were fleeing before an onslaught by the Popular Movement (MPLA). U.S. officials said in Washington that 9,500 Cuban soldiers are fighting with the MPLA and 1,000 others are en route to Angola aboard two troop ships.

They estimated Russia has sent arms worth $200 million to help the MPLA and Cubans and predicted that once they secure the north, the reinforced Cubans will move to the southern zone. The south is now held by units of the Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), which is allied with the FNLA.

Tass said Holden Roberto, leader of the FNLA, has fled north and sought sanctuary in Kinshasa, the capital of Zaire. Zairean President Mobutu Sese Seko is Roberto's brother-in-law and a staunch supporter of the FNLA.

The MPLA and FNLA-UNITA alliance are fighting to rule the potentially rich African nation, which received its independence from Portugal last November.

Mobutu's government announced it would protest to the United Nations "the bombings by Cuban troops" of the Zaire border city of Dilolo Wednesday. While it called the attacks bombings, there was no mention of aircraft. Previous reports were of shellings.

A statement issued after Mobutu returned from Dilolo said "this is a casus belli (cause for war)." It warned the Soviet Union and Cuba that "the serious consequence to which any repetition of these acts of aggression against a sovereign country could lead."

Dilolo is on the Kasai River opposite the Angolan city of Teixeira de Souza.

Zaire officials said the highway and railroad bridges across the river had been destroyed by the Cuban attacks. They did not mention casualties but said Dilolo's hospital, railway station and customs building were heavily damaged.

They denied MPLA claims that Zaire warplanes had bombed Teixeira de Souza, killing six persons, and said Zaire would welcome a U.N. investigating commission.

Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, reported fom Luanda, Angola, that the MPLA claimed its forces turned back attempts by Zaire troops to attack two of its strongholds in the oil-rich Cabinda enclave. Cabinda is separated from the rest of Angola by a 20-mile strip of Zaire.

Zaire has a 50,000-man army, including paratroopers and armor, and an air force of 33 obsolete combat planes It also has orders for 17 French Mirage fighter-bombers and some have been delivered.

MPLA Prime Minister Lope do Nascimento said his group is seeking military aid from Nigeria and other African nations.

The Angolan leader told Nigerian leaders in Lagos that his movement, recognized as Angola's government by many African states, needs troops and military hardware.

Nigeria, whose 250,000-man army is the continent's largest, has already given nearly $22 million in cash to the MPLA and is expected to respond favorably to the latest request.

Nascimento said the augmented MPLA forces would fight South African troops supporting their rivals, and after Angola is "liberated" it will besiege South Africa and "smash its inhuman tendencies and prove to the world that we are black men."

In a related development.

— President Ford said the House intelligence committee should withhold publication of its reports on covert U.S. involvement in Angola because publication would be "detrimental to the national security." Reliable sources said Ford sent his request in a letter to committee chairman Otis G. Pike.

Albert Not Convinced

Washington (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert said Friday the administration has yet to convince him that the war in Angola is worth risking an American life, the expenditure of a single tax dollar or the chance of a confrontation with Russia.

Addressing a meeting of Democratic congressional freshmen, Albert, who usually supports White House foreign policy under Republican or Democratic presidents, criticized President Ford's failure to confide to Congress about why this country is secretly involved in the war.

"If there is anything in Angola that would justify the life of one American or the expenditure of one tax dollar or the possibility of a major confrontation with the Russians, I have yet to see it," Albert said.

Indian Affairs Group Seeks Alcohol Funds

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Commission on Indian Affairs Friday asked the Legislature's Appropriations Committee for at least $25,000 to fund an alcoholism rehabilitation program on the Winnebago Reservation in Thurston County.

Under terms of a new bill already endorsed by the committee, Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha said, some $32,000 in funding may be provided to the commission for that purpose.

Monte Smith, executive director of the Winnebago Alcohol Services Center, told the senators that it would be wise to "use money to rehabilitate instead of just jailing people."

Improvement Seen

Smith said the alcohol problem on the reservation seems to be "getting better," but more assistance is needed.

Economic conditions have chased many Indians "back to the reservation," he said, and the resulting poverty and frustration "adds to the alcoholism problem."

Smith, who was business manager for the tribe, has headed the alcoholism program for one month.

Some areas of agreement have been reached with the Thurston County courts, he said.

Problem With Enforcement

"We've had a little problem with law enforcement ... and that's an understatement."

Celeste Wiseblood, assistant director of the commission, said her agency could live with the operational budget figures in the tentative appropriations bill if at least $25,000 is added for alcoholism programs.

The commission's $118,959 budget request was reduced to $91,679 in the tentative budget bill. Its current appropriation is $107,736.

In other budget hearings, Mexican-American Commission Director Stan Porras told the committee that his agency "has not had the working relationship we should have had" with the Indian Commission.

The two agencies share a western Nebraska regional office in Scottsbluff.

'Not Paid Share'

But, Porras said, the Indian Commission has not paid its full share of the costs.

Legislature stories on Pages 7, 8

The Mexican-American Commission budget has already borne $2,400 in Scottsbluff costs which should have been paid by the Indian Commission, he said. Altogether, he said, the Indian Commission probably owes the Mexican-American Commission some $3,200 in reimbursements.

Porras has requested a 1976-77 budget of $109,450.

The committee's tentative bill sets the figure at $94,006, compared to $88,561 for fiscal 1975-76.

Day Care Firm Challenges Law

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The constitutionality of a state law on the operation of day care centers has been challenged in a suit filed in Lancaster District Court.

The suit was filed by Mary Moppet Day Care Schools, which has Phoenix, Ariz., as its principal place of business, and operates four centers in Lincoln.

The suit contends the law illegally gives the State Welfare Department a "free hand without legislative limits or standards" to draw up regulations on day care center operation.

Because of these provisions, the suit contends, the State Welfare Department has been given an arbitrary power over the "economic life and death" of day care centers.

'Shutdown Threatened'

The suit claims the state has threatened to shut down the Mary Moppet Day Care Schools unless they comply with the regulations.

Larry Nedrow, director of the division of social services in the Welfare Department, said perhaps the litigation will settle some of the major issues of day care center licensing, which he said is a "difficult, emotional issue."

Nedrow said the suit was filed after the Welfare Department took a stand on its four-year-old regulations and ordered Mary Moppet to meet requirements on staff-to-children ratios.

Enforcement of the 1971 law has been blocked temporarily by an order of Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin.

Injunction Sought

The order remains in effect until he rules on another request for a preliminary injunction, which would block enforcement of the law while the case is being heard.

A hearing on the request for the preliminary injunction is set for Jan. 29. Unless the injunction is granted, the suit contends, the Mary Moppet Day Care Schools in Lincoln will "be put out of business completely."

In addition to arguing that the law unconstitutionally gives a state agency the power to draw up regulations with no legislative standards on which to base them, the suit argues that the law itself is unnecessary to provide the proper care and protection of children in day care centers.

Objections Listed

Among the provisions of the regulations put out by the Welfare Department which are objected to specifically in the suit are:

—a requirement of a ratio of one staff person to every seven children between the ages of 2 and 5, and one staff person to every five children below the age of 2.

The suit claims Mary Moppet cannot provide those ratios of staff personnel to children.

—a requirement that day care centers report changes in the marital status of families of children in the centers, as well as changes for owners and employes of day care centers.

—a requirement that prospective buyers of day care centers be referred to the division of social services in the Welfare Department. The suit claims there are no regulations on what happens after such a referral.

—what the suit terms the illegal delegation of responsibilities of state employes to county employes.

Named as defendants in the suit are: Allen H. Ihms, director of the Department; Larry E. Nedrow, director of the social services division in the Welfare Department; Glenda Johnston, Region 5 licensing specialist; and J.G. Lemonds, public welfare director for Lancaster County.

Teen Sights For Olympics

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Eric Lowenberg is aiming for bigger stakes than a bulls-eye when he pulls the trigger of his target rifles.

The Pius X freshman is shooting for a spot on the U.S. Army marksmanship unit. Although making the unit is still a long way down the road, he sees that team as a stepping stone for most U.S. Olympic shooters. And he'd like to be among them some day.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lowenberg, 3103 S. 35, Eric likes competitive riflery because "it gives a guy a goal in life."

The 15-year-old began shooting about three years ago when he took some classes with the city recreation department. He still shoots for the city team and teaches some of their beginners classes.

Range In Basement

When Eric feels like practicing, he doesn't have far to go The rifle enthusiast has set up a range of sorts in his basement at home.

He can count out 10 meters and take aim at his targets which are backed by foam rubber and steel plates to absorb the shells and pellets

The young marksman spends at least an hour each night practicing precision at his home-made range.

Also tucked away in the basement is Eric's gun room where he mixes his own high power loads and stores his equipment.

"You'll never find two people who will agree on loads," says Eric. Accuracy is affected by the different types of powder mixtures and Eric likes preparing a load that suits him best. Besides, loading his own is a money-saving venture.

But Eric hasn't stinted on equipment, which includes three target rifles, an air rifle, a spotting scope and a rifle scope. However, he's quick to point out that he's paid for everything with his own earnings.

Glasses May Help

Constantly working to improve his precision, Eric just found out that he needs glasses. "That ought to help," he says.

Recognizing that not everyone is interested in guns, Eric feels that "people should at least know gun safety and understand the gun. Then they wouldn't be for gun control."

"It's the person who commits the crime, not the gun Instead of gun control, the U.S. needs tougher prison sentences for repeat offenders."

Although Eric likes the convenience of his indoor range, he prefers to shoot outdoors.

"The wind gives you more of a challenge and you don't have all the noise," he explained

Butz Irritates Farmers On Soil Conservation Issue

By The Associated Press

Farmers were up in arms Friday over Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' claim that a government program providing millions of dollars for things like soil conservation is a waste of money.

Ronny White, one of a three-member board that administers the program in Texas County, Okla., said, "I certainly don't feel the money is wasted ... It's used on very useful projects. I don't know what the farmer would do without it."

This was not the first time Butz aroused the ire of farmers. He also recently criticized some agricultural cooperatives and farm groups attacked him for supporting the temporary embargo on grain sales to Russia. Consumer groups, meanwhile, repeatedly have accused the secretary and his department of ignoring their interests

Butz, speaking to a farmers' group in Iowa earlier this week, said the Agricultural Conservation Program is simply "the rural congressman's pork barrel ... nine-tenths of this is a waste of money."

Iowa state officials said the $6 8 million they get will be used for "highly-visible, long-life (conservation) practices."

A USDA spokesman said $175 million had been allocated by Congress for the nationwide program this year The money goes to farmers in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands with amounts ranging from a low of $18,000 in the Virgin Islands to a high of almost $14.8 million in Texas.

The money generally is used to provide matching grants of up to $2,500 to farmers to encourage them to prevent soil erosion, improve irrigation programs and provide crop rotation

There have been previous efforts to cut or eliminate the program and encourage farmers to practice conservation on their own, according to a USDA spokesman, but most have been beaten back Is the expenditure a waste of federal money?

"It all depends," said the USDA spokesman, declining to give a definite answer. "Should a farmer be paid for using good land practices?

The Associated Press surveyed the seven states receiving more than $5 million each in the current allocation — Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota. Most officials said the money went for projects that farmers would not normally undertake or be able to afford

In Minnesota, which has an allocation of almost $6 1 million David McCollum, director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for Kandiyohi County said, "Without the federal funds there would be many many farmers who would not go ahead with conservation"

Harold Hunter, executive director of the Stabilization and Conservation Service in Stillwater, Okla., agreed "We had a year (1973) when we did not have any cost-sharing because the Department of Agriculture had suspended the program During that year there was a statistically supportable reduction in the amount of conservation work done Terraces to reduce erosion did not get built ..."

Recovery On Steady Course

Washington (UPI) — Economic recovery continued on a healthy course in December as the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities rose 1%, the Federal Reserve Board reported Friday

It was the eighth consecutive month industrial production has increased since the recession touched bottom last April, the board said

It said "strong and widespread" gains in consumer goods business equipment and materials accounted for the overall rise in production

A surge in auto production and continued strength in home goods, such as appliances and household furnishings, were credited for the strong increase in durable consumer products.

Production of computers, typewriters and other business equipment also showed a big improvement. However, business equipment production still is only slightly above the depressed levels of last spring.

Production of durable goods material, particularly steel, improved substantially in December over November levels Non-durable goods production also advanced.

The board revised November's increase-in-production figures from 0.2% to 0.5%. In October, production rose 0.4%.

The industrial production index in September stood at 118.5, above the 1967 base of 100. This is up 8% from last April's low, but still 9% below September 1974.

For the fourth quarter as a whole, the index rose 2.9% from the third quarter, when it increased 3.4%.

Discount Rate Cut To 5.5%

Washington (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board announced Friday a reduction to 5.5% the interest rate charged by the central bank on loans to member banks

The Federal Reserve action, following a continuous decline in the key prime rate charged by commercial banks to their best customers was an indication that the Fed is following suit

The interest rate charged member banks in the Federal Reserve System had been at 6% since May

Adjustments in the discount rate can be used by the Fed in an effort to affect general economic activity by either raising or lowering the costs of borrowing and thus affecting the growth of the money supply.

But a brief statement accompanying the Fed action indicated that the latest move was more a recognition of existing market conditions rather than any attempt to lead the economy in one direction or another.

"The action is intended to bring the discount rate into better alignment with other short-term rates, which have recently declined," the Fed said

Prime Rate Down

From Press Reports

New York — The trend-setting First National City Bank of New York lowered its prime rate Friday from 7% to 6.75%, the lowest since June 6, 1975.

It was the second consecutive weekly rate reduction by the nation's second largest bank in the rate it charges on loans to its most creditworthy business borrowers.

Citibank said the cut takes effect Monday. Banking observers expect the 6.75% rate to spread. Friday afternoon Manufacturers Bank of Los Angeles reduced its prime rate to the new figure

Syria, Egypt Disagree

United Nations, N.Y. — Sharp differences between Egypt and Syria, diplomats at the United Nations said, have prevented the Arab bloc from agreeing on a draft resolution that could be submitted to the Security Council for action during the Middle East debate. The behind-the-scenes debate, it was said, has focused on whether to submit a resolution, favored by Syria, that would be so extreme that it would invite not only the United States, but other council members to vote against it. The Egyptians have proposed instead that there be two resolutions introduced, one would be a mildly worded paragraph calling for recognition of the Palestinian national or political rights. The other would be concerned with Middle East diplomacy and would include the usual Arab demand for Israel's complete withdrawal from all Arab land occupied in the June 1967 war.

Labor HQ Raided

The arrests apparently destroyed a newly formed committee to coordinate the strike movement of more than 100,000 workers in the Madrid area and reflected the tough stand the government was taking. At the same time, the government was encouraging negotiation to end the strikes.

Ford To Propose Boost In Social Security Taxes

Washington (AP) — A $4.2 billion increase in Social Security taxes in 1977 and a rise in defense spending will be proposed by President Ford in the new budget he will send to Congress on Wednesday, it was learned Friday

Ford will propose an increase of three-tenths of one per cent in the Social Security tax rate, effective Jan 1, 1977. It would raise the total tax for both employes and employers to 6.15 per cent of an employe's salary, up from the current tax of 5.85 per cent

The maximum Social Security tax for an individual would be about $1,014 in 1977, up from $895 in the current year Even without the increase proposed by Ford, it was estimated the maximum tax would total $965 in 1977 That is because of automatic changes according to a formula pegged to increases in the nation's average wage rates.

For example, a worker earning $16,500 or more in 1977 would pay the maximum tax of about $1,014 under Ford's proposal If he earned $10,000, he would pay $615 for the year, or $11.80 per week. The employe's tax would be matched by the employer

Government analysts have said the Social Security tax may apply to the first $16,500 of a worker's gross income in 1977, up from $15,300 this year and $14,100 in 1975

But the maximum income level could increase even more, since the level is adjusted automatically to reflect increases in the nation's average wage rates.

Ford's over-all budget for 1977 will call for expenditures of $394 billion and provide for revenues of $351 billion, leaving a deficit for the year of $43 billion.

In addition to the Social Security tax increase, Ford's budget also will propose.

— Defense outlays of $101 billion, up from about $92 billion in fiscal 1976. Ford will say the increase is necessar to maintain a strong defense posture

— Consolidation of various grants to states for health programs, child nutrition programs, education for handicapped persons and social services for the elederly.

— A reduction of $10 billion in individual income taxes to carry out the $28 billion tax drecrease the President proposed in October

— A change in the Medicare program for the elderly to increase both contributions and coverage.

— A modest reduction in government employment, including some civilians in defense agencies The cuts would be accomplished largely through attrition rather than by layoffs.

Ford will depart from past proposals for a five per cent ceiling on cost of living increases for Social Security recipients. Instad, he will support full increases for Social Security and other government retirement programs

The President will tell Congress in his budget message that although an increase in Social Security taxes may prove unpopular, it is needed because the trust fund that finances the progrm is rapidly running out of funds

The fund ran a deficit of $3 billion in 1975, and this could increase to $5.4 billion in 1976 and $5.7 billion in 1977. Government analysts have estimated that the fund could run entirely out of money by the end of the decade without additional help.

Leading congressional Democrats already have indicated they would favor an increase in the tax. Ford's proposed increase would raise an estimated $4.2 billion in new funds in 1977, analysts said.

With respect to Medicare, Ford will propose increasing contributions to the program in return for changes in coverage.

Air Force Enters Lebanese Strife

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Government jets strafed Palestinian and Moslem positions next to Beirut airport Friday in the first air force strike of Lebanon's nine-month-old civil war. Hundreds of casualties were reported in both the strafing and in fighting at half a dozen localities.

Two British-built Hawker Hunter jets hit a Moslem-Palestinian force on a highway south of Beirut, then fired on guerrilla positions at the nearby Bourj Brajneh Palestinian refugee camp after taking antiaircraft fire from there, military sources said.

A spokesman for Middle East Airlines said Beirut International Airport was closed for about an hour during the jet attack.

Police said 116 persons were killed and 200 wounded in fighting in the last 24 hours, boosting the death toll since April to over 9,000. The fighting is over Moslem demands for political and economic reforms and Christian resistance to them until the government clamps down on the Palestinian guerrillas.

The armed forces, under Christian command, have been technically neutral in the fighting. But Moslem Premier Rashid Karami protested the jet attack to Christian President Suleiman Franjieh, pointing out that he is also defense minister and asking who ordered the attack, government sorces said.

Franjieh reportedly replied that he knew nothing about it.

Military sources said the planes attacked "unnamed elements" that seized an army convoy en route to evacuate casualties from Damour, a Christian town under attack south of Beirut by Moslem-Palestinian forces.

Palestinian guerrillas and tough Moslem Druze mountaineers assaulting the town of 12,000 said Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, a Christian and a former president, called for army, navy and air force intervention to rescue Damour.

A spokesman for Chamoun's National Liberal Party said Christians were fighting house-to-house against attackers who came into Damour's eastern edge, "committing a terrible massacre killing 30 women and children." Chamoun's mansion is a mile from the town.

Israelis, Jordanians Meet

By United Press International

Israeli and Jordanian leaders have met secretly to explore the possibility of negotiating a bilateral interim Middle East peace accord, it was disclosed Friday.

Diplomatic sources in Washington said Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Jordan's King Hussein have held at least one secret meeting and may meet again.

The sources said President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger helped arrange the meeting, using American diplomats in Jerusalem and Amman as intermediaries.

The Washington diplomats indicated Hussein and Rabin met near the Jordan River, which has divided their two countries since Israel captured the West Bank region during the 1967 Middle East war.

Soviet Union Predicts Overthrow Of Mao

The New York Times

Moscow — The Soviet Union Friday unleashed its harshest verbal attack on China in recent months, accusing Peking of launching a new anti-Soviet propaganda offensive and predicting that the Chinese people would eventually overthrow the regime of Mao Tse-tung

The attack was leveled by the Communist Party organ Pravda in a commentary signed by I Aleksandrov considered a pseudonym for a Kremlin official Despite its tough language the lengthy commentary attracted the attention of diplomatic circles here more for its timing than its contents, which generally buttressed previous arguments in Moscow's war of polemics with Peking.

It confirmed a belief here that the release last month of a Soviet helicopter crew held captive in China for nearly 21 months did not signal the prospect of warmer relations between the two countries Soviet insiders have confessed they were mystified by the motives for the release of the three border guards, in which Peking accepted the Soviet version that the helicopter had strayed by accident into Chinese territory when caught in March 1974.

The Soviet crewmen have been kept under wraps since their tersely noted return to Moscow nearly three weeks ago.

Friday's Pravda article followed the windup of China's period of mourning for the late Premier Chou En-lai, indicating that Moscow saw no advantage to restraining its polemics in hopes that more moderate leaders might emerge in Peking to seek reconciliation with Moscow.

Chou's death prompted only brief condolences from the Soviet Council of Ministers in the official press and was not noted publicly by the top Kremlin leadership Kirill T. Mazurov, a first deputy premier and Politburo member, headed a small delegation signing the book of condolences at the Chinese embassy

The Kremlin newspaper insisted that "the time will come when they (the Chinese people) will discard the fetters preventing them from marching forward to real freedom and prosperity in conditions of socialism and will call to answer those who are now trying to poison their minds with Maoist racings and humiliating their dignity."

But Pravda, while contending that "this will happen, for history is a strict judge," offered no timetable In fact, Soviet hints that an uprising in China was inevitable have been expressed before, including by party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev in a major policy speech in Mongolia 14 months ago.

Colorado Has A Gold Drain

Denver (UPI) — A Colorado lawmaker says you do not have to travel to the Rockies to find gold. Just stand under the drainspouts at the state capitol.

The 250 ounces of gold which have been used to adorn the impressive dome of the capitol are gradually washing away.

"I guess you could say a lot of money is going down the drain," said Sen. Hugh Fowler.

Fowler said he would prepare legislation to create a capitol commission to look into various problems at the building, including a contract to spray the dome with some type of bonding agent to keep the gold in place. Similar legislation which he introduced last year was killed in the Colorado House.

Judge: Patty Must Take Tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Declaring "the government has a right to choose its own experts," a federal judge on Friday ordered Patricia Hearst to submit to further psychiatric examination by a prosecution psychiatrist she contends drove her to hysteria with accusing questions.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter also warned that if the defense failed to comply, he would not hesitate to impose "appropriate sanctions" during the newspaper heiress' bank robbery trial starting Jan. 26. He said these could include "the exclusion of the testimony of any expert witness offered by the defendant on the issue of her mental state."

Prosecutors declined comment on the ruling, and Miss Hearst's attorneys were not available immediately.

Carter ruled that the defense failed to show during a two-day hearing that Dr. Harry Kozol of Boston was "oppressive, or otherwise unprofessional" in his conduct during a Jan. 7 interview with Miss Hearst. He said the defense failed to convince him that Kozol should not be allowed "to continue in his role as a potential expert witness for the government and to resume his interviews with the defendant

"At most, the record establishes that at the particular time of her interview with Dr. Kozol, the defendant was not in the proper frame of mind to submit herself to further psychiatric questioning and that the wisest course of action for all concerned would have been to postpone the interview to another day," Carter said.

Recovery On Steady Course

Washington (UPI) — Economic recovery continued on a healthy course in December as the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities rose 1%, the Federal Reserve Board reported Friday.

It was the eighth consecutive month industrial production has increased since the recession touched bottom last April, the board said.

It said "strong and widespread" gains in consumer goods, business equipment and materials accounted for the overall rise in production.

A surge in auto production and continued strength in home goods, such as appliances and household furnishings, were credited for the strong increase in durable consumer products.

Production of computers, typewriters and other business equipment also showed a big improvement. However, business equipment production still is only slightly above the depressed levels of last spring.

Production of durable goods material, particularly steel, improved substantially in December over November levels. Non-durable goods production also advanced.

The board revised November's increase-in-production figures from 0.2% to 0.5%. In October, production rose 0.4%.

The industrial production index in September stood at 118.5, above the 1967 base of 100. This is up 8% from last April's low, but still 9% below September 1974.

For the fourth quarter as a whole, the index rose 2.9% from the third quarter, when it increased 3.4%.

Discount Rate Cut To 5.5%

Washington (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board announced Friday a reduction to 5.5% the interest rate charged by the central bank on loans to member banks.

The Federal Reserve action, following a continuous decline in the key prime rate charged by commercial banks to their best customers, was an indication that the Fed is following suit.

The interest rate charged member banks in the Federal Reserve System had been at 6% since May.

Adjustments in the discount rate can be used by the Fed in an effort to affect general economic activity by either raising or lowering the costs of borrowing and thus affecting the growth of the money supply.

But a brief statement accompanying the Fed action indicated that the latest move was more a recognition of existing market conditions rather than any attempt to lead the economy in one direction or another.

"The action is intended to bring the discount rate into better alignment with other short-term rates, which have recently declined," the Fed said.

Citibank said the cut takes effect Monday. Banking observers expect the 6.75% rate to spread. Friday afternoon Manufacturers Bank of Los Angeles reduced its prime rate to the new figure.

Ford To Propose Boost In Social Security Taxes

Washington (AP) — A $4.2 billion increase in Social Security taxes in 1977 and a rise in defense spending will be proposed by President Ford in the new budget he will send to Congress on Wednesday, it was learned Friday.

Ford will propose an increase of three-tenths of one per cent in the Social Security tax rate, effective Jan. 1, 1977. It would raise the total tax for both employes and employers to 6.15 per cent of an employe's salary, up from the current tax of 5.85 per cent.

The maximum Social Security tax for an individual would be about $1,014 in 1977, up from $895 in the current year. Even without the increase proposed by Ford, it was estimated the maximum tax would total $965 in 1977. That is because of automatic changes according to a formula pegged to increases in the nation's average wage rates.

For example, a worker earning $16,500 or more in 1977 would pay the maximum tax of about $1,014 under Ford's proposal. If he earned $10,000, he would pay $615 for the year, or $11.80 per week. The employe's tax would be matched by the employer.

Government analysts have said the Social Security tax may apply to the first $16,500 of a worker's gross income in 1977, up from $15,300 this year and $14,100 in 1975.

But the maximum income level could increase even more, since the level is adjusted automatically to reflect increases in the nation's average wage rates.

Ford's over-all budget for 1977 will call for expenditures of $394 billion and provide for revenues of $351 billion, leaving a deficit for the year of $43 billion.

In addition to the Social Security tax increase, Ford's budget also will propose:

— Defense outlays of $101 billion, up from about $92 billion in fiscal 1976. Ford will say the increase is necessar to maintain a strong defense posture.

— Consolidation of various grants to states for health programs, child nutrition programs, education for handicapped persons and social services for the elederly.

— A reduction of $10 billion in individual income taxes to carry out the $28 billion tax drecrease the President proposed in October.

— A change in the Medicare program for the elderly to increase both contributions and coverage.

— A modest reduction in government employment, including some civilians in defense agencies. The cuts would be accomplished largely through attrition rather than by layoffs.

Ford will depart from past proposals for a five per cent ceiling on cost of living increases for Social Security recipients. Instad, he will support full increases for Social Security and other government retirement programs.

The President will tell Congress in his budget message that although an increase in Social Security taxes may prove unpopular, it is needed because the trust fund that finances the progrm is rapidly running out of funds.

The fund ran a deficit of $3 billion in 1975, and this could increase to $5.4 billion in 1976 and $5.7 billion in 1977. Government analysts have estimated that the fund could run entirely out of money by the end of the decade without additional help.

Leading congressional Democrats already have indicated they would favor an increase in the tax. Ford's proposed increase would raise an estimated $4.2 billion in new funds in 1977, analysts said.

With respect to Medicare, Ford will propose increasing contributions to the program in return for changes in coverage.

The 250 ounces of gold which have been used to adorn the impressive dome of the capitol are gradually washing away.

"I guess you could say a lot of money is going down the drain," said Sen. Hugh Fowler.

Fowler said he would prepare legislation to create a capitol commission to look into various problems at the building, including a contract to spray the dome with some type of bonding agent to keep the gold in place. Similar legislation which he introduced last year was killed in the Colorado House.

Source Says Settlement Appears Imminent In Newsprint Industry

Montreal (AP) — A contract settlement between the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU) and the Eastern Canada Newsprint Group appears imminent, an industry source said Friday.

The source said "we are very close to an agreement in the bargaining . . ."

A CPU spokesman at the union's headquarters here declined to comment.

The industry source said "odds are any settlement tonight might be expected to be closely in line with Anti-Inflation Board recommendations" which call for an agreement lifting wages 14% in the first year and 8½% in the second.

Members of the Eatern Canada Newsprint Group are Domtar, Ltd.'s Dolbeau, Que., newsprint mill; Reed Paper Ltd.'s Quebec City Mill, McLaren Power & Paper Co. Ltd.; Buckingham, Que., Mill, and Ontario Paper, which is a unit of The Tribune Co. of Chicago.

Judge: Patty Must Take Tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Declaring "the government has a right to choose its own experts," a federal judge on Friday ordered Patricia Hearst to submit to further psychiatric examination by a prosecution psychiatrist she contends drove her to hysteria with accusing questions.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter also warned that if the defense failed to comply, he would not hesitate to impose "appropriate sanctions" during the newspaper heiress' bank robbery trial starting Jan. 26. He said these could include "the exclusion of the testimony of any expert witness offered by the defendant on the issue of her mental state."

Prosecutors declined comment on the ruling, and Miss Hearst's attorneys were not available immediately.

Carter ruled that the defense failed to show during a two-day hearing that Dr. Harry Kozol of Boston was "oppressive, or otherwise unprofessional" in his conduct during a Jan. 7 interview with Miss Hearst. He said the defense failed to convince him that Kozol should not be allowed "to continue in his role as a potential expert witness for the government and to resume his interviews with the defendant . . .

"'At most, the record establishes that at the particular time of her interview with Dr. Kozol, the defendant was not in the proper frame of mind to submit herself to further psychiatric questioning and that the wisest course of action for all concerned would have been to postpone the interview to another day," Carter said.

County Personnel Proposal Discussed

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The Lancaster County Board is inching its way along to a possible solution to its personnel system problems.

A proposal to have the city personnel office take over all county personnel operations was discussed at three separate meetings this week.

City Personnel Manager Walt Mitchell and Civil Service representative Vic Young met with some elected county officials Thursday night, with the mayor and county commissioners Friday morning and with the county's Personnel Advisory Board Friday afternoon.

Currently, the county contracts with the city personnel for recruitment services, but still maintains a county personnel staff for other duties.

Under the new proposal, the county would contract with the city for all personnel services and a person would be hired by the city to act as the county personnel "desk man".

This desk man would be responsible for seeing that the county's personnel needs were covered and could coordinate city-provided services to county departments.

Employed By City

The current proposal would make this individual a city employe rather than a county employe.

Though this county desk person would work out of the city personnel office, he would be the "front man" for the county department heads and would make certain that their needs were met and their gripes answered.

This person, who would be hired from outside the current county and city personnel staffs would have to be grounded in personnel knowledge plus be a good salesman, Mitchell said. He will have to sell himself and the personnel services to elected county officials, who in the past have distrusted the personnel system.

"This would kind of neutralize the current situation," Mitchell said.

Things Wanted

Currently elected county officials want two things — the personnel office removed physically from the county commissioner's area and the current personnel officer removed from his position, said Wayne Hart, personnel officer.

"This (having the desk man a city employe) would defuse the idea that the County Board is trying to run everything," Mitchell said.

The county would still have some leverage through the interlocal contract, which could be broken if the city does not supply the needed personnel services.

But many elected county officials and employes do not like the idea of the city completely taking over the county operation.

Draft Circulated

Fearing that the elected officials might not get enough input into the new proposal, the county Personnel Advisory Board asked that the agreement draft be sent to all department heads and the employe group before any final action is taken.

The concept of having a county-oriented staff person working in the city personnel shop is the right one, Young told the various groups.

But the actual success of the operation will still depend on the cooperation of the elected officials, he said.

Three Men Charged In Stanard's IGA Robbery

Three Lincoln men were charged with robbery Friday in connection with the strong-arm robbery early Thursday morning of Stanard's IGA, at 13th and K.

They were Melvin L. Clark, 22, of 800 S. 16th, Apt. 109, James E. McGee, 25, of 1729 K, Apt. 5, and Edward C. Greer, 24, of 1729 K, Apt. 6.

A preliminary hearing for the three men will be set on Jan. 27. Bond for each was set at $5,000.

A Stanard's cashier said two of the men came to the counter with groceries when the third man grabbed her from behind and took more than $300 in bills from the cash register.

The robbery occurred at about 1 a.m. The men were arrested a short time later. Police said they had been questioned a few minutes before the robbery on a routine check.

Secolo Barocco Ensemble Vibrant After Slow Start

By MAX HOLLAND
Star Staff Writer

The Friends of Chamber Music concert Friday was a lesson in the intricacies of performing as well as an evening of baroque and classical music.

Few concerts assume importance outside the confines of the concert hall. But inside it is different. Any omission or indiscretion treads over a musician's delicate sensibilities.

In this case, five musicians made up the Secolo Barocco ensemble. It hardly seems possible they were prepared for Friday's events.

First, the concert was delayed by about 10 minutes to find sufficient seats for the capacity audience at Sheldon Auditorium. No more than a few bars into the first piece, a quintet by the Flemish composer Jean-Baptiste Loeillet (1680-1730), it was evident the school of music's harpsichord was out of tune in the upper register.

The intemperate harpsichord plagued the ensemble all evening. But the final blow proved to be the program notes. The notes said the Loeillet work was not authentic but arranged by French editors in the early 20th century. Flutist Michel Debost took exception to this view and said so.

The combination of these events unnerved the ensemble. The difficulties were compounded by the inclusion of works by Loeillet and the early French classical composer Francois Devienne.

Playing works by secondary composers certainly is not easier than profound works by "great" composers, and in a curious way, it might even be more difficult. The audience expects the musician to make the piece as worthy of hearing as a great work, and this requires consummate ability.

The ensemble did commit a few obvious mistakes, but that is not really the point. Rather, their music-making was altogether too tight and timid. There were only glimmers of the fluency one expects to hear.

When the ensemble turned to J.C. Bach's Quintet in D major to end the first half of the program, his light, elegant style seemed out of their reach. But slowly they warmed to it. Debost's flute tone was nothing short of outstanding. But still, as a whole, the ensemble played with tenuous control of the music.

There was a striking change after the intermission. Suddenly the ensemble ventured to make music, first in Jean-Philippe Rameau's Pieces en Concert No. 5, and then Haydn's London Trio No. 1 in C major. Contrary to the earlier retiring sound, this was a robust sound. The ensemble listened to each other, but now they liked what they heard, the harpsichord notwithstanding.

The amiable Haydn brought out the best music-making of the evening. Or perhaps it was that the ensemble brought out the best music. Whatever, here was a vitality and sensitivity lacking earlier.

By then the quintet had settled down, and in the Vivaldi Concerto in G minor which followed, they continued to provide radiant and exuberant music. A short encore of a piece by Boismortier closed the program.

Koefoot Seeking Post Re-Election

Grand Island (UPI) — Dr. Robert Koefoot said he will run for re-election to a second six-year on the University of Nebraska Board of Rents.

Koefoot has been a board member since 1971 and served as president in 1973. He represents the board's 5th district, which includes 22 central Nebraska counties.

Parole Violation Puts Ott In Jail

Grand Island (UPI) — Hall County District Judge L.W. Kelly Jr. Friday sentenced Mark Ott, 19, to from two to four years in the State Penitentiary for violation of parole.

Ott pleaded guilty in November 1974, to grand larceny for theft of wire mesh from a truck repair shop. He was placed on 15 months probation, which was extended another 15 months last August.

City's Plan Opposed By Humane Society

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Humane Society directors don't think much of the proposed city takeover of many of the agency's duties.

The board said statistics show that other cities which have set up their own animal control agencies "have experienced increased costs rather than more economical operation."

The board held a special meeting Thursday night to discuss the recent publicity surrounding the Humane Society's operations and decided to take a public stand on the issues, reported board President Dr. Robert White.

In a prepared statement, the board noted there had been "considerable attention" given to the Humane Society recently and wanted to clarify the agency's position.

"Our organization is not a ward of any governmental agency," the board stressed. The Humane Society is a private entity.

However, the agency does receive $25,000 from the city for its operations.

A Pet Committee, appointed by the City Council, is recommending that a separate animal control division be set up either in the Police Department or Health Department. The council hasn't made a decision on that matter yet.

In making the public statement, Humane Society board members pointed out that they are "dedicated to the welfare of all animals."

The board also pointed out that last year police officers were authorized to issue citations to pet owners for violations of animal control laws — authority the Humane Society officers did not have.

Some board members have been upset over the recent news accounts of controversies surrounding the Humane Society. Much of the controversy has centered around personnel problems and the job being done by director Bernard Patton.

Some members of the board have been reluctant to make changes recommended by Dr. White and other board members.

The board said the public is invited to attend the board's monthly meetings. The next meeting will be held at 11 a.m. Feb. 10, at the Red Rooster.

Tax Breaks Urged For Insulation

The Lincoln Electric System Administrative Board called upon Congress Friday to offer tax credits to homeowners and businessmen who install adequate insulation in their buildings.

The LES Board has been urging Lincolnites to install adequate insulation in order to save on energy consumption.

The tax credits, if offered by Congress, would result in significant savings of energy.

Board member Betty McClendon, who has pushed for a new city law on insulation standards, was critical of city efforts in adopting new legislation.

Superintendent of Building Inspections Charles Seale told the board that a task force is being formed to work on new insulation standards.

Mrs. McClendon said she couldn't understand why it took three years to get this far and said the way bureaucracy was moving it would take another three years to come up with a proposal to present to the City Council.

Seale responded, "There are many technical matters holding this up nationally."

"I appreciate that," said Mrs. McClendon, "but I don't accept it."

Seale promised to have some recommendations by May.

In other business the board re-elected Tom Allman as chairman of the board, re-elected Larry Connealy as vice chairman and Nick Bashara as secretary-treasurer.

Claude Dickens To Join LES

A veteran of 24 years in the electric utility business has been named manager of the Lincoln Electric System's accounting and finance division.

LES Administrator Walt Canney announced Friday that Claude Dickens, from Kansas City, Kan., will head the office.

Dickens is currently with the Board of Public Utilities in Kansas City. Previously, he held accounting positions with utilities in Springfield, Mo and San Antonio, Tex.

Canney said Dickens will be responsible for long-range planning, construction activities and overall system improvements. LES prepares one-year, six-year and 10-year financial and system improvement plans.

Secolo Barocco Ensemble Vibrant After Slow Start

By MAX HOLLAND
Star Staff Writer

The Friends of Chamber Music concert Friday was a lesson in the intricacies of performing as well as an evening of baroque and classical music.

Few concerts assume importance outside the confines of the concert hall. But inside it is different. Any omission or indiscretion treads over a musician's delicate sensibilities.

In this case, five musicians made up the Secolo Barocco ensemble. It hardly seems possible they were prepared for Friday's events.

First, the concert was delayed by about 10 minutes to find sufficient seats for the capacity audience at Sheldon Auditorium. No more than a few bars into the first piece, a quintet by the Flemish composer Jean-Baptiste Loeillet (1680-1730), it was evident the school of music's harpsichord was out of tune in the upper register.

The intemperate harpsichord plagued the ensemble all evening. But the final blow proved to be the program notes. The notes said the Loeillet work was not authentic but arranged by French editors in the early 20th century. Flutist Michel Debost took exception to this view and said so.

The combination of these events unnerved the ensemble. The difficulties were compounded by the inclusion of works by Loeillet and the early French classical composer Francois Devienne.

Playing works by secondary composers certainly is not easier than profound works by "great" composers, and in a curious way, it might even be more difficult. The audience expects the musician to make the piece as worthy of hearing as a great work, and this requires consummate ability.

The ensemble did commit a few obvious mistakes, but that is not really the point. Rather, their music-making was altogether too tight and timid. There were only glimmers of the fluency one expects to hear.

When the ensemble turned to J.C. Bach's Quintet in D major to end the first half of the program, his light, elegant style seemed out of their reach. But slowly they warmed to it. Debost's flute tone was nothing short of outstanding. But still, as a whole, the ensemble played with tenuous control of the music.

There was a striking change after the intermission. Suddenly the ensemble ventured to make music, first in Jean-Philippe Rameau's Pieces en Concert No. 5, and then Haydn's London Trio No. 1 in C major. Contrary to the earlier retiring sound, this was a robust sound. The ensemble listened to each other, but now they liked what they heard, the harpsichord notwithstanding.

The amiable Haydn brought out the best music-making of the evening. Or perhaps it was that the ensemble brought out the best music. Whatever, here was a vitality and sensitivity lacking earlier.

By then the quintet had settled down, and in the Vivaldi Concerto in G minor which followed, they continued to provide radiant and exuberant music. A short encore of a piece by Boismortier closed the program.

Koefoot Seeking Post Re-Election

Grand Island (UPI) — Dr. Robert Koefoot said he will run for re-election to a second six-year on the University of Nebraska Board of Rents.

Koefoot has been a board member since 1971 and served as president in 1973. He represents the board's 5th district, which includes 22 central Nebraska counties.

Parole Violation Puts Ott In Jail

Grand Island (UPI) — Hall County District Judge L.W. Kelly Jr. Friday sentenced Mark Ott, 19, to from two to four years in the State Penitentiary for violation of parole.

Ott pleaded guilty in November 1974, to grand larceny for theft of wire mesh from a truck repair shop. He was placed on 15 months probation, which was extended another 15 months last August.

City's Plan Opposed By Humane Society

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Humane Society directors don't think much of the proposed city takeover of many of the agency's duties.

The board said statistics show that other cities which have set up their own animal control agencies "have experienced increased costs rather than more economical operation."

The board held a special meeting Thursday night to discuss the recent publicity surrounding the Humane Society's operations and decided to take a public stand on the issues, reported board President Dr. Robert White.

In a prepared statement, the board noted there had been "considerable attention" given to the Humane Society recently and wanted to clarify the agency's position.

"Our organization is not a ward of any governmental agency," the board stressed. The Humane Society is a private entity.

However, the agency does receive $25,000 from the city for its operations.

A Pet Committee, appointed by the City Council, is recommending that a separate animal control division be set up either in the Police Department or Health Department. The council hasn't made a decision on that matter yet.

In making the public statement, Humane Society board members pointed out that they are "dedicated to the welfare of all animals."

The board also pointed out that last year police officers were authorized to issue citations to pet owners for violations of animal control laws — authority the Humane Society officers did not have.

Some board members have been upset over the recent news accounts of controversies surrounding the Humane Society. Much of the controversy has centered around personnel problems and the job being done by director Bernard Patton.

Some members of the board have been reluctant to make changes recommended by Dr. White and other board members.

The board said the public is invited to attend the board's monthly meetings. The next meeting will be held at 11 a.m. Feb. 10, at the Red Rooster.

Tax Breaks Urged For Insulation

The Lincoln Electric System Administrative Board called upon Congress Friday to offer tax credits to homeowners and businessmen who install adequate insulation in their buildings.

The LES Board has been urging Lincolnites to install adequate insulation in order to save on energy consumption.

The tax credits, if offered by Congress, would result in significant savings of energy.

Board member Betty McClendon, who has pushed for a new city law on insulation standards, was critical of city efforts in adopting new legislation.

Superintendent of Building Inspections Charles Seale told the board that a task force is being formed to work on new insulation standards.

Mrs. McClendon said she couldn't understand why it took three years to get this far and said the way bureaucracy was moving it would take another three years to come up with a proposal to present to the City Council.

Seale responded, "There are many technical matters holding this up nationally."

"I appreciate that," said Mrs. McClendon, "but I don't accept it."

Seale promised to have some recommendations by May.

In other business the board reelected Tom Allman as chairman of the board, re-elected Larry Connealy as vice chairman and Nick Bashara as secretary-treasurer.

Claude Dickens To Join LES

A veteran of 24 years in the electric utility business has been named manager of the Lincoln Electric System's accounting and finance division.

LES Administrator Walt Canney announced Friday that Claude Dickens, from Kansas City, Kan., will head the office.

Dickens is currently with the Board of Public Utilities in Kansas City. Previously, he held accounting positions with utilities in Springfield, Mo. and San Antonio, Tex.

Canney said Dickens will be responsible for long-range planning, construction activities and overall system improvements. LES prepares one-year, six-year and 10-year financial and system improvement plans.

What's The Purpose Of It?

We are forced to go around the block once more regarding the shabby treatment of President Ford by the media and others involved with the political scene — in this case, specifically the powerful pollsters.

Lyndon Johnson planted the seed of an idea in the public mind with his little joke about Jerry Ford playing football without a helmet, that our current President is a boob. The President has helped nurture the seed to full flower with hemming and hawing and more than a few seeming mental lapses — which in reality are no more indicative of stupidity than the attacks of forgetfulness which afflict the brilliant and the dense alike.

But with Ford, the media, the pollsters and his political enemies are boring in with a relentless, narrow focus on the issue of his intelligence — a dimension of a leader which in the past has not been examined so rigorously.

Pollster Louis Harris has concluded from interviews among the public that the American people "question his (Ford's) capacity to handle the office effectively." By almost 3-1, Harris reports, a majority think Ford's weakest point is foreign policy, despite all his trips and efforts in that area. (What, then, does the public think of the ability of his chief GOP challenger, Ronald Reagan, in the area of foreign policy? Reagan's foreign policy can be characterized at this point by what he would do with the Russians: "Look those guys in the eye and tell them to back off.").

By a narrow, 40-39% plurality, Harris goes on, the public cannot go along with the claim that "Ford has the intelligence and qualifications to be a first-rate president." By 50-35%, a clear plurality now believes that "he does not seem to be very smart about the issues the country is facing."

Why are such subjective questions asked, anyway? How can they be fairly or realistically or accurately answered?

We don't agree with much of Ford's politics and many of his policies but our opposition is not based on the assumption that he is ignorant or stupid.

His problem as president, it seems to us, is that he was a congressman for all of his political career and in the minority to boot. He spent most of 25 years opposing and little of the time creating programs. He was thrust into the presidency at a unique and dramatic time in history without the opportunity presidents-elect or vice presidents have to formulate coherent programs. His was on-the-job training in a time of public disenchantment with politics, serious economic problems and a drastic change in the energy picture. Had he been president in the halcyon days of the '50s, nobody would have doubted his intelligence Another of Ford's problems seems to be a lack of good advice; but he is not alone in that regard. The cerebral Kennedy, the wily Johnson and the cunning Nixon all received bad advice and acted on it, to the nation's regret.

Now, Ford is fair game when it comes to criticism of his policies and his choice of advisors, but the slurs on his intelligence are out of line, a mocking, cruel, disrespectful kind of thing that serves no useful purpose.

The record shows Ford an alumnus of the University of Michigan and Yale Law, a congressman from Grand Rapids for a dozen or more terms. It seems inconceivable that the Republicans in the U.S. House would have chosen a dummy to be their party leader and perhaps the Speaker of the House; Richard Nixon, even with his perverted sense of patriotism, would not have picked a boob as would-be president.

Can people of meager abilities go so far?

Primary Change Laudable

A bill advancing the primary election date from May to September snuck through first round approval in the Legislature this week. Senators are sharply divided on the issue and the political parties seem to be opposed to it, but we think voters will go for the idea.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, would retain Nebraska's May presidential primary election as a separate primary every four years. This would accommodate the delegate selection process for the summer nominating conventions and maintain what advantage Nebraska still has in garnering national attention during the presidential primary circus.

The advantage to moving primary elections up to September is seen in shorter campaigns and less expensive campaigns as well. The voters and the candidates both would benefit by relief from the drawn-out, exhausting, repetitious campaigns that the lengthy wait between primary and general elections now allow.

Opposition from election officials, specifically Secretary of State Allen Beermann, is anticipated. It will be claimed that the change is impossible. It will take some effort and there will be some expense involved and other laws doubtless will have to be changed, but moving the primary ahead to September can be done. It is not impossible.

The September primary-November general election arrangement, with provision made for a May presidential primary, could do much to modernize the image of politics in Nebraska.

Press Is Manipulated

WASHINGTON — The power of the press is accepted as a fact of life these days, Watergate and its aftermath being the most concrete evidence.

But that should not obscure another fact of life. The press — print and broadcast — is routinely used by individuals and institutions, from the President and the White House down, to achieve their own ends.

Two cases in point, vastly different but with the common element of manipulation of the press, occurred in recent days.

The first was the use of the brutal murder of Richard S. Welch, the Central Intelligence Agency's No. 1 man in Athens, in a counterattack against those who criticize the CIA and try to strip away the secrecy it claims it must have

Welch's assassination was a despicable act and, as a devoted public servant, he deserved to be honored in death. But the extraordinary fanfare surrounding the return of his body to this country and his ceremonial funeral in Arlington Cemetery with the President in attendance were clearly orchestrated by the administration as a media event.

The strategy was successful The return of the body and the funeral were covered very heavily on television and less heavily in the newspapers In the course of the coverage, attention was repeatedly focused on the charge that publication of Welch's name many months ago by an anti-CIA group in this country and more recently by the Athens press were to blame for his murder

Implicit in that charge was the broader one that exposure of CIA operations by Congress and the press endangers not only the operations of the agency but the lives of its employees So ironically the press was used to publicize what in its broad effect was an attack on itself

On January 6 — the day of the Welch funeral, as it happened — the New York Times and the Washington Post published stories stating that the CIA was embarked on a program of aiding anti-Communist politicians in Italy to the tune of $6 million

Neither paper disclosed where it got the information or how it came to get it — whether it was handed to it or it sought it out

The stories were picked up by the news services and the broadcast media Before nightfall, the CIA's new venture into Italian politics was known around the world.

☆ ☆ ☆

A political upheaval in Italy, apparently unrelated to the CIA aid, obscured whatever effect the stories might have had there. It is safe to assume, though, that the publicity about the CIA aid could only have hurt its recipients. It is also safe to assume that whatever foreign policy purpose the administration had was thwarted.

In this instance, the press was used by unnamed sources who were opposed to the specific aid program or, more likely, to the whole idea of covert CIA aid to foreign political parties.

In an angry reaction to the stories, Ron Nessen, President Ford's press secretary, said they had undermined the conduct of foreign affairs He voiced a "strong suspicion" that the stories were leaked on Capitol Hill. And he used the occasion to raise questions about the requirement that the CIA must report its secret foreign political activities to congressional committees

The Post and the Times reported Nessen's suspicion about Congress promptly, but neither gave any hint as to whether Congress was getting a bum rap. They remained true to their sources.

Anonymous sources are part of the news business. Seldom does a day go by without at least one major news story in which they figure. There is no reason to think that situation will change

But there is a question that can and should be asked Have reporters and their editors become too comfortable with anonymous sources? And that leads to some other questions

Does not the public have a right to expect a story like the one on the $6 million to contain some information on the motivation of those who leaked it?

Why can't such a story indicate at least a generalized source even though confidentiality of the individual is preserved? Did it come from Capitol Hill? Or the State Department? Or the White House? Or several places?

Do reporters try hard enough to get sources to allow their names to be published? If a congressman decides that it is in the public interest to disclose a piece of information, should he be willing to have his name appear with it? And if not, should he give, for publication, an explanation of why not?

BROWN

Vs.

REAGAN

SACRAMENTO — California is a big state where people dream big of making it in show business or discovering gold or whatever.

The biggest political dream right now, which is occasionally indulged because Californians enjoy a healthy amount of chauvinism and consider themselves to be in the center of the universe, is a political version of a freeway World Series: Former Gov. Ronald Reagan (R) running against current Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown (D) for president in the fall.

There are more realistic smaller dreams, however. Republican politicians, whether they prefer President Ford or Reagan as their candidate, hope primarily that the matter is settled one way or another before the California primary in June.

Democratic politicians dream that Brown, who is enormously popular with the electorate (about 85% approval in the polls) but not with the politicos, will turn out to be the perfect bright young face for the No. 2 spot on the national ticket. If the ticket is elected, they would be double winners. Their party would gain the White House and Brown's unorthodox political personality and version of the new liberalism would be transferred all the way to the East Coast, which would suit most of them just fine.

A month ago there was talk that Brown might run as a favorite son in California if no clear leader emerges in the next six weeks. Now the feeling has shifted, however. On Monday night one of the state's leading Democratic politicians here bet another $100 at 3-to-2 odds that Brown wouldn't do it.

"A lot of his advisers are telling him that the opportunity will never be so golden, that he'll never again be so popular, the bettor explained. "But it's a long shot, and he could lose a lot."

The orthodox wisdom is that Brown's best bet is to retain his knight-in-shining-armor image by remaining aloof and hoping something nice happens to him, which is the Hubert Humphrey strategy. There is little doubt here that he has presidential ambitions, but he wouldn't admit it if his coat were on fire.

"I'll decide by March or April," he said Wednesday. "It's premature now. I can't see the consequences right now."

The Republicans' problem is obvious: How does a professional choose between an incumbent President of his own party and the popular Reagan, who by most testaments would beat Ford here? Most Republican office-holders and party professionals are backing Ford, but they have the uneasy feeling that the voters prefer Reagan.

"It's a real dilemma," says Assemblyman Paul Poillo of Malibu, the new minority leader. He didn't get to the leadership by being stupid. However, he has a solution to the dilemma that is pure party selflessness.

"We only have 25 (of 80) assemblymen, and my job is to get Republicans elected next fall," he says with an air of relief. "I could not serve this goal by being involved in one of the campaigns."

☆ ☆ ☆

Some of his fellow Republican legislators who signed on with Ford demonstrated a few days ago the Republicans' difficulty. They balked at a plan to dispatch them to New Hampshire to aid Ford's campaign there, and the plan may have to be abandoned.

The problem is that none wants to do what will help most. Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, possibly with memories of the Nixon "Truth Squad" in mind, said it wasn't his kind of game and he wouldn't play.

State Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, co-chairman of Ford's state committee, also declined. "I'm not about to say what a bad fellow Ronald Reagan is. I don't think he is."

This followed reports from Illinois that some of the 10 Republican congressmen who early endorsed Ford are backing away. The Reagan campaign contends that at least six have passed word to their supporters not to work in the President's behalf.

Arnett hopes the intra-party bitterness won't be great if there is a California primary battle. "We won't split as bad as Goldwater and Rockefeller did in 1964. There's not the same personal animosity or philosophical split. The loyalty is to the individual and his style. Everyone should come into line immediately. The two candidates are gentlemen, and they've both made their peace with the idea of losing. I'm sure Ford has told his family that it will just mean more time at Vail and Reagan has told Nancy it will mean more time for horseback riding."

Another Republican agreed but added—thinking of Mrs. Reagan's unswerving conservative ideology which her sweet, smiling demeanor conceals from the public — "The question is whether Nancy has made a peace with losing."

JAMES RESTON

Mr. Ford's Last Chance

WASHINGTON — At the beginning of every presidential election year, there is a restless hum in Washington. This is the sound of prominent men, prodded by their wives, cleaning out the attic, and fleeing for their lives.

Any good reporter, wanting to get ahead of the news, consults the Washington real estate and moving van operators. They are the first to hear the faint flutter of political wings, heading home. The American people may be undecided about supporting or opposing Gerald Ford, but many of his own people are quietly shipping out.

The resignation of Secretary of Labor Dunlop is only the latest symbol of this slide for home. Also in the passing scene recently have been the secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Interior, as well as the secretaries of Commerce and Defense, along with an attorney general, a head of the CIA and the President's chief campaign fund-raiser. Some of them have jumped; others have been shoved.

Meanwhile, up on Capitol Hill, the Republican leader of the Senate, Hugh Scott, has announced his retirement. Mike Mansfield, the Senate majority leader and Carl Albert, the speaker of the House, will probably be following fairly soon, and already seven senators and 12 representatives have announced that they will not seek reelection next November.

Much of this is the normal and natural reaction to time, and a good thing too. But something else is afoot here. More than the normal number of law-makers in their middle years are retiring in despair over the frustrations of the democratic process, and in the executive branch, there is now division, and even a sense of disintegration.

Vice President Rockefeller is bitter about being dumped off the '76 Republican ticket and proposes to spend the rest of the year talking about the issues of the eighties rather than the personalities seeking the Republican nomination in '76.

Secretary of State Kissinger has been on the verge of resigning for weeks, and has many advocates for this course within and outside the administration, but he will probably stay on because one more resignation would only weaken his policy and dramatize the feeling abroad that the Washington government is in disarray.

SECRETARY DUNLOP
. . . the latest symbol . . .

In dealing with all these personal and political problems, President Ford has given the Congress and even his own cabinet the impression that he is thinking primarily, not about the policy issues, and not even about the November election, but about the mysterious complexities of the primary elections and the challenge of former Governor Reagan of California.

For example, when President Ford was trying to persuade Secretary of Labor Dunlop not to resign, he spent most of their hour together talking, not about the substance of the construction picketing bill, which the President promised to support and then vetoed, but about the political consequences of this in the primary elections if he didn't veto it.

This is very odd, because the President has been saying lately that his best hope of getting the Republican nomination and winning the election was to concentrate on what was best for the nation, not to be personal or political, but "presidential." He is getting in deep trouble now because he seems to be doing the opposite.

Another example: President Ford's closest colleagues, outside of the secretaries of State and Defense, the attorney general and the head of the CIA, have recently been asked and urged privately to campaign for Ford's nomination and election, to make themselves available for party speeches — at least seven this spring — during the primary campaign against Reagan and after that against the Democrats. But for many of them, this is a hard call.

For while they admire Ford's decency and spunk in restoring honor to the presidency after Nixon, and see him as a good unelected interim chief executive, they are in trouble when they are asked to go out on the hustings and proclaim that he is the man to lead the nation and the rest of the Western world through the devilish problems of the seventies and into the eighties.

So we have a puzzle in Washington now. No really informing or dominating mind in the White House, a mediocre White House staff, preoccupied by the primary elections; an aggrieved vice president, a divided and inexperienced cabinet that seldom meets, and a gaggle of Democratic presidential candidates, who are as confused as the Republicans.

No wonder, then, that members of the cabinet and the Congress are beginning to slip away from Washington, but in the next two weeks, President Ford will have a chance to take command again. In his State of the Union message, and his economic reports, he will be able to dominate the news, and try to reduce all this confusion and diversity to some kind of identity that the people can understand.

It may be his last chance, for the feeling here, even within his own administration, is that things are breaking up, and that people are giving up, and moving out.

The First Priority Is Jobs

NEW YORK — Is anything like 100% full employment in the American economy possible without ruinous inflation? If so, how is it to be achieved?

These and related questions have frequently been discussed in articles appearing in this space, all of which urged a shift in federal government emphasis from the problems of controlling inflation to those of promoting employment. Full employment, these articles have asserted, would reduce the federal deficit by increasing tax revenues, fight inflation by increasing supply as well as demand, and mitigate numerous social evils, possible including the high rate of street crime.

An extraordinary volume of professional, academic or otherwise informed response has been generally favorable to these ideas But two cautionary statements from highly qualified correspondents — both of whom favor greater emphasis on employment — compel quotation and discussion.

Dr. James Tobin of Yale, who was a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers in the Kennedy administration, writes that despite his dismay at the high levels of unemployment tolerated by the Ford administration and the Democratic Congress, he fears that I have "gone overboard in advocating literally zero unemployment," which he regards as "not really possible in an economy with free labor markets."

As he puts it: "There are always bound to be job-seekers, temporarily unemployed between jobs or on entering or re-entering the labor force. Similarly there are always bound to be temporarily unfilled job vacancies."

Moreover, Tobin asserts: "I'm afraid you are whistling in the dark to imagine that total employment will actually mitigate inflation. Experience here and abroad indicates that in a low unemployment-high vacancies economy, pressures for accelerating wage increases are unrestrained and employers lost incentive to resist them."

He also questions, for a variety or reasons, the idea of the government as "employer of last resort," but asserts that "what the government can do is greatly increase the number of regular, meaningful jobs with social product and career training."

☆ ☆ ☆

Somewhat similarly, Albert G. Hart, professor of economics at Columbia University, believes that "to provide jobs for those who want them would be of the highest value." But he does not consider the so-called Hawkins-Humphrey bill now pending in Congress — and frequently supported here — as yet an adequate instrument for the purpose.

The problem, Hart holds, is that while this measure would give every adult American the legal right to a decent job, it lacks an effective mechanism for creating the necessary jobs — perhaps as many as 35 to 45 million more than the approximately 85 million jobs now provided by the American economy

Hart's remedy — which he credits to "an amateur economist, Richard Hazelett of Colorado Springs" — is a system of "employment-incentive contracts" under which employers would guarantee the government that they would provide expanded numbers of man-hours of work. The government would pay these contract employers a "premium" for such a guarantee, but the employers' primary incentive would be "the certainty that a large volume of employment would guarantee strong markets for the employers' products."

His main point, however, is that whether through employment-incentive contracts or a workable alternative the basic problem is to create more jobs — "there is no excuse for proposing employment-guarantee legislation that lacks the centerpiece of a genuine job-creation program."

Amen to that, as well as to James Tobin's caveat about "literally zero unemployment" — although there might well be debate about his view that the four per cent unemployment reached in the Kennedy administration is about the best that can be done without significant inflation. Just as significant to this layman, however, is the support that has been forthcoming from Tobin and Hart as well as other knowledgeable persons for the general proposition of giving employment priority over inflation. Tobin writes, for example:

"The complacency of the media, the public, and the politicians about the depression of the 1970s is very disheartening. Every (percentage) point of unemployment is a loss of Gross National Product of about $55 billion a year. At five per cent unemployment, which we bettered as recently as 1973, the country would be producing $180 billion more per year, to the benefit not only of workers but of corporate shareholders, state and local governments, etc In the 1980's, I predict, newspaper columns and magazines will be full of analyses of the lasting social damage done by the economic stagnation of 1974-1980"

HOO-BOY!
SOMETIMES I FEEL IT WOULD HELP US MUCH MORE IF THEY WOULDN'T HELP US SO MUCH - BRICKMAN
Washington Star Syndicate Inc

What's The Purpose Of It?

We are forced to go around the block once more regarding the shabby treatment of President Ford by the media and others involved with the political scene — in this case, specifically the powerful pollsters.

Lyndon Johnson planted the seed of an idea in the public mind with his little joke about Jerry Ford playing football without a helmet, that our current President is a boob. The President has helped nurture the seed to full flower with hemming and hawing and more than a few seeming mental lapses — which in reality are no more indicative of stupidity than the attacks of forgetfulness which afflict the brilliant and the dense alike.

But with Ford, the media, the pollsters and his political enemies are boring in with a relentless, narrow focus on the issue of his intelligence — a dimension of a leader which in the past has not been examined so rigorously.

Pollster Louis Harris has concluded from interviews among the public that the American people "question his (Ford's) capacity to handle the office effectively." By almost 3-1, Harris reports, a majority think Ford's weakest point is foreign policy, despite all his trips and efforts in that area. (What, then, does the public think of the ability of his chief GOP challenger, Ronald Reagan, in the area of foreign policy? Reagan's foreign policy can be characterized at this point by what he would do with the Russians: "Look those guys in the eye and tell them to back off.").

By a narrow, 40-39% plurality, Harris goes on, the public cannot go along with the claim that "Ford has the intelligence and qualifications to be a first-rate president." By 50-35%, a clear plurality now believes that "he does not seem to be very smart about the issues the country is facing."

Why are such subjective questions asked, anyway? How can they be fairly or realistically or accurately answered?

We don't agree with much of Ford's politics and many of his policies but our opposition is not based on the assumption that he is ignorant or stupid.

His problem as president, it seems to us, is that he was a congressman for all of his political career and in the minority to boot. He spent most of 25 years opposing and little of the time creating programs. He was thrust into the presidency at a unique and dramatic time in history without the opportunity presidents-elect or vice presidents have to formulate coherent programs. His was on-the-job training in a time of public disenchantment with politics, serious economic problems and a drastic change in the energy picture. Had he been president in the halcyon days of the '50s, nobody would have doubted his intelligence. Another of Ford's problems seems to be a lack of good advice; but he is not alone in that regard. The cerebral Kennedy, the wily Johnson and the cunning Nixon all received bad advice and acted on it, to the nation's regret.

Now, Ford is fair game when it comes to criticism of his policies and his choice of advisors, but the slurs on his intelligence are out of line, a mocking, cruel, disrespectful kind of thing that serves no useful purpose.

The record shows Ford an alumnus of the University of Michigan and Yale Law, a congressman from Grand Rapids for a dozen or more terms. It seems inconceivable that the Republicans in the U.S. House would have chosen a dummy to be their party leader and perhaps the Speaker of the House; Richard Nixon, even with his perverted sense of patriotism, would not have picked a boob as would-be president.

Can people of meager abilities go so far?

Primary Change Laudable

A bill advancing the primary election date from May to September snuck through first round approval in the Legislature this week. Senators are sharply divided on the issue and the political parties seem to be opposed to it, but we think voters will go for the idea.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston, would retain Nebraska's May presidential primary election as a separate primary every four years. This would accommodate the delegate selection process for the summer nominating conventions and maintain what advantage Nebraska still has in garnering national attention during the presidential primary circus.

The advantage to moving primary elections up to September is seen in shorter campaigns and less expensive campaigns as well. The voters and the candidates both would benefit by relief from the drawn-out, exhausting, repetitious campaigns that the lengthy wait between primary and general elections now allow.

Opposition from election officials, specifically Secretary of State Allen Beermann, is anticipated. It will be claimed that the change is impossible. It will take some effort and there will be some expense involved and other laws doubtless will have to be changed, but moving the primary ahead to September can be done. It is not impossible.

The September primary-November general election arrangement, with provision made for a May presidential primary, could do much to modernize the image of politics in Nebraska.

Press Is Manipulated

WASHINGTON — The power of the press is accepted as a fact of life these days, Watergate and its aftermath being the most concrete evidence.

But that should not obscure another fact of life: The press — print and broadcast — is routinely used by individuals and institutions, from the President and the White House down, to achieve their own ends.

Two cases in point, vastly different but with the common element of manipulation of the press, occurred in recent days.

The first was the use of the brutal murder of Richard S. Welch, the Central Intelligence Agency's No. 1 man in Athens, in a counterattack against those who criticize the CIA and try to strip away the secrecy it claims it must have.

Welch's assassination was a despicable act and, as a devoted public servant, he deserved to be honored in death. But the extraordinary fanfare surrounding the return of his body to this country and his ceremonial funeral in Arlington Cemetery with the President in attendance were clearly orchestrated by the administration as a media event.

The strategy was successful. The return of the body and the funeral were covered very heavily on television and less heavily in the newspapers. In the course of the coverage, attention was repeatedly focused on the charge that publication of Welch's name many months ago by an anti-CIA group in this country, and more recently by the Athens press, were to blame for his murder.

Implicit in that charge was the broader one that exposure of CIA operations by Congress and the press endangers not only the operations of the agency but the lives of its employes. So, ironically, the press was used to publicize what in its broad effect was an attack on itself.

On January 6 — the day of the Welch funeral, as it happened — the New York Times and the Washington Post published stories stating that the CIA was embarked on a program of aiding anti-Communist politicians in Italy to the tune of $6 million.

Neither paper disclosed where it got the information or how it came to get it — whether it was handed to it or it sought it out.

The stories were picked up by the news services and the broadcast media. Before nightfall, the CIA's new venture into Italian politics was known around the world.

☆ ☆ ☆

A political upheaval in Italy, apparently unrelated to the CIA aid, obscured whatever effect the stories might have had there. It is safe to assume, though, that the publicity about the CIA aid could only have hurt its recipients. It is also safe to assume that whatever foreign policy purpose the administration had was thwarted.

In this instance, the press was used by unnamed sources who were opposed to the specific aid program or, more likely, to the whole idea of covert CIA aid to foreign political parties.

In an angry reaction to the stories, Ron Nessen, President Ford's press secretary, said they had undermined the conduct of foreign affairs. He voiced a "strong suspicion" that the stories were leaked on Capitol Hill. And he used the occasion to raise questions about the requirement that the CIA must report its secret foreign political activities to congressional committees.

The Post and the Times reported Nessen's suspicion about Congress promptly, but neither gave any hint as to whether Congress was getting a bum rap. They remained true to their sources.

Anonymous sources are part of the news business. Seldom does a day go by without at least one major news story in which they figure. There is no reason to think that situation will change.

But there is a question that can and should be asked: Have reporters and their editors become too comfortable with anonymous sources? And that leads to some other questions:

Does not the public have a right to expect a story like the one on the $6 million to contain some information on the motivation of those who leaked it?

Why can't such a story indicate at least a generalized source even though confidentiality of the individual is preserved? Did it come from Capitol Hill? Or the State Department? Or the White House? Or several places?

Do reporters try hard enough to get sources to allow their names to be published? If a congressman decides that it is in the public interest to disclose a piece of information, should he be willing to have his name appear with it? And if not, should he give, for publication, an explanation of why not?

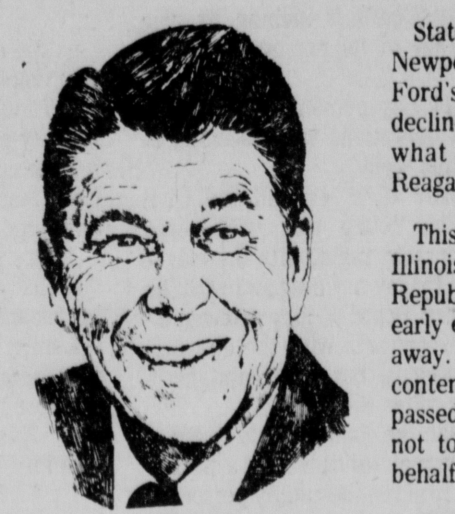
BROWN

Vs.



REAGAN

SACRAMENTO — California is a big state where people dream big of making it in show business or discovering gold or whatever.

The biggest political dream right now, which is occasionally indulged because Californians enjoy a healthy amount of chauvinism and consider themselves to be in the center of the universe, is a political version of a freeway World Series: Former Gov. Ronald Reagan (R) running against current Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown (D) for president in the fall.

There are more realistic smaller dreams, however. Republican politicians, whether they prefer President Ford or Reagan as their candidate, hope primarily that the matter is settled one way or another before the California primary in June.

Democratic politicians dream that Brown, who is enormously popular with the electorate (about 85% approval in the polls) but not with the politicos, will turn out to be the perfect bright young face for the No. 2 spot on the national ticket. If the ticket is elected, they would be double winners. Their party would gain the White House and Brown's unorthodox political personality and version of the new liberalism would be transferred all the way to the East Coast, which would suit most of them just fine.

A month ago there was talk that Brown might run as a favorite son in California if no clear leader emerges in the next six weeks. Now the feeling has shifted, however. On Monday night one of the state's leading Democratic politicians here bet another $100 at 3-to-2 odds that Brown wouldn't do it.

"A lot of his advisers are telling him that the opportunity will never be so golden, that he'll never again be so popular, the bettor explained. "But it's a long shot, and he could lose a lot."

The orthodox wisdom is that Brown's best bet is to retain his knight-in-shining-armor image by remaining aloof and hoping something nice happens to him, which is the Hubert Humphrey strategy. There is little doubt here that he has presidential ambitions, but he wouldn't admit it if his coat were on fire.

"I'll decide by March or April," he said Wednesday. "It's premature now. I can't see the consequences right now."

The Republicans' problem is obvious: How does a professional choose between an incumbent President of his own party and the popular Reagan, who by most testaments would beat Ford here? Most Republican office-holders and party professionals are backing Ford, but they have the uneasy feeling that the voters prefer Reagan.

"It's a real dilemma," says Assemblyman Paul Poillo of Malibu, the new minority leader. He didn't get to the leadership by being stupid. However, he has a solution to the dilemma that is pure party selflessness.

"We only have 25 (of 80) assemblymen, and my job is to get Republicians elected next fall," he says with an air of relief. "I could not serve this goal by being involved in one of the campaigns."

☆ ☆ ☆

Some of his fellow Republican legislators who signed on with Ford demonstrated a few days ago the Republicans' difficulty. They balked at a plan to dispatch them to New Hampshire to aid Ford's campaign there, and the plan may have to be abandoned.

The problem is that none wants to do what will help most. Assemblyman Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, possibly with memories of the Nixon "Truth Squad" in mind, said it wasn't his kind of game and he wouldn't play.

State Sen. Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, co-chairman of Ford's state committee, also declined. "I'm not about to say what a bad fellow Ronald Reagan is. I don't think he is."

This followed reports from Illinois that some of the 10 Republican congressmen who early endorsed Ford are backing away. The Reagan campaign contends that at least six have passed word to their supporters not to work in the President's behalf.

Arnett hopes the intra-party bitterness won't be great if there is a California primary battle. "We won't split as bad as Goldwater and Rockefeller did in 1964. There's not the same personal animosity or philosophical split. The loyalty is to the individual and his style. Everyone should come into line immediately. The two candidates are gentlemen, and they've both made their peace with the idea of losing. I'm sure Ford has told his family that it will just mean more time at Vail and Reagan has told Nancy it will mean more time for horseback riding."

Another Republican agreed but added—thinking of Mrs. Reagan's unswerving conservative ideology which her sweet, smiling demeanor conceals from the public — "The question is whether Nancy has made a peace with losing."

JAMES RESTON

Mr. Ford's Last Chance

WASHINGTON — At the beginning of every presidential election year, there is a restless hum in Washington. This is the sound of prominent men, prodded by their wives, cleaning out the attic, and fleeing for their lives.

Any good reporter, wanting to get ahead of the news, consults the Washington real estate and moving van operators. They are the first to hear the faint flutter of political wings, heading home. The American people may be undecided about supporting or opposing Gerald Ford, but many of his own people are quietly shipping out.

The resignation of Secretary of Labor Dunlop is only the latest symbol of this slide for home. Also in the passing scene recently have been the secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Interior, as well as the secretaries of Commerce and Defense, along with an attorney general, a head of the CIA and the President's chief campaign fund-raiser. Some of them have jumped; others have been shoved.

Meanwhile, up on Capitol Hill, the Republican leader of the Senate, Hugh Scott, has announced his retirement. Mike Mansfield, the Senate majority leader and Carl Albert, the speaker of the House, will probably be following fairly soon, and already seven senators and 12 representatives have announced that they will not seek reelection next November.

Much of this is the normal and natural reaction to time, and a good thing too. But something else is afoot here. More than the normal number of law-makers in their middle years are retiring in despair over the frustrations of the democratic process, and in the executive branch, there is now division, and even a sense of disintegration.

Vice President Rockefeller is bitter about being dumped off the '76 Republican ticket and proposes to spend the rest of the year talking about the issues of the eighties rather than the personalities seeking the Republican nomination in '76.

Secretary of State Kissinger has been on the verge of resigning for weeks, and has many advocates for this course within and outside the administration, but he will probably stay on because one more resignation would only weaken his policy and dramatize the feeling abroad that the Washington government is in disarray.

SECRETARY DUNLOP
. . . the latest symbol . . .

In dealing with all these personal and political problems, President Ford has given the Congress and even his own cabinet the impression that he is thinking primarily, not about the policy issues, and not even about the November election, but about the mysterious complexities of the primary elections and the challenge of former Governor Reagan of California.

For example, when President Ford was trying to persuade Secretary of Labor Dunlop not to resign, he spent most of their hour together talking, not about the substance of the construction picketing bill, which the President promised to support and then vetoed, but about the political consequences of this in the primary elections if he didn't veto it.

This is very odd, because the President has been saying lately that his best hope of getting the Republican nomination and winning the election was to concentrate on what was best for the nation, not to be personal or political, but "presidential." He is getting in deep trouble now because he seems to be doing the opposite.

Another example: President Ford's closest colleagues, outside of the secretaries of State and Defense, the attorney general and the head of the CIA, have recently been asked and urged privately to campaign for Ford's nomination and election, to make themselves available for party speeches — at least seven this spring — during the primary campaign against Reagan and after that against the Democrats. But for many of them, this is a hard call.

For while they admire Ford's decency and spunk in restoring honor to the presidency after Nixon, and see him as a good unelected interim chief executive, they are in trouble when they are asked to go out on the hustings and proclaim that he is the man to lead the nation and the rest of the Western world through the devilish problems of the seventies and into the eighties.

So we have a puzzle in Washington now. No really informing or dominating mind in the White House, a mediocre White House staff, preoccupied by the primary elections; an aggrieved vice president, a divided and inexperienced cabinet that seldom meets, and a gaggle of Democratic presidential candidates, who are as confused as the Republicans.

No wonder, then, that members of the cabinet and the Congress are beginning to slip away from Washington, but in the next two weeks, President Ford will have a chance to take command again. In his State of the Union message, and his economic reports, he will be able to dominate the news, and try to reduce all this confusion and diversity to some kind of identity that the people can understand.

It may be his last chance, for the feeling here, even within his own administration, is that things are breaking up, and that people are giving up, and moving out.

The First Priority Is Jobs

NEW YORK — Is anything like 100% full employment in the American economy possible without ruinous inflation? If so, how is it to be achieved?

These and related questions have frequently been discussed in articles appearing in this space, all of which urged a shift in federal government emphasis from the problems of controlling inflation to those of promoting employment. Full employment, these articles have asserted, would reduce the federal deficit by increasing tax revenues, fight inflation by increasing supply as well as demand, and mitigate numerous social evils, possible including the high rate of street crime.

An extraordinary volume of professional, academic or otherwise informed response has been generally favorable to these ideas. But two cautionary statements from highly qualified correspondents — both of whom favor greater emphasis on employment — compel quotation and discussion.

She's An 'Ordinary' Policeman-Uh-Officer

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

Businessmen leaving downtown Lincoln after a hard day might not be minding the rush hour traffic jams on O St. so much these days.

Victims of rape or sexual assault may soon feel less uncomfortable about describing the incident to a police officer.

These two seemingly unrelated items are being made possible by one of the newest additions to the Lincoln Police Department's patrol force — Shelley Zalman.

Ms. Zalman, 23, five-feet-ten with blonde hair and green eyes, is the first woman officer to join the ranks of the uniform division. She patrols a section of downtown from 7th to 13th between K and R Sts. during the late afternoon and evening.

A Scottsbluff native. Ms. Zalman came to Lincoln several years ago to attend the University of Nebraska. She has a bachelor of arts degree in social work to go along with her police training. Before applying for the job as a patrol officer she worked in the juvenile division.

Lincoln has had women on the police force for many years, as dispatchers, special officers and meter maids. But Ms. Zalman is none of these — she's just an ordinary policeman -uh- officer, a beat cop. And her duties are no different from the duties of any other cop on the streets at night in Lincoln.

But to say her job is the same would not be accurate. While her work is no different, the pressures Ms. Zalman experiences are quite different from any other rookie cop.

The pressures, she said, come not so much from a question of her abilities but rather from being the prototype for women who may be hired later.

"I feel I have to function efficiently so there won't be any additional pressure on women in the future," she said.

Same Performance

She feels she must perform on the same level as any other rookie patrol officer.

In spite of the pressure of being first, she said she's very thankful to have the opportunity to be the first woman patrol officer in the city.

However, for someone who is breaking a barrier, in this case a sex barrier, there's always a question of acceptance. In her job as a police officer, Ms Zalman needs the acceptance from both her fellow officers and the public.

She said she's had no problems so far with the other officers, either in her training course at Grand Island or on duty in Lincoln.

One of three women in her police cadet course, she said the women had no problems keeping up with the men in class, on the rifle range or in regards to physical fitness.

"I received a lot of support in my recruit class," Ms. Zalman said. "We ran through a lot of role playing — sort of "what if" situations — between men and women. I think it was helpful for both."

On the force in Lincoln, reaction also has been good. Everything she's heard from other officers has been positive.

"If anyone doesn't like it, they're keeping it to themselves," she said.

'Very, Very Positive'

The public reaction, although limited to just one week, has been "very, very positive."

"Sure, there's some people who'd rather talk to a male officer, just like there's some who'd rather talk to a black officer instead of a white one," she said.

She said she hasn't encountered any problems with public acceptance yet. In the first week, she worked several minor traffic accidents, checked several businesses to be sure they were secure in the evening and investigated a child abuse and a child molest case.

People do ask her, she said, what she would do if confronted with difficult situations. "They ask 'What would you do if you have trouble with a 200-pound drunk?' "

She replies with what she learned in her training: "Any officer in any situation he can't handle calls for a backup."

That's what any officer probably would do in that situation, she said.

"But it (running into a difficult situation) doesn't worry me."

While she's learning the ropes, she'll be patrolling with Officer Dennis Siegrist who's had several years on the force and who Ms. Zalman describes as a very experienced veteran.

The two cruise their adjoining areas in a single car. If there's trouble in Ms. Zalman's district, she is the investigating officer and Siegrist is her backup. If the trouble is in his district, the roles are reversed.

Those are the roles the two would normally have, except they would be in separate cars, Ms. Zalman said. Because she's a rookie, she shares a car with Siegrist.

Dress Code

The Lincoln Police Department has made few adjustments to the officers' dress code for Ms. Zalman. She wears the same uniform trousers, shirt and tie, and carries the same equipment belt with revolver, bullets, flashlight handcuffs and accessories. The code says a police woman's hair may be long but must be kept up while on duty. Ms. Zalman's hair is short; she said she likes it that way because no one can grab it during a scuffle.

Earrings are allowed, but Ms. Zalman said she wouldn't wear dangling ones because they might give an assailant something to yank on.

Some might think that patrolling the city streets all evening at a job that's certain to run her afoul of some of society's less respectable characters isn't much of a job for an attractive young woman.

But this is the job Ms. Zalman wanted and the shift she requested.

"I enjoy night work. This catches more of a variety of calls," she said.

The variety was why she switched from her spot in department's juvenile division to patrol work.

And after her first week on patrol, she said, "I'm ecstatic."

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalm 2 and Acts 4:25

In the second Psalm God asks this question, and then answers it. He tells who the heathen are, why they rage, and the consequences. Webster says "a heathen is one who does not believe in the God of The Bible." This definition fits in with what God says in the Psalm. The consequences are that God laughs at man's rebellion, speaks in His wrath, holds them in derision and vexes in His sore displeasure — is not nearly the whole earth and the inhabitants in a state of vexation and fear? "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron, Thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel!" Think of the broken pieces of the Jewish people scattered about over the face ofe the earth, the nation to whom this message first came! About six million of them have been broken and perished within recent years. Instead of raging and railing at poor old Hitler it might be wise for us all to consider how much our rage against God's Laws may have been a cause, remembering what Christ said to Pilate "Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above " "Not one sparrow falls to the ground without your Heavenly Father " "The curse causeless shall not come' "

It is the devil in men that cause them to rage against God's Moral Law, His Ten Commandments! The devil, God and man's enemy. Christians are not immune from the devil entering into them. This statement is based on the experience of The Apostle Peter whom Christ declared "Blessed" because God had given a revelation as to whom Christ was, but then in the context of the same passage Jesus said to Peter "Get thee behind me Satan: thou art an offense unto Me for thou savorest not of the things that be of God, but those that be of men." Mat. 16:13-28. Peter was saved through the intercession of Christ who after telling him of Satan's desire to possess him said: "I have prayed for thee—." The devil gained entrance into Peter because of his ignorance and unbelief of God's judgment that was to come upon Christ for the sins of mankind, their substiture Peter was not seeking his own selfish ends when he left all to follow Christ. He had gotten a vision of himself and had said to Him: "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord! He was seeking salvation, but even then he was in great danger when the devil got in him.

(Today the church is lousy with those "who savorest not of the things of God, but those that be of men." rejecting the plain teaching and truth of The Bible that God's wrath fell on Christ to atone for the sins of all mankind, provided they so accept Him, and it is to be feared that they have no spiritual kinship at all with Peter "He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses, of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy of, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was santified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite to the Spirit of grace? How Does Divorced Couple Handle Wedding?

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married soon. His father and I have been divorced for two years now. Do we have to sit together in the church and stand together in the receiving line just as though we were still married to each other?

Neither one of us has married again, but he has a shack-up girl friend. Where does she fit in? She is the pushy type who would do anything just to get into the limelight.

If she shows up, would it be proper for me to haul her into the alley and give her a few wallops before the ceremony? I'd sure like to thank you.

GROOM'S MOM

DEAR MOM: If the shack-up girl friend shows up, resist the urge to haul her into the alley and give her a few wallops. She could haul you into court for assault and battery.

You and the groom's father should sit "with the family" in the church — and stand together in the receiving line.

DEAR ABBY: My niece, who is 14 years old, ran off with her boyfriend last week, intending to elope. The boy is 15.

My brother (the girl's father) is very upset about it. He called the police and had his daughter and her "fiance" brought back.

Now the question: These kids are very much in love and want to marry. My brother is opposed to the idea because they are so young. I say, as long as the kids have spent a week together, why not let them marry and see how it works out?

What do you say?

CONCERNED UNCLE

DEAR CONCERNED: I think the kids should grow up before assuming the responsibilities of marriage. Having spent a week together is not sufficient reason to permit two children to marry.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a widow She raised my brother and me alone, and it wasn't easy She does janitor work nights and is barely able to make ends meet.

My brother and his wife are going away for a two-week vacation, and they asked Mom if she would stay at their place to look after their dog Mom said she would My brother wants to charge her $25 a week. He says, "Where else can she get free room and board with a free telephone and color TV for that little?"

He wouldn't have to provide food for Mom because she's on a special diet and she buys her own

I told my brother he ought to be ashamed of himself, and he said I was the one who was wrong — Mom's $50 would come in handy on their vacation.

Who's right?

DONNIE

DEAR DONNIE: You are. Your mother should be paid for staying there. Furthermore, your brother must have a cash register where his heart belongs.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who likes to keep house, embroider, knit and do all the things ladies like to do There is nothing wrong with me, but I do take a bit of kidding about it.

What is a good answer to these wiseacres?

The bidding

Opening lead — king of hearts.

How readily one competes against an adverse opening bid often has an important bearing on the outcome. Consider this deal played in a match between Venezuela and Thailand.

When the Venezuelans were North-South, they got to four spades on the bidding shown. West led the K-A of hearts and shifted to a low club.

Straziota (playing with Onorati) won with the ace, led the three of spades to his queen, ruffed a heart in dummy with the six and led the eight of spades to his jack, West showing out. This was now the position:

Reading the position perfectly, Straziota led the eight of diamonds to dummy's ten, played the nine of spades to the ace and cashed the K-A of diamonds. He then exited with the four of spades to East's king, and poor East, down to two cards, had to return a club from the Q-10 to dummy's K-J. Making four for 420 points.

At the second table, the Thai North-South pair, unfortunately for them, did not get into the bidding at all. It went:

West	North	East	South
1♥	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

The Venezuelan East-West pair went down one — 100 points — to bring their team a gain of 320 points on the deal.

She's An 'Ordinary' Policeman-Uh-Officer

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

Businessmen leaving downtown Lincoln after a hard day might not be minding the rush hour traffic jams on O St. so much these days.

Victims of rape or sexual assault may soon feel less uncomfortable about describing the incident to a police officer.

These two seemingly unrelated items are being made possible by one of the newest additions to the Lincoln Police Department's patrol force — Shelley Zalman.

Ms. Zalman, 23, five-feet-ten with blonde hair and green eyes, is the first woman officer to join the ranks of the uniform division. She patrols a section of downtown from 7th to 13th between K and R Sts. during the late afternoon and evening.

A Scottsbluff native, Ms. Zalman came to Lincoln several years ago to attend the University of Nebraska. She has a bachelor of arts degree in social work to go along with her police training. Before applying for the job as a patrol officer she worked in the juvenile division.

Lincoln has had women on the police force for many years, as dispatchers, special officers and meter maids. But Ms. Zalman is none of these — she's just an ordinary policeman -uh- officer, a beat cop. And her duties are no different from the duties of any other cop on the streets at night in Lincoln.

But to say her job is the same would not be accurate. While her work is no different, the pressures Ms. Zalman experiences are quite different from any other rookie cop.

The pressures, she said, come not so much from a question of her abilities but rather from being the prototype for women who may be hired later.

"I feel I have to function efficiently so there won't be any additional pressure on women in the future," she said.

Same Performance

She feels she must perform on the same level as any other rookie patrol officer.

In spite of the pressure of being first, she said she's very thankful to have the opportunity to be the first woman patrol officer in the city.

However, for someone who is breaking a barrier, in this case a sex barrier, there's always a question of acceptance. In her job as a police officer, Ms. Zalman needs the acceptance from both her fellow officers and the public.

She said she's had no problems so far with the other officers, either in her training course at Grand Island or on duty in Lincoln.

One of three women in her police cadet course, she said the women had no problems keeping up with the men in class, on the rifle range or in regards to physical fitness.

"I received a lot of support in my recruit class," Ms. Zalman said. "We ran through a lot of role playing — sort of "what if" situations — between men and women. I think it was helpful for both."

On the force in Lincoln, reaction also has been good. Everything she's heard from other officers has been positive.

"If anyone doesn't like it, they're keeping it to themselves," she said.

'Very, Very Positive'

The public reaction, although limited to just one week, has been "very, very positive."

"Sure, there's some people who'd rather talk to a male officer, just like there's some who'd rather talk to a black officer instead of a white one," she said.

She said she hasn't encountered any problems with public acceptance yet. In the first week, she worked several minor traffic accidents, checked several businesses to be sure they were secure in the evening and investigated a child abuse and a child molest case.

People do ask her, she said, what she would do if confronted with difficult situations. "They ask 'What would you do if you have trouble with a 200-pound drunk?' "

She replies with what she learned in her training: "Any officer in any situation he can't handle calls for a backup."

That's what any officer probably would do in that situation, she said.

"But it (running into a difficult situation) doesn't worry me."

While she's learning the ropes, she'll be patrolling with Officer Dennis Siegrist who's had several years on the force and who Ms. Zalman describes as a very experienced veteran.

The two cruise their adjoining areas in a single car. If there's trouble in Ms. Zalman's district, she is the investigating officer and Siegrist is her backup. If the trouble is in his district, the roles are reversed.

Those are the roles the two would normally have, except they would be in separate cars, Ms. Zalman said. Because she's a rookie, she shares a car with Siegrist.

Dress Code

The Lincoln Police Department has made few adjustments to the officers' dress code for Ms. Zalman. She wears the same uniform trousers, shirt and tie, and carries the same equipment belt with revolver, bullets, flashlight handcuffs and accessories. The code says a police woman's hair may be long but must be kept up while on duty. Ms. Zalman's hair is short; she said she likes it that way because no one can grab it during a scuffle.

Earrings are allowed, but Ms. Zalman said she wouldn't wear dangling ones because they might give an assailant something to yank on.

Some might think that patrolling the city streets all evening at a job that's certain to run her afoul of some of society's less respectable characters isn't much of a job for an attractive young woman.

But this is the job Ms. Zalman wanted and the shift she requested.

"I enjoy night work. This catches more of a variety of calls," she said.

The variety was why she switched from her spot in department's juvenile division to patrol work.

And after her first week on patrol, she said, "I'm ecstatic."

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalm 2 and Acts 4:25

In the second Psalm God asks this question, and then answers it. He tells who the heathen are, why they rage, and the consequences. Webster says "a heathen is one who does not believe in the God of The Bible." This definition fits in with what God says in the Psalm. The consequences are that God laughs at man's rebellion, speaks in His wrath, holds them in derision and vexes in His sore displeasure — is not nearly the whole earth and the inhabitants in a state of vexation and fear? "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron, Thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel!" Think of the broken pieces of the Jewish people scattered about over the face ofe the earth, the nation to whom this message first came! About six million of them have been broken and perished within recent years. Instead of raging and railing at poor old Hitler it might be wise for us all to consider how much our rage against God's Laws may have been a cause, remembering what Christ said to Pilate: "Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above." "Not one sparrow falls to the ground without your Heavenly Father." "The curse causeless shall not come!"

It is the devil in men that cause them to rage against God's Moral Law, His Ten Commandments! The devil, God and man's enemy. Christians are not immune from the devil entering into them. This statement is based on the experience of The Apostle Peter whom Christ declared "Blessed" because God had given a revelation as to whom Christ was, but then in the context of the same passage Jesus said to Peter: "Get thee behind me Satan: thou art an offense unto Me: for thou savorest not of the things that be of God, but those that be of men." Mat. 16:13-28. Peter was saved through the intercession of Christ who after telling him of Satan's desire to possess him said: "I have prayed for thee—." The devil gained entrance into Peter because of his ignorance and unbelief of God's judgment that was to come upon Christ for the sins of mankind, their substiture. Peter was not seeking his own selfish ends when he left all to follow Christ. He had gotten a vision of himself and had said to Him: "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord! He was seeking salvation, but even then he was in great danger when the devil got in him.

(Today the church is lousy with those "who savorest not of the things of God, but those that be of men," rejecting the plain teaching and truth of The Bible that God's wrath fell on Christ to atone for the sins of all mankind, provided they so accept Him, and it is to be feared that they have no spiritual kinship at all with Peter. "He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses; of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy of, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was santified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite to the Spirit of grace? For we know Him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith The Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge His people. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the Living God — For our God is a consuming fire." Here is a suggestion to those whose eyes are open and are horrified at the awful apostacy in high church circles: if you are not in a position to make an "overture" somewhere or other, then hasten and make a "detour" to your prayer closet, shut the door, and in secret lay the matter before your Father which sees in secret, and wait on The Lord patiently. He is more concerned than we are, and He has made oath "That the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of God as the waters cover the sea.")

The devil also entered into another of Christ's disciples, held his ground, and finally carried him off to perdition a traitor and suicide! He got into Judas because he was self-seeking, coveteous, a hog, a thief stealing from the meager means of the little "splinter band" of Christ and His desciples. (Have you stolen something, without repenting and making restitution to the uttermost of your ability, and yet passing yourself off as a Christian?) The devil knows he has a buddy, a friend and partner in a coveteous, bogish thief. That may account for the fact that the legion of devils about to be cast out of one poor man prayed Christ to let them go into the herd of hogs. Beware of coveting that which is anothers, for Christ gave the devils permission to enter the hogs! However, the devils may have been disappointed in those four-legged hogs when they ran wild and drowned in the sea, and seemed to say by their action "we had rather be dead than red" devils!

Lincoln County Murder Case Handed To Jury

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — With the testimony of 40 witnesses to ponder from 11 days of trial, a Lincoln County District Court jury was officially handed the mass murder case against Erwin Charles Simants early Friday night.

Tension mounted in the third-floor courtroom as the five-man, seven-woman jury sat through an hour of intensive closing arguments, then 68 minutes of detailed instructions by Judge Hugh Stuart. The case was turned over for deliberations at almost exactly 6 p.m.

The jury, sequestered at a local motel, retired for the night at 10 p.m. following some 2½ hours of deliberation. Dinner took up the other half hour.

The Sutherland laborer, 30, faces six first degree counts of murder and murder while committing or attempting to commit sexual assault. Conviction on any one of the counts could bring the death penalty, that decision being up to the judge.

Verdict Choices

But Judge Stuart instructed the jurors they also have verdict choices of second degree murder, manslaughter, innocent by reason of insanity or innocent. It is the question of Simants' sanity upon which the evidence has focused.

Simants has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to all the charges. The state called 35 witnesses, the defense only five.

Assistant Public Defender Leonard Vyhnalek, who made a vigorous 16-minute plea in closing arguments, he insisted the Oct. 18 slayings occurred during an "acute psychotic break" triggered by the defendant's mental retardation, alcoholism and schizophrenic illness.

Simants is accused of shooting to death six members of the Henry Kellie family, his next-door neighbors in Sutherland. A taped confession played in court related, partly in Simants' own words, the murders of Henry and Audrey Kellie, 66 and 57, their 32-year-old son, David; his two children, Deanna, 7, and Daniel, 5, and the elder Kellies' 10-year-old adopted granddaughter, Florence.

County Atty. Milton Larson devoted most of the state's 45-minutes closing argument to a detailed review of the evidence.

Noting that the state has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt, Larson said he felt the evidence shows Simants guilty "beyond all doubt."

The prosecution said premeditation was evident in the slaying and sexual assault of Florence, the first victim in the rapid-fire chain of tragedy. First degree convictions are also deserving on each of the other murders, Larson contended, because they were in connection with a first degree sexual assault.

'Just Had To'

Simants' repeated remarks of killing because he "just had to" were cited as evidence that the defendant was rational. The attorneys said he viewed his subsequent murders as necessary to escape.

Larson said the defendant's purpose in going to the Kellie home with a loaded rifle was to force himself on the 10-year-old girl. He also noted evidence of sexual acts on the younger girl, Deanna, though Simants has admitted such acts only on Florence and her grandmother.

The prosecution challenged the defense contention that Simants' acts were due to a "diminished mental capacity and insanity."

"If there were a detachment from reality, why did the defendant feel a compulsion to confess to the first person he saw and then contact his parents?" asked Larson. Testimony had indicated that Simants told both his nephew and parents of the killings.

'Defendant Knew'

"The defendant knew precisely what he was doing that night," stated Chief Deputy County Atty. Marvin Holsher.

Vyhnalek noted that Simants has shown detachment even in the courtroom and insisted that on Oct. 18 he was "in a totally devoid state in which he did not know what he was doing."

Vyhnalek noted that Simants had gone to two local bars following the shootings, then returned to the scene of the murders rather than fleeing. He reminded of testimony from a defense psychologist and psychiatrist that the defendant is schizophrenic.

Two psychiatrists called by the prosecution contradicted this diagnosis, however.

"Sanity must be proved by the state beyond a reasonable doubt," the judge read as part of the lengthy instructions.

Jeannie Is An American

Jeannie Lynn Fuenzalida celebrated her second birthday Thursday by becoming a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Jeannie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fuenzalida, was the youngest of the 56 persons naturalized in ceremonies in U.S. District Court Thursday.

"It turned out to be easier than we thought," said Jeannie's grandfather, Jack Chrisman. Chrisman thought there might be problems with Jeannie's naturalization because she was born in the Panama Canal of Chilean parents, and is a registered citizen of Chile.

The oldest person naturalized, Gustave Collins, 90, of Beatrice, was exuberant at the thought of finally becoming a citizen.

"He has tried several times, but because he is stone deaf he couldn't pass the test," said Collins' daughter, Mrs. Alfred Miller of Beatrice. This time, Mrs. Miller wrote down the naturalization test questions and Collins wrote the answers.

Collins has quite a knowledge of the United States, Mrs. Miller said, because he has lived here since 1918. A native of Sweden, Collins lived in Kansas until moving to Beatrice in August of 1974.

Twenty-six men, 20 women and 10 children were naturalized.

Psychiatrists Term Simants Sane

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — Two psychiatrists Friday gave some of the strongest prosecution testimony yet in trying to convince a Lincoln County District Court jury that Erwin Charles Simants was sane at the time of the six Oct. 18 slayings of which he is accused.

Dr. Emmett Kenney of Omaha and Dr. Eli Chesen of Lincoln, who were the last two witnesses before the prosecution rested its case at 11:35 a.m., contradicted defense testimony from Dr. Jack Anderson of Lincoln that Simants experienced "an acute psychotic break" during the killings. Anderson then was called back by the defense for further testimony.

"The defendant was not operating as a psychopath and did not have a major mental illness or gross psychotic neurosis," Kenney stated.

No Evidence

Both professionals for the prosecution testified that they found no evidence in Simants of psychotic disorder, gross mental retardation, brain damage or that he suffered hallucinations. They said they believe his mental capacity at the time of the crimes was within the three criteria said to constitute legal sanity.

The criteria are that an individual (1) understand what he is doing and understand the nature and quality of his act, (2) distinguish between right and wrong with respect to the act, and (3) realize that such act is wrong and deserves punishment.

Regarding Anderson's previous testimony that Simants had hallucinations, Dr. Chesen said he found no evidence of this. He said Simants "specifically told me he had not had such experiences."

Above Level

Chesen said he feels the defendant functions "significantly above" the level two intelligence tests have indicated. One of two psychologists determined Simants' IQ to be 75, the other 76.

Under cross-examination, Chesen said the defendant told him he never visits the grave of his deceased daughter.

"He said he is afraid to go back there," the psychiatrist quoted Simants as saying. "He said he felt he would want to be with her and perhaps hold her." Chesen then agreed with a defense attorney's remark that Simants had said he "might want to dig her up."

Anderson, called back to the stand shortly before the defense rested at 1:25 p.m., essentially reaffirmed his Wednesday testimony that he believes the defendant experienced an "acute psychotic episode" on the night of the slayings. He also indicated that Simants suffers from schizophrenia, a mental illness.

Anderson: Unmistakable

The defense witness said his evaluation showed Simants has symptoms "unmistakably those of a schizophrenic person." Anderson repeated a previous explanation that his conclusions are based to a considerable extent on psychological tests administered by Dr. Sam Campanella, a North Platte psychologist.

Asked if other qualified psychiatrists would come to the same conclusions he reached if they used the same test information, Anderson replied that "most of them would agree fully."

When asked essentially the same question, Chesen had replied: "It is probable" that some would differ.

Anderson said one symptom of Simants' mental illness is his inability to recall some details of his alleged shooting rampage. This is a type of amnesia, Anderson said.

Quicky overruled by Judge Hugh Stuart were three routine motions by the defense, the first asking that the case be dismissed. The other two requested the judge to direct a verdict of either innocent or innocent by reason of insanity.

'ERDA' Cheers Gasohol Council

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"ERDA" was the magic word that brought cheer to the Nebraska Gasohol Committee Friday.

ERDA is the Energy Research Development Administration, a federal agency that oversees the nation's many efforts aimed at energy independence.

Dr. Richard Meyer, science and research advisor for the Western Governors Regional Energy Policy Office, told the committee that ERDA was interested in helping energy producing companies get started.

Can Be Sold

"You have completed the research phase and have proven that the product can be sold commercially. The next logical step is to get into the business of making and selling the product," he said.

Meyer acknowledged that he wasn't a spokesman for ERDA but indicated that he was charged by the western governors' group with helping the grain alcohol program solve its problems.

"The application process is a lengthy one. It might take a year and a half to complete," he said.

The committee discussed the possibility of raising state funds that could be used as a guarantee for investors in a gasohol plant.

The discussion centered around a fund that would back the plant to be built with private funds. It would cover some losses but not guarantee an investor a sure profit on his stock.

Three-Cent Difference

The fund might be used to make up the difference in the gasoline tax for gasohol, which is three cents a gallon below the regular gas tax.

The committee felt the Department of Roads might object to the tax break for gasohol if the lower tax rate cut into its funds. The special fund might be used to help replace the lost revenue.

How to accumulate the money for the fund is another unsolved problem. The committee felt a penny-a-bushel tax on grains sold might be one way to get the money, but the idea didn't charm the members.

"I don't like the idea of a grain tax, but if it is the only way to get a plant built, I would support it," said Bob Rauner of Sidney.

Holly Hodge of Holdrege indicated he would support such a proposal only if it were strictly limited for a specific number of years. "We need something to tide this project through its first years, but we aren't going to finance its problems forever. We know it should make a profit once it is running. We just want to assure the investors that the state isn't going to lose interest in their plant once it is built," he said.

Must Be Operating

Hodge indicated that the plant would have to be operating and producing grain alcohol to get any aid from his proposed fund.

Charles Fricke, administrator for the gasohol program, indicated he would discuss the checkoff proposal with officials of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation and the Nebraska Agricultural Council in the near future.

Dr. William Scheller, chairman of the Department of Chemical Engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been invited to present a program on gasohol to the 10-state Western Governors Conference in Denver. An ERDA representative will be at that conference.

Scheller and Fricke will also go to Washington, D.C., for a series of meetings with federal officials in March.

Watershed Construction Funds Totaled $2.6 Million

North Platte — Nebraska received $2.6 million in watershed construction and technical assistance funds for the fiscal year 1976, a Soil Conservation Service spokesman reported here.

Bill Parker, SCS state conservationist, told the Nebraska Land Improvement Contractors Association's annual conference, "these allocations are the largest original ones received in this state since P.L. 566 was enacted in 1955."

"SCS has scheduled construction on 33 dams and two drains in 11 different watersheds. Fourteen counties will be involved in construction activities," Parker said.

Counties affected are Adams, Butler, Cass, Frontier, Dixon, Gage, Johnson, Lancaster, Lincoln, Otoe, Pawnee, Saunders, Scotts Bluff and Seward.

As of Dec. 31, 1975, nearly one out of every seven acres in Nebraska was in a watershed project area, according to SCS reports presented to the conference.

Ex-Nebraskan Dies When His Plane Crashes

Hyannis (AP) — A former Nebraskan was killed early Friday morning when his single-engine plane crashed near his parents' ranch south of here.

The crash occurred in Arthur County, just south of the Arthur-Grant County line.

The victim was identified as William D. Rothwell, 25, who was alone in the plane when it went down. He was pronounced dead on arrival at an Alliance hospital.

Formerly of the Hyannis-Alliance area, Rothwell, who had lived in Manhattan, Kan., for several years, was home visiting family and friends. He arrived here Thursday.

In Manhattan, he had worked as a dispatcher for Capitol Airlines, officials said.

A team from the Federal Aviation Administration was on its way to the scene to investigate the causes of the crash.

Bond Denial Means 'Big Green' To Close

Omaha (AP) — A judge Friday denied pleas that a bond be set to allow Omaha's lottery to continue at least until the Nebraska Supreme court decides the issue.

The ruling by District Judge James Buckley means the lottery must shut down by Feb. 16 unless attorneys for the lottery obtain a State Supreme Court stay order pending the appeal.

The appeal is expected to take 60 to 90 days.

Frederick Cassman, lottery attorney, said "we'll decide by next week" if the State Supreme Court will be asked to set the bond that would allow the game to continue through the appeal.

Following a meeting with attorneys for the county and state and the City Betterment Corp., which was formed to operate the lottery, Buckley signed the order shutting the lottery down Feb. 16, and denied a request for a supersedeas bond that would have stayed his order.

Buckley said that the prime business of City Betterment is running a lottery, not civic betterment or charitable causes, and that as such, it does not qualify to operate a lottery under state law.

The judge considered pleas that shutdown of the lottery would cause irreparable damage.

Buckley ruled Wednesday that the lottery was illegal. The reason was that he found the "primary activity" of the nonprofit corporation is operating a lottery, and that the law requires the primary activity must be charitable or civic betterment purposes.

He noted that the lottery company has not spent any of the $260,000 it has set aside for community betterment projects.

Lincoln County Murder Case Handed To Jury

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — With the testimony of 40 witnesses to ponder from 11 days of trial, a Lincoln County District Court jury was officially handed the mass murder case against Erwin Charles Simants early Friday night.

Tension mounted in the third-floor courtroom as the five-man, seven-woman jury sat through an hour of intensive closing arguments, then 68 minutes of detailed instructions by Judge Hugh Stuart. The case was turned over for deliberations at almost exactly 6 p.m.

The jury, sequestered at a local motel, retired for the night at 10 p.m. following some 2½ hours of deliberation. Dinner took up the other half hour.

The Sutherland laborer, 30, faces six first degree counts of murder and murder while committing or attempting to commit sexual assault. Conviction on any one of the counts could bring the death penalty, that decision being up to the judge.

Verdict Choices

But Judge Stuart instructed the jurors they also have verdict choices of second degree murder, manslaughter, innocent by reason of insanity or innocent. It is the question of Simants' sanity upon which the evidence has focused.

Simants has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to all the charges. The state called 35 witnesses, the defense only five.

Assistant Public Defender Leonard Vyhnalek, who made a vigorous 16-minute plea in closing arguments, he insisted the Oct. 18 slayings occurred during an "acute psychotic break" triggered by the defendant's mental retardation, alcoholism and schizophrenic illness.

Simants is accused of shooting to death six members of the Henry Kellie family, his next-door neighbors in Sutherland. A taped confession played in court related, partly in Simants' own words, the murders of Henry and Audrey Kellie, 66 and 57, their 32-year-old son, David; his two children, Deanna, 7, and Daniel, 5, and the elder Kellies' 10-year-old adopted granddaughter, Florence.

County Atty. Milton Larson devoted most of the state's 45-minutes closing argument to a detailed review of the evidence.

Noting that the state has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt, Larson said he felt the evidence shows Simants guilty "beyond all doubt."

The prosecution said premeditation was evident in the slaying and sexual assault of Florence, the first victim in the rapid-fire chain of tragedy. First degree convictions are also deserving on each of the other murders, Larson contended, because they were in connection with a first degree sexual assault.

'Just Had To'

Simants' repeated remarks of killing because he "just had to" were cited as evidence that the defendant was rational. The attorneys said he viewed his subsequent murders as necessary to escape.

Larson said the defendant's purpose in going to the Kellie home with a loaded rifle was to force himself on the 10-year-old girl. He also noted evidence of sexual acts on the younger girl, Deanna, though Simants has admitted such acts only on Florence and her grandmother.

The prosecution challenged the defense contention that Simants' acts were due to a "diminished mental capacity and insanity."

"If there were a detachment from reality, why did the defendant feel a compulsion to confess to the first person he saw and then contact his parents?" asked Larson. Testimony had indicated that Simants told both his nephew and parents of the killings.

'Defendant Knew'

"The defendant knew precisely what he was doing that night," stated Chief Deputy County Atty. Marvin Holsher.

Vyhnalek noted that Simants has shown detachment even in the courtroom and insisted that on Oct. 18 he was "in a totally devoid state in which he did not know what he was doing."

Vyhnalek noted that Simants had gone to two local bars following the shootings, then returned to the scene of the murders rather than fleeing. He reminded of testimony from a defense psychologist and psychiatrist that the defendant is schizophrenic.

Two psychiatrists called by the prosecution contradicted this diagnosis, however.

"Sanity must be proved by the state beyond a reasonable doubt," the judge read as part of the lengthy instructions.

YOUNGEST . . . Jeannie with mother and Gustave Collins, 90.

Jeannie Is An American

Jeannie Lynn Fuenzalida celebrated her second birthday Thursday by becoming a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Jeannie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fuenzalida, was the youngest of the 56 persons naturalized in ceremonies in U.S. District Court Thursday.

"It turned out to be easier than we thought," said Jeannie's grandfather, Jack Chrisman. Chrisman thought there might be problems with Jeannie's naturalization because she was born in the Panama Canal of Chilean parents, and is a registered citizen of Chile.

The oldest person naturalized, Gustave Collins, 90, of Beatrice, was exuberant at the thought of finally becoming a citizen.

"He has tried several times, but because he is stone deaf he couldn't pass the test," said Collins' daughter, Mrs. Alfred Miller of Beatrice. This time, Mrs. Miller wrote down the naturalization test questions and Collins wrote the answers.

Collins has quite a knowledge of the United States, Mrs. Miller said, because he has lived here since 1918. A native of Sweden, Collins lived in Kansas until moving to Beatrice in August of 1974.

Twenty-six men, 20 women and 10 children were naturalized.

Psychiatrists Term Simants Sane

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — Two psychiatrists Friday gave some of the strongest prosecution testimony yet in trying to convince a Lincoln County District Court jury that Erwin Charles Simants was sane at the time of the six Oct. 18 slayings of which he is accused.

Dr. Emmett Kenney of Omaha and Dr. Eli Chesen of Lincoln, who were the last two witnesses before the prosecution rested its case at 11:35 a.m., contradicted defense testimony from Dr. Jack Anderson of Lincoln that Simants experienced "an acute psychotic break" during the killings. Anderson then was called back by the defense for further testimony.

"The defendant was not operating as a psychopath and did not have a major mental illness or gross psychotic neurosis," Kenney stated.

No Evidence

Both professionals for the prosecution testified that they found no evidence in Simants of psychotic disorder, gross mental retardation, brain damage or that he suffered hallucinations. They said they believe his mental capacity at the time of the crimes was within the three criteria said to constitute legal sanity.

The criteria are that an individual (1) understand what he is doing and understand the nature and quality of his act, (2) distinguish between right and wrong with respect to the act, and (3) realize that such act is wrong and deserves punishment.

Regarding Anderson's previous testimony that Simants had hallucinations, Dr. Chesen said he found no evidence of this. He said Simants "specifically told me he had not had such experiences."

Above Level

Chesen said he feels the defendant functions "significantly above" the level two intelligence tests have indicated. One of two psychologists determined Simants' IQ to be 75, the other 76.

Under cross-examination, Chesen said the defendant told him he never visits the grave of his deceased daughter.

"He said he is afraid to go back there," the psychiatrist quoted Simants as saying. "He said he felt he would want to be with her and perhaps hold her." Chesen then agreed with a defense attorney's remark that Simants had said he "might want to dig her up."

Anderson, called back to the stand shortly before the defense rested at 1:25 p.m., essentially reaffirmed his Wednesday testimony that he believes the defendant experienced an "acute psychotic episode" on the night of the slayings. He also indicated that Simants suffers from schizophrenia, a mental illness.

Anderson: Unmistakable

The defense witness said his evaluation showed Simants has symptoms "unmistakably those of a schizophrenic person." Anderson repeated a previous explanation that his conclusions are based to a considerable extent on psychological tests administered by Dr. Sam Campanella, a North Platte psychologist.

Asked if other qualified psychiatrists would come to the same conclusions he reached if they used the same test information, Anderson replied that "most of them would agree fully."

When asked essentially the same question, Chesen had replied: "It is probable" that some would differ.

Anderson said one symptom of Simants' mental illness is his inability to recall some details of his alleged shooting rampage. This is a type of amnesia, Anderson said.

Quicky overruled by Judge Hugh Stuart were three routine motions by the defense, the first asking that the case be dismissed. The other two requested the judge to direct a verdict of either innocent or innocent by reason of insanity.

'ERDA' Cheers Gasohol Council

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

"ERDA" was the magic word that brought cheer to the Nebraska Gasohol Committee Friday.

ERDA is the Energy Research Development Administration, a federal agency that oversees the nation's many efforts aimed at energy independence.

Dr. Richard Meyer, science and research advisor for the Western Governors Regional Energy Policy Office, told the committee that ERDA was interested in helping energy producing companies get started.

Can Be Sold

"You have completed the research phase and have proven that the product can be sold commercially. The next logical step is to get into the business of making and selling the product," he said.

Meyer acknowledged that he wasn't a spokesman for ERDA but indicated that he was charged by the western governors' group with helping the grain alcohol program solve its problems.

"The application process is a lengthy one. It might take a year and a half to complete," he said.

The committee discussed the possibility of raising state funds that could be used as a guarantee for investors in a gasohol plant.

The discussion centered around a fund that would back the plant to be built with private funds. It would cover some losses but not guarantee an investor a sure profit on his stock.

Three-Cent Difference

The fund might be used to make up the difference in the gasoline tax for gasohol, which is three cents a gallon below the regular gas tax.

The committee felt the Department of Roads might object to the tax break for gasohol if the lower tax rate cut into its funds. The special fund might be used to help replace the lost revenue.

How to accumulate the money for the fund is another unsolved problem. The committee felt a penny-a-bushel tax on grains sold might be one way to get the money, but the idea didn't charm the members.

"I don't like the idea of a grain tax, but if it is the only way to get a plant built, I would support it," said Bob Rauner of Sidney.

Holly Hodge of Holdrege indicated he would support such a proposal only if it were strictly limited for a specific number of years. "We need something to tide this project through its first years, but we aren't going to finance its problems forever. We know it should make a profit once it is running. We just want to assure the investors that the state isn't going to lose interest in their plant once it is built," he said.

Must Be Operating

Hodge indicated that the plant would have to be operating and producing grain alcohol to get any aid from his proposed fund.

Charles Fricke, administrator for the gasohol program, indicated he would discuss the checkoff proposal with officials of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation and the Nebraska Agricultural Council in the near future.

Dr. William Scheller, chairman of the Department of Chemical Engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been invited to present a program on gasohol to the 10-state Western Governors Conference in Denver. An ERDA representative will be at that conference.

Scheller and Fricke will also go to Washington, D.C., for a series of meetings with federal officials in March.

Bond Denial Means 'Big Green' To Close

Omaha (AP) — A judge Friday denied pleas that a bond be set to allow Omaha's lottery to continue at least until the Nebraska Supreme court decides the issue.

The ruling by District Judge James Buckley means the lottery must shut down by Feb. 16 unless attorneys for the lottery obtain a State Supreme Court stay order pending the appeal.

The appeal is expected to take 60 to 90 days.

Frederick Cassman, lottery attorney, said "we'll decide by next week" if the State Supreme Court will be asked to set the bond that would allow the game to continue through the appeal.

Following a meeting with attorneys for the county and state and the City Betterment Corp., which was formed to operate the lottery, Buckley signed the order shutting the lottery down Feb. 16, and denied a request for a supersedeas bond that would have stayed his order.

Buckley said that the prime business of City Betterment is running a lottery, not civic betterment or charitable causes, and that as such, it does not qualify to operate a lottery under state law.

The judge considered pleas that shutdown of the lottery would cause irreparable damage.

Buckley ruled Wednesday that the lottery was illegal. The reason was that he found the "primary activity" of the nonprofit corporation is operating a lottery, and that the law requires the primary activity must be charitable or civic betterment purposes.

He noted that the lottery company has not spent any of the $260,000 it has set aside for community betterment projects.

Skarda: Push Aside Old Fogeys

By JOHN BARRETTE
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Bill Skarda

Bill Skarda, the outspoken and earthy legislator from South Omaha's sprawling riverfront district, says he and other old fogeys in the Nebraska Legislature should be pushed aside for young blood.

"Let a young guy with more fire and spunk in him come on," Skarda, who is ending 18 years in the Unicameral this session, said in an interview. "I'm an old fogey, I should be pushed aside.

"That's the truth and they ought to run all these old bastards out of here; thinking slows up," Skarda said.

With that analysis, Skarda tuned out debate on a bill to change Nebraska's primary from May to September, and dreamed aloud of his retirement from politics.

The veteran state senator said he spent the last four years building a new home in Gretna, 20 miles from the South Omaha district he could not leave as long as he represented it in the Legislature.

He said his wife Dorothy, because of his Unicameral career, was forced to continue living in South Omaha all those years. Now, they can move out.

Skarda has two acres at the new Gretna home, a house on which he did much of the work himself. Around the home he has a garden, fruit trees and a strawberry patch.

The legislator who will be 60 next May, remembers that pay for senators was $800 a year when he began in the late 1950s. He said it should be higher than the current $4,800 a year.

During his tenure he has softened some of his views as his perspective changed. Although still a union-type Democrat, he worries about the power the union movement has cornered in the United States.

And he worries even more about other problems that are government related, especially spending.

"There are a lot of things about our government that bother me," he said. "I think the people of this country have got to awaken to the fact that the country is in trouble, not only at the national but at the state and local levels."

He cited as an example the state auditor's report showing Douglas County, in which Omaha is located, will be $5 million in the red soon. "They just overspent," he said.

The key Unicameral issue of his legislative career, according to Skarda, was broadening the state tax base by enactment of sales and income taxation to replace the statewide property tax.

Skarda hasn't softened his view on that issue of the late 1960s.

"It never did a ...thing" to ease the taxpayer's growing burden in financing government," Skarda said. He recalls voting against it even though he felt he was pressured by the administration of then Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

The pressure? Release of news, due to his negative vote, that he and Omaha Sen. Gene Mahoney had been ticketed for speeding. Skarda said the administration released the information.

Bill Would Change Commitment Laws

The Unicameral's Public Health and Welfare Committee Friday introduced its promised bill to revise Nebraska's mental health commitment laws.

The bill, LB806, is the product of legal research that began during last year's session and became even more important when a court last month ruled portions of the state's commitment laws unconstitutional.

Originally, the new proposal was to have been an amendment to a LB156, introduced last year. Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, health chairman, said the decision was made to simply introduce a new bill. Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha was instrumental in drafting the new bill.

The court decision was aimed primarily at the procedures for involuntary commitments.

Under the committee bill, there would be specific deadlines to be met in involuntary procedures. One of them is an evaluation by a "qualified mental health professional" within 36 hours of the time a person is placed in custody prior to a hearing.

In turn, a hearing by a mental health board must be held within 48 hours.

The proposal would change existing law on those subject to involuntary commitments in that the board would have to find a person to be dangerous.

The measure would also require a complaint against any individual to be filed with the county attorney, who could request a hearing by a mental health board.

Committee Would Act As Liaison

The Unicameral's Executive Board Friday heard a proposal to form a special committee to deal with the governor.

Omaha Sen. Warren Swigart suggested a three-man panel be formed to act as a legislative liaison with Gov. J. J. Exon on controversial matters such as legislation he is about to veto.

Swigart said the panel could negotiate with the governor to determine if the legislative and executive branches of government can reach a common denominator and salvage legislation.

He suggested that the committee members be Speaker Jules Burbach of Hartington and two Omaha lawmakers, Sen. Eugene Mahoney, chairman of the Executive Board, and Sen. George Syas, dean of the Unicameral.

Swigart said the committee could also respond to public challenges of the legislature to protect the Unicameral's image.

Burbach, a member of the Executive Board, said the idea has merit, but suggested the board study the plan before acting on it.

Bill To Regulate Lotteries, Raffles Offered By Kelly

Legislation to regulate lotteries and other promotional schemes such as raffles and trading stamps was introduced in the Legislature Friday.

Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly offered LB801 because "when it comes time to get the benefit, I want to get paid."

The bill covers lotteries or similar raffles with prizes of $5,000 or more in money or worth, and trading stamp or coupon redemption schemes of any amount.

Kelly said the $5.000 figure was chosen in an effort to exempt small church lotteries and similar charitable fund raisers.

"The lotteries," Kelly said, "were just stuck in there because it's the same thing—you pay money now to get something later."

The bill calls for people running such promotional games of chance to register with the secretary of state and pay $10 to obtain a permit.

It also requires that a trust account or surety bond equal to the amount of prizes offered be established.

In the event the prize advertised was not forthcoming, the secretary of state would notify the Justice Department and the attorney general would investigate to determine if fraud was involved.

Should the case prove to be fraud, the prizes would be covered by the trust account or surety bond.

Beermann Puts $80,000 Tag On Special Election

Secretary of State Allen Beermann said Friday that a legislative proposal to hold a separate presidential primary would cost $80.000.

Beermann, the state's chief election officer, wrote a memo to senators, citing potential problems in the proposed LB120.

The bill was offered by Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch in an attempt to shorten the time between the primary and the general election.

It calls for a separate May presidential primary and a September primary for other offices.

When someone says, "It's for you," our minds begin to buzz with questions. Who is it? What do they want? Good News? Bad News? Work? Pleasure?

It's for you! Commanding words that summon our immediate attention. And those words apply as well to the Church as they do to a telephone call.

The Church is for you! Its services of worship, its program of religious education, its comforting ministration in time of spiritual crisis . . . all for you!

And the Church has a vital message — good news for a discouraged world. It has a glorious work before it — a happy fellowship for men, women and children of noble purpose.

The Church deserves your support. It's for you!

When someone says, "It's for you," our minds begin to buzz with questions. Who is it? What do they want? Good News? Bad News? Work? Pleasure?

It's for you! Commanding words that summon our immediate attention. And those words apply as well to the Church as they do to a telephone call.

The Church is for you! Its services of worship, its program of religious education, its comforting ministration in time of spiritual crisis . . . all for you!

And the Church has a vital message — good news for a discouraged world. It has a glorious work before it — a happy fellowship for men, women and children of noble purpose.

The Church deserves your support. It's for you!

Bill Limits Money Held In Escrow By Lenders

By The Associated Press

The Legislature gave first-round approval Friday to a bill that would limit the amount of your money that a lending institution could hold in an escrow account, but senators rejected an amendment that would have made the lending institution pay you interest on that money.

The escrow accounts involved are those in which lending institutions hold funds for tax and insurance payments on property. The account money is collected, by those institutions that require escrow, when a monthly mortgage payment is made.

Lawmakers advanced Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett's LB502 on a 34-2 vote. That bill would allow the bank or savings and loan to withhold only enough money to cover insurance, taxes or other payments. The institution could not collect more than was needed—doing so would be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $100 to $500.

Senators rejected an amendment offered by South Sioux City Sen. John Murphy, which would have required lenders to pay 5%, or prevailing passbook interest, on escrow accounts, whichever was greater.

Murphy and Neligh Sen. John DeCamp argued that lending institutions make substantial profits on the escrow account money before paying taxes and insurance for the people who actually own it. They argued it would only be fair for lenders to pay interest on the escrow.

Barnett said he personally favored interest on escrow, but said he did not think the bill could be passed with that requirement because lending institutions would strongly oppose it.

Barnett also argued that requiring interest on escrow accounts might prompt lending institutions to raise the interest they charge for a loan.

Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich opposed the Murphy amendment, saying it would hurt lenders and could adversely affect the economy.

Barnett's original bill called for 5% interest on escrow, but that measure was killed in committee. Barnett persuaded his colleagues to bring it to the floor, and during the current session offered his amendment.

First-Time Approval Given Bill Ending Dual Taxes For Co-Ops

The Legislature voted 41-3 preliminary approval to a bill Friday to end so-called double taxation of co-ops.

Speaker Jules Burbach and other senators said the double taxation occurred through an error in the state's revenue code adopted in the late 1960s.

Burbach said eliminating the double taxation would cost the state from $300,000 to $500,000. The real fight, which lasted for two mornings of legislative debate, was over who would pay the taxes.

Burbach wanted the co-op patrons to pay income tax only on the portions of the profits they received in cash payments. Burbach wanted the co-op to pay tax on the retained profits, but his amendment went down to defeat 13-28.

LB382, sponsored by Sens. Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Herbert Duis of Gothenburg, requires the patrons to pay income tax on the cash they receive and the profits the co-op retains.

"The patron is the co-op," Duis said, arguing against Burbach's amendment. "All you are doing is creating two tax statements instead of one."

"It's totally unfair to send that farmer a (tax) liability for more than he gets in cash," said Adams Sen. Bill Burrows, arguing for Burbach's amendment.

Much of the debate, longest of the 1976 session, was devoted to the virtue or lack of virtue of the co-ops.

Kremer said farmers formed the co-ops because commercial elevators would "steal them blind."

"Let's get off this neighborhood co-op kick and realize you have a bureaucracy at the top of this co-op," said South Sioux City Sen. John Murphy.

Murphy mentioned the dairy co-op's milk fund scandal, and Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit said private corporations have also been recently involved in scandal.

Unicam May Revise Fiscal Analysts Office

An Executive Board bill was introduced Friday to revise the legislative fiscal analysts office into an arm of the Unicameral with spending review duties.

The bill, LB799, would give the Unicameral's fiscal advisers performance auditing powers, cutting back their duties regarding budget recommendations.

Currently, the legislative fiscal analysts concentrate on recommendations of spending levels to the Unicameral's Appropriations Committee.

The bill, product of an Executive Board subcommittee headed by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh, also would authorize the board to hire an executive director.

The late Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance held that post after he was defeated for his seat in the legislature, but the post is now vacant.

Another feature of LB799 calls for a personnel classification system and pay plan for legislative employes.

State Workers' Pay Reviewed

The Unicameral's Labor Committee Friday introduced a bill that would require state employes receive pay at time-and-a-half rates for overtime work, or compensating time off at the same rate.

Milligan Sen. Richard Maresh said the bill also bans state employe work on Saturday or Sunday except in emergency situations.

Maresh said he didn't agree with all the provisions of the bill, but he told officials of the Nebraska Association of Public Employes his panel would give it a hearing.

Total Assets, Deposits Up At West Gate

West Gate bank has reported substantial increases in deposits and total assets for 1975. Deposits rose 25% to $6,843,397, and assets increased 22% to $7,960,181.

Re-elected as bank directors for 1976 were: S.E. Copple, Edward Copple, Robert Wekesser, Standley Haight, Dr. Carl Norden Jr., John Mower and Don Kelley. Robert Johnson is a newly-elected director.

Foundation For Business Said Strong In Lincoln

Lincoln maintained a strong foundation for business in 1975, a year when other communities experienced economic problems, according to Paul J. Amen, outgoing Chamber of Commerce president.

"Lincoln's current unemployment rate is 4.7%, compared to a nationwide average of 8.6%. Our community's total labor force increased by 3,250 during the last 12 months. Five plants added a total of 179,200 square feet to their existing facilities, creating 400 new jobs," Amen wrote in the report.

"In addition, 1975 retail sales in Lincoln, excluding motor vehicle sales, totaled nearly $602 million, an increase of more than $42 million over 1974. And the total value of new construction in Lincoln during the year was $46.2 million."

In addition to promoting business, the Chamber needs to be "more responsive to toal community needs in social, educational, cultural, political and civic life," Amen said at a luncheon Friday.

He also said the Chamber needs to "do a better job of communicating its views and actions to the general public."

Leo J. Beck, Jr., of Alexander & Alexander, Inc., is the 1976 Chamber president.

United Airlines Tells Net Loss

Chicago (AP) — United Airlines, shut down for 16 days in December by a strike, had a consolidated net loss of $20 million for that month, a preliminary report by the nation's biggest air carrier showed Friday.

The loss dropped the airline into the red for 1975 with a loss of about $7 million. For the first 11 months of 1975, net earnings from airline operations had totaled $13 million, the report said.

The strike was by members of the International Association of Machinists.

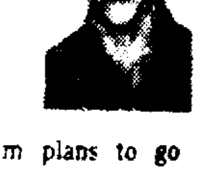
UNL Freshman Wins $100 Bond

North Platte — Brian Keiser, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln freshman agricultural student was presented the Conservation Achievement Award here Friday night at the Nebraska Land Improvement Contractors Association annual meeting.

The $100 bond award is presented each year by NLICA to the second-place conservation winner in the State 4-H contest.

The 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Keiser of Gothenburg has been active in Dawson County 4-H work for nine years. He has won numerous awards in livestock judging and was presented a Blonde d-Aquitaine calf by the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association for being top individual judge in 1975.

Meet Star Carrier Tim Cheever



Timothy Cheever

Money Earned

Timothy Cheever is glad he has a paper route because he likes to earn his own money.

Both he and his brother are carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star in the same part of town and their parents say that it has been an excellent experience for their sons.

Tim, who took over his route a year and a half ago, feels that his business venture has taught him how to handle money and is happy for the opportunity to meet people. And both he and his supervisor are pleased with the increase Tim's route has shown.

A student at Northeast High School, Tim plans to go to college and major in English.

In his spare time, he collects stamps, rides horseback and is currently looking forward to a skiing trip to Minnesota.

Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cheever of Lincoln.

Prime Rate Cut Lifts Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — A prime rate reduction by New York's First National City Bank helped the stock market close out the busiest week in its history with a modest advance Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 5.12 to 929.63, finishing the week with a net rise of 18.50 points.

Gainers outweighted losers 925 to 539 among the 1,899 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume, at 25.94 million shares, fell a good deal short of matching Thursday's all-time high of 38.45 million.

But the day's figure was more than enough to push the total for the week to a record 159.69 million shares. The previous peak had been 145.68 million in the last week of January 1975.

The Dow has advanced in all but two of the first 11 sessions of the new year. As of Friday's close it had gained 77.22 points since New Year's.

Declining interest rates — a key element in that upsurge in stock prices — were a prominent factor again Friday.

As the market opened, New York's First National City Bank, the second largest in the nation, announced it was lowering its prime lending rate from 7 to 6¾ per cent effective Monday.

Wall Street had generally been expecting the move, but it nevertheless seemed to give investors a psychological lift.

After the close, the Federal Reserve took another apparent step toward a more stimulative credit policy, reducing its discount rate from 6 to 5.5 per cent.

The discount rate is the charge the Fed imposes on loans it makes to its member commercial banks.

The market also looked as though it was drawing support from generally strong showings in the first of the fourth quarter corporate earnings reports.

B.F. Goodrich was the day's most active issue, up 1 at 24. A 222,000-share block traded at that price.

IBM, which posted a fourth quarter earnings gain of 31.8 per cent, rose 2⅜ to 242.

Great Western United was a notable loser, sliding 1⅞ to 23⅜. The company said a quarterly loss it reported Thursday included a $51.3 million loss in commodities transactions.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 84.30, up .57.

Livestock Trade Dull

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—It was another lackluster Friday on the Omaha livestock market.

Hogs turned higher on a small run, while the slaughter trade on cattle and sheep was virtually non-existent.

The day's hog run was estimated at only about 3,000 head.

Barrows and gilts turned strong to 50-cents higher in active trade, with top-grading handyweights bulking from $50.50-$51.00.

Sows trended steady to strong on markings from $39.50-$40.75.

There were about 2,500 cattle and calves on offer, but most of them were feeders for Friday's auction. There were no slaughter steers and heifers on offer, and the limited trade on cows was called barely steady.

The sheep trade was nominal.

In briefly checking the overall weekly trends, hog sellers were the only ones with something to smile about, because the butcher top went back over the $50.00 mark this week.

Barrows and gilts trended strong to 50-cents higher, with some offerings over 260-pounds turning as much as $1.00 higher. Sows turned 75-cents to $1.25 lower.

Average-good to prime steers were called $2.50-to-3.00 lower, while standard and low-good steer offerings trended 50-cents to $1.00 off. Heifers and cows both turned $2.00-to-$2.50 lower.

Slaughter lambs trended 25-to-75 cents lower, and the limited trade on slaughter ewes was called 50-cents to $1.00 higher.

Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP-USDA)—Livestock quotations Friday:

Hogs 3,000; barrows and gilts active, strong to 50 higher; U.S. 1-3 200-240 lb 50.50-51.00; sows steady to strong, 340-600 lb 39.50-40.75.

Cattle and calves 2,500; supply mainly feeder cattle for Friday auction; limited trading on cows barely steady; no steers or heifers on offer; utility cows 20.50-21.50; canner and cutter 16.00-20.50.

Sheep none.

Estimated receipts Monday: Cattle and calves 7,500; hogs 5,500; sheep 700.

Soybean, Corn Futures Higher

Chicago (AP) — Soybean and corn futures prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday.

Wheat and oats futures suffered small losses.

Most commodities opened higher and retained the gains through part of the morning, mostly on the basis of strength in corn.

Bill Limits Money Held In Escrow By Lenders

By The Associated Press

The Legislature gave first-round approval Friday to a bill that would limit the amount of your money that a lending institution could hold in an escrow account, but senators rejected an amendment that would have made the lending institution pay you interest on that money.

The escrow accounts involved are those in which lending institutions hold funds for tax and insurance payments on property. The account money is collected, by those institutions that require escrow, when a monthly mortgage payment is made.

Lawmakers advanced Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett's LB502 on a 34-2 vote. That bill would allow the bank or savings and loan to withhold only enough money to cover insurance, taxes or other payments. The institution could not collect more than was needed—doing so would be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $100 to $500.

Senators rejected an amendment offered by South Sioux City Sen. John Murphy, which would have required lenders to pay 5%, or prevailing passbook interest, on escrow accounts, whichever was greater.

Murphy and Neligh Sen. John DeCamp argued that lending institutions make substantial profits on the escrow account money before paying taxes and insurance for the people who actually own it. They argued it would only be fair for lenders to pay interest on the escrow.

Barnett said he personally favored interest on escrow, but said he did not think the bill could be passed with that requirement because lending institutions would strongly oppose it.

Barnett also argued that requiring interest on escrow accounts might prompt lending institutions to raise the interest they charge for a loan.

Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich opposed the Murphy amendment, saying it would hurt lenders and could adversely affect the economy.

Barnett's original bill called for 5% interest on escrow, but that measure was killed in committee. Barnett persuaded his colleagues to bring it to the floor, and during the current session offered his amendment.

First-Time Approval Given Bill Ending Dual Taxes For Co-Ops

The Legislature voted 41-3 preliminary approval to a bill Friday to end so-called double taxation of co-ops.

Speaker Jules Burbach and other senators said the double taxation occurred through an error in the state's revenue code adopted in the late 1960s.

Burbach said eliminating the double taxation would cost the state from $300,000 to $500,000. The real fight, which lasted for two mornings of legislative debate, was over who would pay the taxes.

Burbach wanted the co-op patrons to pay income tax only on the portions of the profits they received in cash payments. Burbach wanted the co-op to pay tax on the retained profits, but his amendment went down to defeat 13-28.

LB382, sponsored by Sens. Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Herbert Duis of Gothenburg, requires the patrons to pay income tax on the cash they receive and the profits the co-op retains.

"The patron is the co-op," Duis said, arguing against Burbach's amendment. "All you are doing is creating two tax statements instead of one."

"It's totally unfair to send that farmer a (tax) liability for more than he gets in cash," said Adams Sen. Bill Burrows, arguing for Burbach's amendment.

Much of the debate, longest of the 1976 session, was devoted to the virtue or lack of virtue of the co-ops.

Kremer said farmers formed the co-ops because commercial elevators would "steal them blind."

"Let's get off this neighborhood co-op kick and realize you have a bureaucracy at the top of this co-op," said South Sioux City Sen. John Murphy.

Murphy mentioned the dairy co-op's milk fund scandal, and Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit said private corporations have also been recently involved in scandal.

Unicam May Revise Fiscal Analysts Office

An Executive Board bill was introduced Friday to revise the legislative fiscal analysts office into an arm of the Unicameral with spending review duties.

The bill, LB799, would give the Unicameral's fiscal advisers performance auditing powers, cutting back their duties regarding budget recommendations.

Currently, the legislative fiscal analysts concentrate on recommendations of spending levels to the Unicameral's Appropriations Committee.

The bill, product of an Executive Board subcommittee headed by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh, also would authorize the board to hire an executive director.

The late Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance held that post after he was defeated for his seat in the legislature, but the post is now vacant.

Another feature of LB799 calls for a personnel classification system and pay plan for legislative employes.

State Workers' Pay Reviewed

The Unicameral's Labor Committee Friday introduced a bill that would require state employes receive pay at time-and-a-half rates for overtime work, or compensating time off at the same rate.

Milligan Sen. Richard Maresh said the bill also bans state employe work on Saturday or Sunday except in emergency situations.

Maresh said he didn't agree with all the provisions of the bill, but he told officials of the Nebraska Association of Public Employes his panel would give it a hearing.

Total Assets, Deposits Up At West Gate

West Gate bank has reported substantial increases in deposits and total assets for 1975. Deposits rose 25% to $6,843,397, and assets increased 22% to $7,960,181.

Re-elected as bank directors for 1976 were: S.E. Copple, Edward Copple, Robert Wekesser, Standley Haight, Dr. Carl Norden Jr., John Mower and Don Kelley. Robert Johnson is a newly-elected director.

Foundation For Business Said Strong In Lincoln

Lincoln maintained a strong foundation for business in 1975, a year when other communities experienced economic problems, according to Paul J. Amen, outgoing Chamber of Commerce president.

"Lincoln's current unemployment rate is 4.7%, compared to a nationwide average of 8.6%. Our community's total labor force increased by 3,250 during the last 12 months. Five plants added a total of 179,200 square feet to their existing facilities, creating 400 new jobs," Amen wrote in the report.

"In addition, 1975 retail sales in Lincoln, excluding motor vehicle sales, totaled nearly $602 million, an increase of more than $42 million over 1974. And the total value of new construction in Lincoln during the year was $46.2 million."

In addition to promoting business, the Chamber needs to be "more responsive to toal community needs in social, educational, cultural, political and civic life," Amen said at a luncheon Friday.

He also said the Chamber needs to "do a better job of communicating its views and actions to the general public."

Leo J. Beck, Jr., of Alexander & Alexander, Inc., is the 1976 Chamber president.

United Airlines Tells Net Loss

Chicago (AP) — United Airlines, shut down for 16 days in December by a strike, had a consolidated net loss of $20 million for that month, a preliminary report by the nation's biggest air carrier showed Friday.

The loss dropped the airline into the red for 1975 with a loss of about $7 million. For the first 11 months of 1975, net earnings from airline operations had totaled $13 million, the report said.

The strike was by members of the International Association of Machinists.

UNL Freshman Wins $100 Bond

North Platte — Brian Keiser, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln freshman agricultural student was presented the Conservation Achievement Award here Friday night at the Nebraska Land Improvement Contractors Association annual meeting.

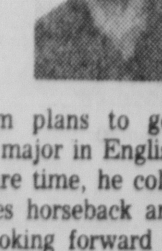
The $100 bond award is presented each year by NLICA to the second-place conservation winner in the State 4-H contest.

The 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Keiser of Gothenburg has been active in Dawson County 4-H work for nine years. He has won numerous awards in livestock judging and was presented a Blonde d-Aquitaine calf by the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association for being top individual judge in 1975.

Meet Star Carrier Tim Cheever

Timothy Cheever is glad he has a paper route because he likes to earn his own money.

Both he and his brother are carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star in the same part of town and their parents say that it has been an excellent experience for their sons.



Timothy Cheever

Money Earned

Tim, who took over his route a year and a half ago, feels that his business venture has taught him how to handle money and is happy for the opportunity to meet people. And both he and his supervisor are pleased with the increase Tim's route has shown.

A student at Northeast High School, Tim plans to go to college and major in English.

In his spare time, he collects stamps, rides horseback and is currently looking forward to a skiing trip to Minnesota.

Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cheever of Lincoln.

Prime Rate Cut Lifts Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — A prime rate reduction by New York's First National City Bank helped the stock market close out the busiest week in its history with a modest advance Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 5.12 to 929.63, finishing the week with a net rise of 18.50 points.

Gainers outweighted losers 925 to 539 among the 1,899 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume, at 25.94 million shares, fell a good deal short of matching Thursday's all-time high of 38.45 million.

But the day's figure was more than enough to push the total for the week to a record 159.69 million shares. The previous peak had been 145.68 million in the last week of January 1975.

The Dow has advanced in all but two of the first 11 sessions of the new year. As of Friday's close it had gained 77.22 points since New Year's.

Declining interest rates — a key element in that upsurge in stock prices — were a prominent factor again Friday.

As the market opened, New York's First National City Bank, the second largest in the nation, announced it was lowering its prime lending rate from 7 to 6¾ per cent effective Monday.

Wall Street had generally been expecting the move, but it nevertheless seemed to give investors a psychological lift.

After the close, the Federal Reserve took another apparent step toward a more stimulative credit policy, reducing its discount rate from 6 to 5.5 per cent.

The discount rate is the charge the Fed imposes on loans it makes to its member commercial banks.

The market also looked as though it was drawing support from generally strong showings in the first of the fourth quarter corporate earnings reports.

B.F. Goodrich was the day's most active issue, up 1 at 24. A 222,000-share block traded at that price.

IBM, which posted a fourth quarter earnings gain of 31.8 per cent, rose 2⅜ to 242.

Great Western United was a notable loser, sliding 1⅞ to 23⅝. The company said a quarterly loss it reported Thursday included a $51.3 million loss in commodities transactions.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 84.30, up .57.

Livestock Trade Dull

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—It was another lackluster Friday on the Omaha livestock market.

Hogs turned higher on a small run, while the slaughter trade on cattle and sheep was virtually non-existent.

The day's hog run was estimated at only about 3,000 head.

Barrows and gilts turned strong to 50-cents higher in active trade, with top-grading handyweights bulking from $50.50-$51.00.

Sows trended steady to strong on markings from $39.50-$40.75.

There were about 2,500 cattle and calves on offer, but most of them were feeders for Friday's auction. There were no slaughter steers and heifers on offer, and the limited trade on cows was called barely steady.

The sheep trade was nominal.

In briefly checking the overall weekly trends, hog sellers were the only ones with something to smile about, because the butcher top went back over the $50.00 mark this week.

Barrows and gilts trended strong to 50-cents higher, with some offerings over 260-pounds turning as much as $1.00 higher. Sows turned 75-cents to $1.25 lower.

Average-good to prime steers were called $2.50-to-3.00 lower, while standard and low-good steer offerings trended 50-cents to $1.00 off. Heifers and cows both turned $2.00-to-$2.50 lower.

Slaughter lambs trended 25-to-75 cents lower, and the limited trade on slaughter ewes was called 50-cents to $1.00 higher.

Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)(USDA)—Livestock quotations Friday:

Soybean, Corn Futures Higher

Chicago (AP) — Soybean and corn futures prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday.

Wheat and oats futures suffered small losses.

Most commodities opened higher and retained the gains through part of the morning, mostly on the basis of strength in corn.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Saturday, January 17, 1976

Professional magicians agree that scientists are easier to fool than children. A scientist's testimony, judging the performance of a psychic, is regarded as next to worthless if a magician has not been present during the experiments. Science is not a sacred cow. A scientist passing judgment on astrology — without investigating the subject — is as foolish as a scientist trying to catch a psychic at trickery without the presence of a magician. Too many scientists today are beginning to believe hack television scripts depicting them as some sort of superbeings. What do you think?

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on creativity, changes, a variety of sensations, encounters. Taurus, Libra could be in picture. Individual who is creative will pay you meaningful compliment. Don't kick toe in sand. Accept in mature manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Co-operate with Aries. Be practical about property, long range projects. Improve security. Avoid tendency to be careless — or to take people for granted. One you care for needs reassurance. Give it and do so in affectionate manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis on getting ideas to work, on trips, calls, communication with neighbors. Relationships intensify. Nothing is apt to be halfway — it's all or nothing. Know it and realize stakes are steep and for keeps. Capricorn could play significant role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent is on collection, payment, personal possessions. You can get rid of losing proposition. You receive credit for past efforts. A unique honor comes your way. Aries, Libra are very much in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lunar cycle high — get going on your own. Set pace. Dance to your own tune — make new starts in new directions. Popularity could soar. One who is self-centered makes confession to you. Be a gracious winner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be discreet enough to give pass word without revealing identity. Message will be clarified. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Aquarian fits into picture. You take part in a secret maneuver, operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get your wish. You also find yourself busy answering calls, placating those with requests both valid and foolish. Problem concerning weight, diet could come to fore. Be a good guest without breaking your own resolutions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Challenge, test ability to synthesize, to put together puzzle pieces — these are emphasized. One "in command" wants to be brought up-to-date. Key is to be thorough without being tiresome. Be willing to bury ego, at least temporarily. You'll understand!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your dreams, visions come into focus. You are perceptive, capable now of delineating outline of future. Gemini, Virgo persons could be in picture. Write, advertise, communicate — make your feelings known and put views on record.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money, purchases, budgets, plans for spending and saving — these are highlighted. Dig beneath surfaces — if persistent you uncover portfitable scheme. One concerned with occult presents intriguing theory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Permit others to say their piece. You gain by listening, making observations and taking notes. This is not time to insist, chide or issue ultimatums. Time is on your side if you are not overanxious.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message. Maintain moderate, steady pace. Brush aside temptation to skip essentials. Don't delegate too many duties. Capricorn, Cancer individuals could figure prominently. Inquiry received concerning special service.

IF JAN. 17 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you know how to organize, to get priorities in order, to handle responsibility. You understand time — and you can plod on to recognition when most persons have conceded defeat. Cancer, Leo and Capricorn individuals play important roles in your life. This will be a year of marvelous opportunities for you both in personal and professional areas. March and December will be most significant months.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Saturday, January 17, 1976

Professional magicians agree that scientists are easier to fool than children. A scientist's testimony, judging the performance of a psychic, is regarded as next to worthless if a magician has not been present during the experiments. Science is not a sacred cow. A scientist, passing judgment on astrology — without investigating the subject — is as foolish as a scientist trying to catch a psychic at trickery without the presence of a magician. Too many scientists today are beginning to believe hack television scripts depicting them as some sort of superbeings. What do you think?

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on creativity, changes a variety of sensations, encounters. Taurus, Libra could bei in picture. Individual who is creative will pay you meaningful compliment. Don't kick toe in sand. Accept in mature manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Co-operate with Aries. Be practical about property, long-range projects. Improve security. Avoid tendency to be careless — or to take people for granted. One you care for needs reassurance. Give it and do so in affectionate manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis in getting ideas to work, on trips, calls, communication with neighbors. Relationships intensify. Nothing is apt to be halfway — it is all or nothing. Know it and realize stakes are steep and for keeps. Capricorn could play significant role.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent is on collection, payment, personal possessions. You can get rid of losing proposition. You receive credit for past efforts. A unique honor comes your way. Aries, Libra are very much in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lunar cycle high — get going on your own. Set pace. Dance to your own tune — make new starts in new directions. Popularity could soar. One who is self-centered makes concession to you. Be a gracious winner!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be discreet enough to give "pass word" without revealing identity. Message will be clarified. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Aquarian fits into picture. You take part in a secret maneuver, operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get your wish. You also find yourself busy answering calls, placating those with requests, both valid and foolish. Problem concerning weight, diet could come to fore. Be a good guest without breaking your own resolutions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Challenge, test, ability to synthesize, to put together puzzle pieces — these are emphasized. One "in command" wants to be brought up-to-date. Key is to be thorough without being tiresome. Be willing to bury ego, at least temporarily. You'll understand!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your dreams, visions come into focus. You are perceptive, capable now of delineating outline of future. Gemini, Virgo persons could be in picture. Write, advertise, communicate — make your feelings known and put views on record.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money, purchases, budgets, plans for spending and saving — these are highlighted. Dig beneath surfaces — if persistent you uncover porfitable scheme. One concerned with occult presents intriguing theory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Permit others to say their piece. You gain by listening, making observations and taking notes. This is not time to insist, chide or issue ultimatums. Time is on your side, if you are not overanxious.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message. Maintain moderate, steady pace. Brush aside temptation to skip essentials. Don't delegate too many duties. Capricorn, Cancer individuals could figure prominently. Inquiry received concerning special service.

IF JAN. 17 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you know how to organize, to get priorities in order, to handle responsibility. You understand time — and you can plod on to recognition when most persons have conceded defeat. Cancer, Leo and Capricorn individuals play important roles in your life. This will be a year of marvelous opportunities for you both in personal and professional areas. March and December will be most significant months.

'Super' Conference Delayed By NCAA

St. Louis—Their hopes of reorganization apparently delayed for at least a year, NCAA Division I football powers rallied enough support Friday to defeat a proposal which would have based financial aid for athletes on need.

To open the Friday meeting of the association's 70th annual convention, the NCAA Council, the organization's policy-making body, said it would withdraw a proposal to split Division I football to create a so-called super conference.

The council instead offered a resolution calling for a revised recommendation to be made at next year's session.

However, reorganization remained as the 125th item on the convention agenda. Discussion of the move was delayed until Saturday, the final day of the meeting.

The Big Eight Conference won its battle against a proposed plan to base financial aid to student-athletes on need, but it lost its fight to eliminate restrictions on the size of coaching staffs.

Other than that, it was a day of frustration, comedy or whatever you want to name it at the convention.

It took more than four hours of actual floor debate time to get just one measure decided and it needed a couple of eloquent speeches to even accomplish that.

The measure was the one which proposed that all financial aid be based on the need of parents to receive help. It failed.

In the interim, Father Edmund P. Joyce, vice-president of Notre Dame, and Ross Pritchard, president of Arkansas State, made talks which appeared to sway convention delegates on the vital considerations at hand.

"The need plan failed to pass because of Father Joyce," remarked Keith Broman, Nebraska faculty representative. "He returned some sanity to the convention. He pointed out we were flying blind."

Tough Times

Pritchard, one of the NCAA honorees as a Silver Anniversary scholarship recipient, admitted collegiate competition has come upon tough times. "Economic pressures, most of which are generated beyond our own campuses, are inescapable," he said. "Many of our additional aggravations are generated internally on campus as a result of a rambunctious urge to keep up with the competition.

"The escalating belief is that if we can match bigger athletic staffs, equalize more intensive programs of recruiting, provide a more extravagant set of facilities, we will attract the 'blue chip' athlete who will fill our stadiums, arenas and our pocketbooks. In all of this there is a peculiar regeneration of expenditure, not unlike the drunk who increases his drinking to forget that he is a drunk."

Pritchard pleaded for balance in the NCAA and a redefinition of the policy and decision-making process of the organization.

In terms of balance, I would hope that we recognize that we represent hundreds of institutions of great diversity and that our decisions must not seize at the jugular of any particular group."

Pritchard's best comment follows:

"It seems to me we need careful attention paid to what constitutes policy as contrasted with legislative minutiae which is better left for decision-making on campus.

'Important'

"While economy is important, it is not economical to engage the time and attention of more than 500 professionals to debate whether we should award letter sweaters. Somewhere in our concern for economy we have drifted into a tangle of legislative trivia. As a college president already numbed by too many reports and ambiguous guidelines, I would hate to see the NCAA become the HEW of college athletics."

Later, Pritchard said his reference to HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) included all facets of governmental controls — not just Title IX, which deals with women's athletic programs.

NE's Johnson Upset Despite Rocket Win

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Northeast basketball coach Ed Johnson had mixed emotions after his Rockets administered a 49-38 setback to Lincoln High at Pershing Auditorium Friday night before 3,300 spectators.

"Well, we won, and that's what we came here to do," Johnson said. "But other than that, I don't know."

Northeast looked impressive at times, and at other times not so impressive, while notching its sixth victory in eight starts.

"At times, I thought we played really well, especially in the third quarter," Johnson said. "But we're just not consistent enough throughout the game.

"Like in the second quarter," he added. "We stayed on 17 for a long, long time before we scored again."

Battled Even

The two rated teams, Northeast No. 8 and the Links No. 10, battled on even terms with Northeast leading 17-14 with 5:44 left in the first half.

Then neither team was able to score for more than three minutes splitting eight turnovers evenly before Northeast's Doug Berka canned an 18-footer with 1:59 left.

The Links had to wait five full minutes between baskets when Charlie Metzger scored from eight feet out with :15 left and Lincoln High trailing 21-16.

Berka was fouled on an attempted drive by Metzger with one second left in the half and extended the lead to 23-16 with two free throws.

Seven Straight

Following intermission, Northeast came out smoking with seven unanswered points in a two minute span on two fielders from Berka, one from Gary Karthauser and a free throw from Bob Butcher.

Ralph McWilliams' eight-footer with 5:42 left in the third quarter broke the ice for Lincoln High once again, but it was too little and too late as the Rockets extended their lead to 40-16 at the quarter break.

Then mistakes hurt the Rockets as Lincoln High outscored Northeast 13-9 to close the margin to the final 11 points, 49-38.

"We had some bad passes show up in there and we took a number of off-balanced shots that hurt us," Johnson noted "We didn't even given ourselves a chance to make any baskets."

For Lincoln High, the loss marked its third straight, and the third straight game with less than 40 poins.

Miss Stability

"We didn't play very well at all," Links coach Aldy Johnson commented. "I probably shouldn't say it, but it didn't surprise me tonight. We were missing a little stability in there."

The Links' leading scorer, junior Jerry Heckman, was sidelined with an injured leg.

"We tried to do some different things tonight that maybe we shouldn't have," Johnson added. "But 32% shooting didn't help either."

Aldy is hoping the three straight losses don't get to his Links emotionally.

"I said at the beginning of the year that we were going to be up and down, and we have been," he said. "We've played a lot of good basketball this year, and there's alot left to play. We'll be back"

Two Apiece

Northeast, at 6-2, faces two games next week with Millard coming to Lincoln for a Friday night game at Nebraska Wesleyan and the Rockets on the road to Norfolk Saturday night.

Lincoln High, 4-5, also faces two games next week, on the road Friday at Ralston and at home Saturday against Omaha Northwest.

Grand Island Stuns Southeast

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Grand Island — Low Dog. Back Seat. Laughing Stock. Bill Kropp used everyone of those terms here Friday night to describe the nightmare he's gone through in his four years as Grand Island's basketball coach.

If the nightmare wasn't already over in an 8-0 start this season, it ended abruptly here Friday night. The third-ranked Islanders stepped into a dream world with a surprisingly lopsided 73-49 Trans-Nebraska Conference win over fourth-ranked Lincoln Southeast.

"This game meant everything in the world to us," Kropp said. "It's the biggest one I've been involved with in Grand Island. We've been the low dog, riding in the backseat for so long, we wanted to know what the frontseat felt like."

Indeed Grand Island knows the feeling now and very likely could jump all the way to the top spot in next Tuesday's Sunday Journal and Star Class A ratings after shooting 64 per cent to bury the Knights for the first time in four years.

"I remember the first year we came out on the floor," Kropp recalled. "They — people in the eastern part of the state — laughed at us. And rightfully so.

"It's stuck down deep in my craw," he added. "I've never been able to spit it out. It's been like poison down there."

The sickness should have vanished sometime during halftime. The Islanders, hitting 18 of 28 shots, commanded a 42-21 lead at intermission. They had turned Southeast everyway but inside-out offensively and defensively.

"We really hustled, didn't we?" Kropp asked himself rhetorically. "When you get to believing you're an underdog like we did, it's tough for the other team to overcome. We could see they had some complaceny in their eyes."

Grand Island wasted no time rubbing it out, racing to a 17-3 lead five minutes into the first quarter. The Islanders' full-court pressed, ran the fastbreak to perfection, outhustled, outplayed, out-everythinged the Knights.

The basket was like a magnet to them — whether they needed a full-court pass or a simple feed underneath. They almost always seemed to penetrate for the layup.

"They showed why they're 8-0," Southeast coach Wally McNaught said. "They did everything an 8-0 ball club would do. They had speed. They got the ball down the court. They had good motion. They hit the shot on the tailend of the break.

"I can't think of one aspect where we didn't get beat," he added. "We didn't just get beat. We got slaughtered. I absorbed the whole 32 minutes. I kept watching the clock and wondered how much longer there was.

"I can understand why Grand Island was so much higher than we were," McNaught said. "I'm not trying to sound vain. But when was the last time they have beaten us? This is the way it works outstate. If I were coaching at North Platte or Scottsbluff, I would feel the same way."

Grand Island was forced to slow things down in the second half, but hustle never wavered. The Islanders also kept their shooting eye sharp, hitting four of seven field goals in the third quarter and five of seven in the final period.

They finished 27 of 42 for 64 per cent. Southeast, whose record dropped to 7-2, hit 18 of 48 shots for 38 per cent.

Grand Island accomplished the lopsided decision without a concentrated effort from 6-5 junior center Jeff Finn, the state's leading Class A scorer with a 25.5 average. He hit seven of eight field goals and three of three free throws for 17 points.

But his teammates were equally impressive. Paul Trieschman, another junior, canned eight of 14 shots and finished with a game-high 18 points.

Kraig Keller hit all five of his field goal attempts to contribute 11 points and senior Steve Frei also added 11 while quarterbacking the Islanders' fast-break and pressing defense.

Waverly Halts Pius X, 35-21

Waverly — Lincoln Pius X basketball coach Don Kelley was less than pleased after his Thunderbolts dropped a 35-21 decision here Friday night to Waverly.

"We played very lackluster. We didn't have any enthusiasm and we looked dead out there," he said. "It was by far our poorest game."

Kelley was especially displeased with the 'Bolts' cold shooting — 3 for 17 in the first half and 6 for 30 in the second half.

"We felt we had a chance to win even at the end, but we lacked discipline," Kelley said. "Our offense is certainly going to have to pick up some since our defense can't hold the other teams scoreless.

"We forced our shots. We're going to have to come out and play better, but now we're having our trouble."

The only aspect of the game that kept the score fairly close was Waverly's poor free throw shooting. The Vikings hit on just 5 of 18 charity line attempts

The Vikings' half-court pressing man-to-man defense boosted the hosts to a 16-4 first-quarter advantage and a 21-6 halftime lead.

Senior Myron Leibel was instrumental in halting the 'Bolts'. He made his first appearance after breaking a bone in his foot in December.

Waverly coach Jim Christensen was pleased with his team's persistency.

"We've faced a lot of adversity this season," he noted. "We haven't given up. We needed a win by more than a couple of points because now we've got Lexington and Cozad on the road next weekend."

Waverly, in moving to a 3-7 record, scored its second win this season over the Lincolnites. Waverly won, 39-36, in the Waverly Holiday Tournament in late December.

The Vikings were led by senior forward Rod Wismer with 12 points and 11 points from junior Russ Harms, a 6-4 center

Pius X, 1-7, was paced by senior Bob Navratil with seven points and six from Paul Tlamka

Game And Parks Grants Early Pheasant Season

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

In an effort to open the 1976 pheasant hunting season as close to the first of November as possible, Nebraska pheasant hunters will be able to take to the fields Oct. 30 next fall, according to action taken by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission's board of commissioners Friday.

The Oct. 30 opener, a change from the traditional first Saturday of November opening date, was made to get hunters into the field earlier, said commissioners Ken Zimmerman of Loup City and Art Brown of Omaha.

Zimmerman proposed an Oct. 23 opener but was voted down since it was believed farmer opposition would be aired for crops still being in the fields. The commissioners felt, however, the earlier opener would help hunters avoid bad weather which cut the 1975 season to nearly two weeks in some areas of the state. Heavy November snows simply kept hunters out of the fields.

Other opening dates for 1976 seasons are as follows: archery antelope (Aug. 20), rabbit and squirrel (Sept. 1), archery deer and grouse (Sept. 18), firearm antelope (Sept. 25), fall archery turkey (Oct. 1), fall shotgun turkey (Oct. 20), quail (Nov. 6) and firearm deer (Nov. 13).

Spring tom turkey season was set with archery season to be April 1-23 and shotgun from April 24-May 9. Permits were increased from 1,875 to 1,975 with the Niobrara unit increased 100 permits from 400 in 1975 to 500 in 1976.

Application period for first application of spring turkey permits will be Feb. 1-17 with those holding a permit in 1975 excluded from the initial application period. The second period for unfilled units will be Mar. 1-15.

Antelope and deer application periods will be April 10-May 10 for the initial drawing to be held May 20. A second application period will be June 1-28.

Fall turkey permit applications may be submitted from Sept. 6-20, again with 1975 permit holders sitting out. The second period is Sept. 27-Oct. 5.

In other Friday action, the commissioners approved the appointment of Rex Amack as chief of the information and education department. Amack had been serving as acting chief since the departure of Jim Wofford early last year.

The commissioners also agreed to look into possible future purchase of five tracts of land, including a 229-acre plot called the Maschino tract near Lynch, two extensions of the Wood Duck Special Use Area in Stanton County, a 3,000-acre tract called the Nelson tract along Plum Creek in Brown County and a 40-acre tract known as Kinner's Ford along the Nemaha River in Richardson County.

Manhattan, Kan. — His first name might sound a bit boyish but don't let it fool you. Kansas State's Chuckie Williams plays the game of basketball like a man Considered one of the finest shooting guards to ever play in the Big Eight Conference, Williams will be in the Wildcats' lineup Saturday when Nebraska and K-State open conference action at Ahern Fieldhouse. The 1:10 p.m. game will be televised.

A 6-3 senior from Columbus, Ohio, Williams was an all Big Eight selection his junior year when he led the 'Cats in scoring with a 22.1 average.

Williams, heading into his final season for Coach Jack Hartman's Wildcats, has high hopes for K-State's chances in the conference race.

"I definitely think we'll be a contender for the title," Williams said Tuesday night in Omaha after K-State dropped a narrow, 79-76, overtime loss to Creighton. "I think the team is ready for the conference schedule. At this point, we're further along than last year's team."

Eastern Regional

Led by Williams, K-State last year almost qualified for the NCAA finals before losing to Syracuse, 95-87, in the Eastern Regional Tournament.

Williams was voted the most valuable player in that tourney when he scored 32 points against Boston College in the semifinals and 35 points against Syracuse

He has continued his torrid scoring pace thus far this season, hitting at a 23.0 clip

Considering the conference opener against the Cornhuskers, Williams said, "I had a chance to see Nebraska play in the Big Eight tournament and they gave hints down there of following the Nebraska tradition of playing good, tough defense."

The soft-spoken Williams is awaiting another confrontation with Nebraska's all-Big Eight guard Jerry Fort who is averaging 18.6 points a game.

"I consider Jerry Fort along with Willie Smith (Missouri) and Hercle Ivy (Iowa State) to be the best guards in the conference," Williams said. "And I think Fort is the best of the three. I've always had trouble against Fort. He seems to have extra long arms which gives him great range on defense."

Fort will have his hands full against the talented Williams, who already has had a 47-point outburst this season as Kansas State claimed a 89-85 overtime win against Holy cross

The amazing part of Williams' scoring, is that almost all of it comes from long-range. Seldom does the quick, Wildcat leader shoot from less than 18 feet

But Williams' strong outside scoring punch is needed to offset K-State's inside game which thus far has been only a weak jab for the 'Cats offensive attack

Frontline Criticized

The frontline of center Carl Gerlach (6-10) and forwards Bobby Noland (6-6) and Darryl Winston (6-5) has received much criticism during K-State's four losses and nine wins. But Williams thinks things are changing, noting, Carl (Gerlach) seems to be coming along each game. I think our front line is ready to make us a Big Eight contender."

But Williams' coach, Hartman, isn't sure. After the Creighton game, Hartman said "we only got 15 points out of our front line, that's not enough. And their shot selection was poor. We're not patient enough."

Williams is joined in the backcourt by guard Mike Evans Evans, averaging 16.0 points a game, is almost as dangerous a threat as Williams

Coach Joe Cipriano, whose Cornhuskers stand 9-4 overall, will open with Steve Willis and Fort at guards, Bob Siegel and Alan Holder at forwards and Larry Cox at center

The Huskers were the last team to defeat K-State at Ahern Fieldhouse when they took a 58-54 win in 1974. Since then, the Cats have reeled off 18 consecutive wins

In a key Big Eight contest Saturday, Kansas travels to Missouri in a rematch of the league's pre-season tournament title game in late December at Kansas City. Missouri won that game, 79-69

Other conference openers send Iowa State to Oklahoma State and Oklahoma to Colorado.

NU's Wightman Faces Charges

Omaha (AP) — James Wightman, University of Nebraska football team linebacker, Friday pleaded no contest to an amended assault charge in Douglas County District Court

Wightman, 20, appeared before District Judge Samuel Caniglia

Wightman was originally charged with a felony assault count following a scuffle with Omaha police officers Sept. 27

Judge Caniglia deferred sentencing pending a presentence investigation by the adult probation office

'Super' Conference Delayed By NCAA

St. Louis—Their hopes of reorganization apparently delayed for at least a year, NCAA Division I football powers rallied enough support Friday to defeat a proposal which would have based financial aid for athletes on need.

To open the Friday meeting of the association's 70th annual convention, the NCAA Council, the organization's policy-making body, said it would withdraw a proposal to split Division I football to create a so-called super conference.

The council instead offered a resolution calling for a revised recommendation to be made at next year's session.

However, reorganization remained as the 125th item on the convention agenda. Discussion of the move was delayed until Saturday, the final day of the meeting.

The Big Eight Conference won its battle against a proposed plan to base financial aid to student-athletes on need, but it lost its fight to eliminate restrictions on the size of coaching staffs.

Other than that, it was a day of frustration, comedy or whatever you want to name it at the convention.

It took more than four hours of actual floor debate time to get just one measure decided and it needed a couple of eloquent speeches to even accomplish that.

The measure was the one which proposed that all financial aid be based on the need of parents to receive help. It failed.

In the interim, Father Edmund P. Joyce, vice-president of Notre Dame, and Ross Pritchard, president of Arkansas State, made talks which appeared to sway convention delegates on the vital considerations at hand.

"The need plan failed to pass because of Father Joyce," remarked Keith Broman, Nebraska faculty representative. "He returned some sanity to the convention. He pointed out we were flying blind."

Tough Times

Pritchard, one of the NCAA honorees as a Silver Anniversary scholarship recipient, admitted collegiate competition has come upon tough times. "Economic pressures, most of which are generated beyond our own campuses, are inescapable," he said. "Many of our additional aggravations are generated internally on campus as a result of a rambunctious urge to keep up with the competition.

"The escalating belief is that if we can match bigger athletic staffs, equalize more intensive programs of recruiting, provide a more extravagant set of facilities, we will attract the 'blue chip' athlete who will fill our stadiums, arenas and our pocketbooks. In all of this there is a peculiar regeneration of expenditure, not unlike the drunk who increases his drinking to forget that he is a drunk."

Pritchard pleaded for balance in the NCAA and a redefinition of the policy and decision-making process of the organization.

In terms of balance, I would hope that we recognize that we represent hundreds of institutions of great diversity and that our decisions must not seize at the jugular of any particular group."

Pritchard's best comment follows:

"It seems to me we need careful attention paid to what constitutes policy as contrasted with legislative minutiae which is better left for decision-making on campus.

'Important'

"While economy is important, it is not economical to engage the time and attention of more than 500 professionals to debate whether we should award letter sweaters. Somewhere in our concern for economy we have drifted into a tangle of legislative trivia. As a college president already numbed by too many reports and ambiguous guidelines, I would hate to see the NCAA become the HEW of college athletics."

Later, Pritchard said his reference to HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) included all facets of governmental controls — not just Title IX, which deals with women's athletic programs.

NE's Johnson Upset Despite Rocket Win

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Northeast basketball coach Ed Johnson had mixed emotions after his Rockets administered a 49-38 setback to Lincoln High at Pershing Auditorium Friday night beforc 3,300 spectators.

"Well, we won, and that's what we came here to do," Johnson said. "But other than that, I don't know."

Northeast looked impressive at times, and at other times not so impressive, while notching its sixth victory in eight starts.

"At times, I thought we played really well, especially in the third quarter," Johnson said. "But we're just not consistent enough throughout the game.

"Like in the second quarter," he added. "We stayed on 17 for a long, long time before we scored again."

Battled Even

The two rated teams, Northeast No. 8 and the Links No. 10, battled on even terms with Northeast leading 17-14 with 5:44 left in the first half.

Then neither team was able to score for more than three minutes splitting eight turnovers evenly before Northeast's Doug Berka canned an 18-footer with 1:59 left.

The Links had to wait five full minutes between baskets when Charlie Metzger scored from eight feet out with :15 left and Lincoln High trailing 21-16.

Berka was fouled on an attempted drive by Metzger with one second left in the half and extended the lead to 23-16 with two free throws.

Seven Straight

Following intermission, Northeast came out smoking with seven unanswered points in a two minute span on two fielders from Berka, one from Gary Karthauser and a free throw from Bob Butcher.

Ralph McWilliams' eight-footer with 5:42 left in the third quarter broke the ice for Lincoln High once again, but it was too little and too late as the Rockets extended their lead to 40-16 at the quarter break.

Then mistakes hurt the Rockets as Lincoln High outscored Northeast 13-9 to close the margin to the final 11 points, 49-38.

"We had some bad passes show up in there and we took a number of off-balanced shots that hurt us," Johnson noted "We didn't even given ourselves a chance to make any baskets."

For Lincoln High, the loss marked its third straight, and the third straight game with less than 40 poins.

Miss Stability

"We didn't play very well at all," Links coach Aldy Johnson commented. "I probably shouldn't say it, but it didn't surprise me tonight. We were missing a little stability in there."

The Links' leading scorer, junior Jerry Heckman, was sidelined with an injured leg.

"We tried to do some different things tonight that maybe we shouldn't have," Johnson added. "But 32% shooting didn't help either."

Aldy is hoping the three straight losses don't get to his Links emotionally.

"I said at the beginning of the year that we were going to be up and down, and we have been," he said. "We've played a lot of good basketball this year, and there's alot left to play. We'll be back."

Two Apiece

Northeast, at 6-2, faces two games next week with Millard coming to Lincoln for a Friday night game at Nebraska Wesleyan and the Rockets on the road to Norfolk Saturday night.

Lincoln High, 4-5, also faces two games next week, on the road Friday at Ralston and at home Saturday against Omaha Northwest.

Grand Island Stuns Southeast

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Grand Island — Low Dog. Back Seat. Laughing Stock. Bill Kropp used everyone of those terms here Friday night to describe the nightmare he's gone through in his four years as Grand Island's basketball coach.

If the nightmare wasn't already over in an 8-0 start this season, it ended abruptly here Friday night. The third-ranked Islanders stepped into a dream world with a surprisingly lopsided 73-49 Trans-Nebraska Conference win over fourth-ranked Lincoln Southeast.

"This game meant everything in the world to us," Kropp said. "It's the biggest one I've been involved with in Grand Island. We've been the low dog, riding in the backseat for so long, we wanted to know what the frontseat felt like."

Indeed Grand Island knows the feeling now and very likely could jump all the way to the top spot in next Tuesday's Sunday Journal and Star Class A ratings after shooting 64 per cent to bury the Knights for the first time in four years.

"I remember the first year we came out on the floor," Kropp recalled. "They — people in the eastern part of the state — laughed at us. And rightfully so.

"It's stuck down deep in my craw," he added. "I've never been able to spit it out. It's been like poison down there."

The sickness should have vanished sometime during halftime. The Islanders, hitting 18 of 28 shots, commanded a 42-21 lead at intermission. They had turned Southeast everyway but inside-out offensively and defensively.

"We really hustled, didn't we?" Kropp asked himself rhetorically. "When you get to believing you're an underdog like we did, it's tough for the other team to overcome. We could see they had some complaceny in their eyes."

Grand Island wasted no time rubbing it out, racing to a 17-3 lead five minutes into the first quarter. The Islanders' full-court pressed, ran the fastbreak to perfection, outhustled, outplayed, out-everythinged the Knights.

The basket was like a magnet to them — whether they needed a full-court pass or a simple feed underneath. They almost always seemed to penetrate for the layup.

"They showed why they're 8-0," Southeast coach Wally McNaught said. "They did everything an 8-0 ball club would do. They had speed. They got the ball down the court. They had good motion. They hit the shot on the tailend of the break.

"I can't think of one aspect where we didn't get beat," he added. "We didn't just get beat. We got slaughtered. I absorbed the whole 32 minutes. I kept watching the clock and wondered how much longer there was.

"I can understand why Grand Island was so much higher than we were," McNaught said. "I'm not trying to sound vain. But when was the last time they have beaten us? This is the way it works outstate. If I were coaching at North Platte or Scottsbluff, I would feel the same way."

Grand Island was forced to slow things down in the second half, but hustle never wavered. The Islanders also kept their shooting eye sharp, hitting four of seven field goals in the third quarter and five of seven in the final period.

They finished 27 of 42 for 64 per cent. Southeast, whose record dropped to 7-2, hit 18 of 48 shots for 38 per cent.

Grand Island accomplished the lopsided decision without a concentrated effort from 6-5 junior center Jeff Finn, the state's leading Class A scorer with a 25.5 average. He hit seven of eight field goals and three of three free throws for 17 points.

But his teammates were equally impressive. Paul Trieschman, another junior, canned eight of 14 shots and finished with a game-high 18 points.

Kraig Keller hit all five of his field goal attempts to contribute 11 points and senior Steve Frei also added 11 while quarterbacking the Islanders' fast-break and pressing defense.

Game And Parks Grants Early Pheasant Season

In an effort to open the 1976 pheasant hunting season as close to the first of November as possible, Nebraska pheasant hunters will be able to take to the fields Oct. 30 next fall, according to action taken by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission's board of commissioners Friday.

The Oct. 30 opener, a change from the traditional first Saturday of November opening date, was made to get hunters into the field earlier, said commissioners Ken Zimmerman of Loup City and Art Brown of Omaha.

Waverly Halts Pius X, 35-21

Waverly — Lincoln Pius X basketball coach Don Kelley was less than pleased after his Thunderbolts dropped a 35-21 decision here Friday night to Waverly.

"We played very lackluster. We didn't have any enthusiasm and we looked dead out there," he said. "It was by far our poorest game."

Kelley was especially displeased with the 'Bolts' cold shooting — 3 for 17 in the first half and 6 for 30 in the second half.

"We felt we had a chance to win even at the end, but we lacked discipline," Kelley said. "Our offense is certainly going to have to pick up some since our defense can't hold the other teams scoreless.

"We forced our shots. We're going to have to come out and play better, but now we're having our trouble."

The only aspect of the game that kept the score fairly close was Waverly's poor free throw shooting. The Vikings hit on just 5 of 18 charity line attempts.

The Vikings' half-court pressing man-to-man defense boosted the hosts to a 16-4 first-quarter advantage and a 21-6 halftime lead.

Senior Myron Leibel was instrumental in halting the 'Bolts'. He made his first appearance after breaking a bone in his foot in December.

Waverly coach Jim Christensen was pleased with his team's persistency.

"We've faced a lot of adversity this season," he noted. "We haven't given up. We needed a win by more than a couple of points because now we've got Lexington and Cozad on the road next weekend."

Waverly, in moving to a 3-7 record, scored its second win this season over the Lincolnites. Waverly won, 39-36, in the Waverly Holiday Tournament in late December.

The Vikings were led by senior forward Rod Wismer with 12 points and 11 points from junior Russ Harms, a 6-4 center.

Pius X, 1-7, was paced by senior Bob Navratil with seven points and six from Paul Tlamka.

Pius X travels to Gothenburg on Saturday night.

A 6-3 senior from Columbus, Ohio, Williams was an all Big Eight selection his junior year when he led the 'Cats in scoring with a 22.1 average.

Williams, heading into his final season for Coach Jack Hartman's Wildcats, has high hopes for K-State's chances in the conference race.

"I definitely think we'll be a contender for the title," Williams said Tuesday night in Omaha after K-State dropped a narrow, 79-76, overtime loss to Creighton. "I think the team is ready for the conference schedule. At this point, we're further along than last year's team."

Eastern Regional

Led by Williams, K-State last year almost qualified for the NCAA finals before losing to Syracuse, 95-87, in the Eastern Regional Tournament.

Williams was voted the most valuable player in that tourney when he scored 32 points against Boston College in the semifinals and 35 points against Syracuse.

He has continued his torid scoring pace thus far this season, hitting at a 23.0 clip.

Considering the conference opener against the Cornhuskers, Williams said, "I had a chance to see Nebraska play in the Big Eight tournament and they gave hints down there of following the Nebraska tradition of playing good, tough defense."

The soft-spoken Williams is awaiting another confrontation with Nebraska's all-Big Eight guard, Jerry Fort who is averaging 18.6 points a game.

"I consider Jerry Fort along with Willie Smith (Missouri) and Hercle Ivy (Iowa State) to be the best guards in the conference," Williams said. "And I think Fort is the best of the three. I've always had trouble against Fort. He seems to have extra long arms which gives him great range on defense."

Fort will have his hands full against the talented Williams, who already has had a 47-point outburst this season as Kansas State claimed a 89-85 overtime win against Holy cross.

The amazing part of Williams' scoring, is that almost all of it comes from long-range. Seldom does the quick, Wildcat leader shoot from less than 18 feet.

But Williams' strong outside scoring punch is needed to offset K-State's inside game which thus far has been only a weak jab for the 'Cats offensive attack.

Frontline Criticized

The frontline of center Carl Gerlach (6-10) and forwards Bobby Noland (6-6) and Darryl Winston (6-5) has received much criticism during K-State's four losses and nine wins. But Williams thinks things are changing, noting, Carl (Gerlach) seems to be coming along each game. I think our front line is ready to make us a Big Eight contender."

But Williams' coach, Hartman, isn't sure. After the Creighton game, Hartman said, "we only got 15 points out of our front line, that's not enough. And their shot selection was poor. We're not patient enough."

Williams is joined in the backcourt by guard Mike Evans. Evans, averaging 16.0 points a game, is almost as dangerous a threat as Williams.

Coach Joe Cipriano, whose Cornhuskers stand 9-4 overall, will open with Steve Willis and Fort at guards, Bob Siegel and Alan Holder at forwards and Larry Cox at center.

The Huskers were the last team to defeat K-State at Ahern Fieldhouse when they took a 58-54 win in 1974. Since then, the 'Cats have reeled off 18 consecutive wins.

In a key Big Eight contest Saturday, Kansas travels to Missouri in a rematch of the league's pre-season tournament title game in late December at Kansas City. Missouri won that game, 79-69.

Other conference openers send Iowa State to Oklahoma State and Oklahoma to Colorado.

NU's Wightman Faces Charges

Omaha (AP) — James Wightman, University of Nebraska football team linebacker, Friday pleaded no contest to an amended assault charge in Douglas County District Court.

Wightman, 20, appeared before District Judge Samuel Caniglia.

Wightman was originally charged with a felony assault count following a scuffle with Omaha police officers Sept. 27.

Judge Caniglia deferred sentencing pending a presentence investigation by the adult probation office.

Defense Boosts East Past Beatrice

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Beatrice — A tenacious zone press helped the ninth-rated Lincoln East Spartans top the Beatrice Orangemen Friday night 44-39 at Beatrice High

The Spartans, now 6-3, overcame an early Beatrice lead with 40 seconds left in the first quarter when Randy Ahlquist hit a basket and two free throws to put East into a 12-10 lead and the Spartans never relinquished the lead

The Orangemen, now 2-7, held on though, and overcame a 28-22 halftime deficit to close within one point, 36-35 on a shot by Bruce Hoefeling with 5 14 left in the game

Corey Joekel, who took game scoring honors with 13 points, then hit both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation and 30 seconds later teammate John Bishop repeated the task to give East a 40-37 lead with 4 20 left.

Joekel hit another fielder to widen the margin to five points with 3 59 left and the Spartans held on for the win as the Orangemen could manage just two points in the final four minutes

Beatrice missed numerous opportunities to close the gap, but could hit only five of 22 shots in the second half as the Spartan defense kept Beatrice from the inside shots

"This game was really a struggle," said East coach Paul Forch. "We just had trouble getting it together. A lot of that was due to the fact we had a lot of people on the court that hadn't played together much."

"Our press (1-3-1 trap zone) was definitely a strong point tonight, we forced them to the outside and did a superior job rebounding on the inside."

The Spartans outrebounded Beatrice 35-24, with Joekel grabbing seven

Beatrice went into a press of their own in the second half that caught the Spartans off-guard forcing eight third-quarter turnovers but the Orangemen managed only two of 11 field goals in that quarter

"I think we did a good job regaining our composure late in the game," said Forch. "We seem to have trouble moving on offense and we kept throwing our back-door play away."

The Spartans hit 16 of 39 field goals (40 per cent) for the game while Beatrice connected on 13 of 43 (30 per cent).

Neither team was exceptional at the free throw line with the Orangemen connecting on 13 of 23 free throws and East 12 of 21.

"We seem to play well against good teams and so-so against the average teams," said Beatrice coach Neil Nannen. "I thought we played very well against East tonight and our defense did a fantastic job.

"We were taking good shots toward the end but they seemed to bounce right out of the basket when we needed them," Nannen said.

The Spartans will host Papillion next Friday while the Orangemen will travel to Ralston Saturday.

Husker Women Defeated

Lawrence, Kan. — The Nebraska women's basketball team dropped its opening game in the first annual Lady Jayhawk Classic here Friday night to Kansas State, 62-53.

NU led 29-20 with four minutes left in the half, and clung to a 33-31 halftime lead, but poor second half shooting (22%) cost them the game

Kansas State held a commanding 43-24 advantage in rebounding

NU coach George Nicodemus said, "We played good enough defense to win, and we took good shots in the second half, but just didn't get them home. We expect to win tomorrow."

NU plays the Oklahoma State-Kansas loser at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Winter Leads Seward Win

Schuyler — Senior Dave Winter hit four clutch free throws in the final minute of play Friday night to boost Seward past Schuyler 45-42 in a Central 10 Conference game

With the score tied 40-all with 40 seconds left in the game, Winer, a 6-0 guard, made both ends of a one-and-one to give Seward a 42-40 lead.

Larry Kohler, a 6-7 senior center, then put in a rebound for a 42-42 tie

After Marc Felix hit one of two free throws for a 43-42 Seward lead, Winter made two more charity tosses to ice the game

Seward, rated No. 8 in Class B, was led by Felix' 17 points, 13 coming in the second half. Winter chipped in 16 for the Bluejays, now 7-1

Kohler topped Schuyler scoring with 13 points, Dick Seckman added 11 points and 13 rebounds and Joe Langemeier finished with 10 points. The Warriors fell to 4-4

McTear Defeats Borzov

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Houston McTear, America's latest sprint sensation, easily won the 50- and 60-yard dashes within 15 minutes Friday night at the 16th Sunkist Invitational Track Meet.

The 18-year-old high school senior from Baker, Fla., first defeated Valery Borzov of the Soviet Union in the shorter race and then outran the world 200-meter record holder, Don Quarrie, in the 60-yard event, using an explosive start each time.

The muscular McTear outlasted six false starts in the 50, then blasted off from the blocks and led all the way to a clocking of 5.1 seconds, one-tenth off the world's indoor record shared by three men.

Borzov, competing despite a muscle tear in his right calf, was a distant second at 5.3 and Quarrie third at 5.4 in the 50.

In the 60, McTear and Quarrie were off about equal, but the youngster from Florida pulled away in the first 10 yards and was clocked at 6.0 to Quarrie's 6.1. The world indoor mark is 5.8, set by Herb Washington four years ago.

Borzov withdrew from the 60 to protect his injured leg.

Steve Williams, America's premier sprinter, pulled out of the meet with an ingrown toenail, and Washington has retired.

A capacity crowd of more than 13,500 watched the meet at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Papillion 50, Ralston 40

Papillion — Papillion broke away from a 40-40 tie with 20 seconds left to defeat Ralston, 50-40, in a Class A game here Friday. Three of the points came on Ralston technical fouls, and Mark Steer scored on seven free throws in a three-second span.

Steer led Papillion with 19 poins as his team raised its record to 7-3. Gary Cissell added 17 points for the Monarchs. Ralston fell to 2-7 in the Apollo and Eastern I-80 Conference game.

York Blasts Crete

York — York solved a Crete full-court press to romp past the fourth-ranked Cardinals, 79-59, in a Class B game here Friday night. The Dukes jumped ahead early in the first quarter and led the rest of the way.

York switched back and forth from a zone to a man-to-man defense to keep Crete off balance. The Dukes clinched the win with a 25-point fourth quarter, after leading 54-45 at the end of three quarters.

Crete was hurt when leading scorer Mark Erickson fouled out in the last period. He and Gary Lothrop paced Crete with 14 points apiece.

Mark Swanson, a 5-7 senior guard, led five Dukes in double figures with 21 points. He was 11 for 11 at the free throw line in the fourth quarter.

York seniors Jerry Walford, Ron Jensen and Tim Gardner had 16, 12 and 10 points, respectively Sophomore center Scott Meradith added 10 points.

York raised its record to 5-5, while Crete slipped to 6-2.

Defense Boosts East Past Beatrice

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Beatrice — A tenacious zone press helped the ninth-rated Lincoln East Spartans top the Beatrice Orangemen Friday night 44-39 at Beatrice High.

The Spartans, now 6-3, overcame an early Beatrice lead with 40 seconds left in the first quarter when Randy Ahlquist hit a basket and two free throws to put East into a 12-10 lead and the Spartans never relinquished the lead.

The Orangemen, now 2-7, held on though, and overcame a 28-22 halftime deficit to close within one point, 36-35 on a shot by Bruce Hoefeling with 5:14 left in the game.

Corey Joekel, who took game scoring honors with 13 points, then hit both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation and 30 seconds later teammate John Bishop repeated the task to give East a 40-37 lead with 4:20 left.

Joekel hit another fielder to widen the margin to five points with 3:59 left and the Spartans held on for the win as the Orangemen could manage just two points in the final four minutes.

Beatrice missed numerous opportunities to close the gap, but could hit only five of 22 shots in the second half as the Spartan defense kept Beatrice from the inside shots.

"This game was really a struggle," said East coach Paul Forch. "We just had trouble getting it together. A lot of that was due to the fact we had a lot of people on the court that hadn't played together much."

"Our press (1-3-1 trap zone) was definitely a strong point tonight, we forced them to the outside and did a superior job rebounding on the inside."

The Spartans outrebounded Beatrice 35-24, with Joekel grabbing seven.

Beatrice went into a press of their own in the second half that caught the Spartans off-guard forcing eight third-quarter turnovers but the Orangemen managed only two of 11 field goals in that quarter.

"I think we did a good job regaining our composure late in the game," said Forch. "We seem to have trouble moving on offense and we kept throwing our back-door play away."

The Spartans hit 16 of 39 field goals (40 per cent) for the game while Beatrice connected on 13 of 43 (30 per cent).

Neither team was exceptional at the free throw line with the Orangemen connecting on 13 of 23 free throws and East 12 of 21.

"We seem to play well against good teams and so-so against the average teams," said Beatrice coach Neil Nannen. "I thought we played very well against East tonight and our defense did a fantastic job.

"We were taking good shots toward the end but they seemed to bounce right out of the basket when we needed them," Nannen said.

The Spartans will host Papillion next Friday while the Orangemen will travel to Ralston Saturday.

Husker Women Defeated

Lawrence, Kan. — The Nebraska women's basketball team dropped its opening game in the first annual Lady Jayhawk Classic here Friday night to Kansas State, 62-53.

NU led 29-20 with four minutes left in the half, and clung to a 33-31 halftime lead, but poor second half shooting (22%) cost them the game.

Kansas State held a commanding 43-24 advantage in rebounding.

NU coach George Nicodemus said, "We played good enough defense to win, and we took good shots in the second half, but just didn't get them home. We expect to win tomorrow."

NU plays the Oklahoma State-Kansas loser at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Winter Leads Seward Win

Schuyler — Senior Dave Winter hit four clutch free throws in the final minute of play Friday night to boost Seward past Schuyler 45-42 in a Central 10 Conference game.

With the score tied 40-all with 40 seconds left in the game, Winer, a 6-0 guard, made both ends of a one-and-one to give Seward a 42-40 lead.

Larry Kohler, a 6-7 senior center, then put in a rebound for a 42-42 tie.

After Marc Felix hit one of two free throws for a 43-42 Seward lead, Winter made two more charity tosses to ice the game.

Seward, rated No. 8 in Class B, was led by Felix' 17 points, 13 coming in the second half. Winter chipped in 16 for the Bluejays, now 7-1.

Kohler topped Schuyler scoring with 13 points, Dick Seckman added 11 points and 13 rebounds and Joe Langemeier finished with 10 points. The Warriors fell to 4-4.

McTear Defeats Borzov

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Houston McTear, America's latest sprint sensation, easily won the 50- and 60-yard dashes within 15 minutes Friday night at the 16th Sunkist Invitational Track Meet.

The 18-year-old high school senior from Baker, Fla., first defeated Valery Borzov of the Soviet Union in the shorter race and then outran the world 200-meter record holder, Don Quarrie, in the 60-yard event, using an explosive start each time.

The muscular McTear outlasted six false starts in the 50, then blasted off from the blocks and led all the way to a clocking of 5.1 seconds, one-tenth off the world's indoor record shared by three men.

Borzov, competing despite a muscle tear in his right calf, was a distant second at 5.3 and Quarrie third at 5.4 in the 50.

In the 60, McTear and Quarrie were off about equal, but the youngster from Florida pulled away in the first 10 yards and was clocked at 6.0 to Quarrie's 6.1. The world indoor mark is 5.8, set by Herb Washington four years ago.

Borzov withdrew from the 60 to protect his injured leg.

Steve Williams, America's premier sprinter, pulled out of the meet with an ingrown toenail, and Washington has retired.

A capacity crowd of more than 13,500 watched the meet at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Papillion 50, Ralston 40

Papillion — Papillion broke away from a 40-40 tie with 20 seconds left to defeat Ralston, 50-40, in a Class A game here Friday. Three of the points came on Ralston technical fouls, and Mark Steer scored on seven free throws in a three-second span.

Steer led Papillion with 19 poins as his team raised its record to 7-3. Gary Cissell added 17 points for the Monarchs. Ralston fell to 2-7 in the Apollo and Eastern I-80 Conference game.

Ralston 13 12 11 4—40
Papillion 14 8 14 14—50

Ralston — Shannon 2, Kelay 16, Conway 5, Fairbanks 2, Huff 2, Small 13.
Papillion — Glendenning 1, Szynskie 4, Woodard 2, Steer 19, Walsh 1, Cissell 17, Shank 6.

York Blasts Crete

York — York solved a Crete full-court press to romp past the fourth-ranked Cardinals, 79-59, in a Class B game here Friday night. The Dukes jumped ahead early in the first quarter and led the rest of the way.

York switched back and forth from a zone to a man-to-man defense to keep Crete off balance. The Dukes clinched the win with a 25-point fourth quarter, after leading 54-45 at the end of three quarters.

Crete was hurt when leading scorer Mark Erickson fouled out in the last period. He and Gary Lothrop paced Crete with 14 points apiece.

Mark Swanson, a 5-7 senior guard, led five Dukes in double figures with 21 points. He was 11 for 11 at the free throw line in the fourth quarter.

York seniors Jerry Walford, Ron Jensen and Tim Gardner had 16, 12 and 10 points, respectively. Sophomore center Scott Meradith added 10 points.

York raised its record to 5-5, while Crete slipped to 6-2.

Nebraska Wesleyan basketball coach Irv Peterson is hoping that Saturday's 7 30 p.m. game at Taylor Gym on the NWU campus will be the start of a new season.

Peterson has good reason to hope that the opening of the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference season with Hastings will be better than the nonconference season, which closed last Tuesday with the Plainsmen's 10th loss in 11 games.

"It'll be like a whole new season," said Peterson. "It'll help to get back into our own gym too because we really haven't been playing that bad at home."

NWU suffered four straight losses on the road after scoring its only win of the season against Wabash College in Wesleyan's last home game. Of the other four home games, the Plainsmen lost three by two points.

But just playing at home won't solve all of the Plainsmen's problems. Peterson said that rebounding was the one constant factor plaguing Wesleyan throughout its losses. And without 6-8 freshman Mark Simmerman, who suffered a broken hand, the Plainsmen are still looking for rebounding strength.

"Until we get Simmerman back we're going to have to rely on our quickness," said Peterson. "Because with Butler (6-9 center Blake) as our only starter over 6-3 there's no way we can match Hastings' size."

Hastings has won 14 of the last 15 meetings between the two teams but Bronco coach Lynn Farrell doesn't think the game will be that easy for his 8-4 team.

"We've always had a tough series with NWU and we respect them despite their record," said Farrell. "This game is important in two aspects. First it's our conference opener and second Wesleyan appears to be a team ready to break loose anytime."

"There won't be much danger in our letting down for this game because we have those motivators," Farrell said.

Maltbie Hikes Phoenix Lead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Roger Maltbie, the 1975 Rookie of the Year, clipped six more strokes off par with a 65 and extended his lead to three strokes in the second round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament Friday. But he still couldn't shake the threatening presence of Johnny Miller.

Maltbie, a two-time winner last season, put together a 36-hole total of 130, 12-under-par on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course, a flat and friendly little layout that often yields some of the lowest scores of the year on the pro tour.

Miller, winner of five consecutive Arizona tournaments and the overwhelming favorite here, ran up a string of 19 consecutive par holes before he got untracked for a 67 that left him six strokes off the pace at 136.

"I just need to get to sniffing at the lead the next two days," said Miller, who has won this event the past two seasons.

"I'm not in bad position. I'm capable of shooting those real low rounds and I could get back in there in a hurry," said the man who has fired a pair of 61s over this short course.

Maltbie, a jaunty, chipper 24-year-old who collected some $81,000 as a first-year man last season, was trailed by Jim Colbert in second with a 65-133.

Ban Sought On Steel Shot

Washington (UPI) — The Fish and Wildlife Service today proposed a ban on use of lead shot for hunting ducks, geese, swans and coots in certain areas beginning in 1976.

In a final environmental impact statement submitted to the Council on Environmental Quality, the agency said studies show that more than 1.6 million ducks die each year after ingesting lead shot left at the bottom of marshes and waterways.

Opponents to the change say steel shot, the only alternative presently available, is lighter and would result in more birds being wounded instead of killed.

But the agency said its tests showed about 369,000 more ducks probably will be crippled each year if there is a conversion to steel shot. That loss would still be far under the number dying from lead poisoning, it said.

The proposal calls for lead shotgun shells to be banned for waterfowl hunting starting in 1976 in selected areas of the Atlantic Flyway.

Ralston Eyes Repeat Title

Millard — Defending champion Ralston rates as the team favorite in the Eastern I-80 Conference wrestling tournament scheduled for Saturday at Millard High School.

Ralston, rated the No. 5 team in the state by the Nebraska Scholastic Wrestling Coaches Assn. (NSWCA), is the only rated team among I-80 Conference members.

Top individual matches could materialize with a start at noon and consolation finals scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with finals following at 7:15 p.m.

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

Quarterback Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys has been named to the National Football Conference Pro Bowl squad. He replaces Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton, suffering from chronic tendonitis in his throwing arm.

Bob Roesler, sports editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, Friday was elected president of the Professional Football Writers of America.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said Friday he will decide over the weekend if he wants to be considered for the head coaching job of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles.

The Miami Dolphins Friday named John Sandusky of the Philadelphia Eagles' coaching staff as their new offensive line coach, replacing Monte Clark who became the San Francisco 49ers' head coach this week.

BASKETBALL

Virginia Squires' reserve center David Vaughn was convicted Friday of misdemeanor charges arising from a police chase last July. He was sentenced to two 30-day jail terms and fined a total of $850.

Los Angeles Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke has denied he's thinking of firing Coach Bill Sharman because of the NBA club's 23-21 record.

Mike Thompson, star Minnesota Gopher center, has been declared ineligible by the NCAA for allegedly selling basketball tickets at more than face value, AP reported Friday.

OTHER SPORTS

Wayne Zahn held the lead Friday in the $100,000 Showboat Invitational bowling tournament going into the final eight rounds of match play. He had a total pinfall of 10,575, followed by Earl Anthony with 10,491, Roy Buckley with 10,489, Jim Stefanich with 10,482 and Billy Hardwick with 10,480.

The 1976 Montreal Olympics will start as scheduled July 17, Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee said Friday.

Gust Karras, promoter of wrestling and sports events in the Midwest, died Friday in St. Joseph, Mo. He was 70 or 71.

Ernie Barrett, removed as Kansas State University athletic director last month, is joining a Kansas City paint company as a vice president.

Retired Rear Adm. Thomas J. Hamilton Friday was presented with the NCAA's highest award, the 10th Theodore Roosevelt Award. He is a former Navy coach and athletic director.

Philadelphia Flyers' goalie Bernie Parent reinjured his neck Friday during practice. He has not played in a single National Hockey League game this season because of the nagging injury.

RV Show Helping Industry

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

Omaha — From indications at the opening night of the Midwest Recreational Vehicle and Camper Show in Civic Auditorium here, the recreational vehicle (RV industry is back on its feet.

The national gas shortages of recent years slowed RV sales somewhat. Many borderline manufacturers went by the wayside and even the biggest operations had to curtail their operations.

"We're back at almost full production," said Winnebago representative Charlie Garcia. Garcia said the Forest City, Iowa, RV maker is putting out over 170 units weekly but is not staffed to the extent it was before the energy crisis began to take its toll in late 1972.

Max Leach of Lincoln's Leach Camper Sales said he looks for a good year in 1976.

"We're getting more of the first-time buyers back," Leach said. "The last couple of years the first-time buyers were kind of scared away by the gas situation. Now that it's a little more stable, we're starting to pick up that business again."

Both Leach and salesman Karel Walek agreed people are still looking at the more luxurious campers and motorcoaches.

No Hold Back

"No, they're not seeming to hold back," said Walek. "All the extras is still a popular way to go."

Marian Sothan of Lincoln's Apache Camper Sales is also optimistic for a good year in 1976.

"We've made some improvements in our camper designs from last year and the interest already in this year's show has been real good," she said. "We had a good year last year and think this one will be better."

Garcia also noted Winnebago has made improvements in its line of Type A and Type B motorcoaches.

"We've tried to make our interiors a little more eye apealing," he said. "Last year we sold the majority of our Type A units, the Braves through the Chieftans. This year we anticipate the sales will kind of even out between our Type A and Type B units (the Mini-Winnie)."

Garcia's thoughts the Mini-Winnie-type motorcoaches are going to come on strong in 1976 was also felt by other dealers who displayed a large percentage of the smaller motorcoaches or van conversion units. While buyers are not skimping on luxury interiors and all the extras, many are looking to cut corners on gas consumption of their RV units.

According to show promoter Dick Schaefer, units displayed ranged in price from the $200-range pickup toppers to the $54,000 FMC motorcoach.

The Midwest show runs through Sunday. Hours are 6-11 p.m. Friday, 1-11 p.m. Saturday and 1-7 p.m. Sunday.

Tree Of Lights Campaign Tops Christmas Goal

The Salvation Army in Lincoln has announced the 1975 "Tree of Lights" campaign exceeded its $40,000 goal by raising $40,738.

Capt. Peter Vander Vliet, commanding officer of the Salvation Army, said the funds "enabled many less fortunate persons to have a more meaningful Christmas and will go far in assisting the Army to continue it's programs."

New officers for 1976 are: Julius Humann, chairman; Mrs. Leita Lewis, vice chairman; Bonnie McGlasson, secretary; Donald Huffman, treasurer. New members of the Salvation Army Advisory Board are: Dallas Johnson, Dean Leitner, Nancy Ginger, Don Peterson, Gerald Henderson and Barbara J. Lautzenheiser.

Few Lack Measles Shots

The number of Lincoln Public Schools students who have had immunizations for red measles or rubeola "is far better than had been anticipated," Helen E. Weber, health services superviser, said Friday.

Noting early estimates of non-immunized children were up to about 1,000, Mrs. Weber guessed that "we're probably down to under a hundred" who either have not been vaccinated or for whom there's no confirmed shot record.

"In many instances," she said, "it is just a situation where our records are not current." School nurses are continuing to make personal calls to parents, and most children who need them are getting their measles shots immediately.

Only a few letters needed to be sent to parents whom the schools could not contact by phone, Mrs. Weber said. "If we do not hear anything from these people who have not responded to either a call or a letter, the enforcement day will be Monday, the 26th," the first day of second semester.

Students must be vaccinated by then or be suspended from classes until they get their shots. The date was moved ahead from Jan. 21, since there will be no classes the following two days in semester break.

Mrs. Weber said she hopes no suspensions will be necessary.

NWU's Peterson Eyes Start Of 'New Season'

Probable Lineups

Hastings (8-4)	Pos.	Wesleyan (1-10)
Wolf (5-11)	G	Knollenberg (6-0)
Hollatz (6-3)	G	Abel (6-0)
Hodges (6-4)	F	Lilly (5-11)
McKeone (6-6)	F	Otto (6-3)
Bergman (6-8)	C	Butler (6-9)

Tipoff: 7:30 p.m. Taylor Gym, NWU Campus.

By KEN HAMBLETON
State College Writer

Nebraska Wesleyan basketball coach Irv Peterson is hoping that Saturday's 7:30 p.m. game at Taylor Gym on the NWU campus will be the start of a new season.

Peterson has good reason to hope that the opening of the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference season with Hastings will be better than the nonconference season, which closed last Tuesday with the Plainsmen's 10th loss in 11 games.

"It'll be like a whole new season," said Peterson. "It'll help to get back into our own gym too because we really haven't been playing that bad at home."

NWU suffered four straight losses on the road after scoring its only win of the season against Wabash College in Wesleyan's last home game. Of the other four home games, the Plainsmen lost three by two points.

But just playing at home won't solve all of the Plainsmen's problems. Peterson said that rebounding was the one constant factor plaguing Wesleyan throughout its losses. And without 6-8 freshman Mark Simmerman, who suffered a broken hand, the Plainsmen are still looking for rebounding strength.

"Until we get Simmerman back we're going to have to rely on our quickness," said Peterson. "Because with Butler (6-9 center Blake) as our only starter over 6-3 there's no way we can match Hastings' size."

Hastings has won 14 of the last 15 meetings between the two teams but Bronco coach Lynn Farrell doesn't think the game will be that easy for his 8-4 team.

"We've always had a tough series with NWU and we respect them despite their record," said Farrell. "This game is important in two aspects. First it's our conference opener and second Wesleyan appears to be a team ready to break loose anytime."

"There won't be much danger in our letting down for this game because we have those motivators," Farrell said.

Maltbie Hikes Phoenix Lead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Roger Maltbie, the 1975 Rookie of the Year, clipped six more strokes off par with a 65 and extended his lead to three strokes in the second round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament Friday. But he still couldn't shake the threatening presence of Johnny Miller.

Maltbie, a two-time winner last season, put together a 36-hole total of 130, 12-under-par on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course, a flat and friendly little layout that often yields some of the lowest scores of the year on the pro tour.

Miller, winner of five consecutive Arizona tournaments and the overwhelming favorite here, ran up a string of 19 consecutive par holes before he got untracked for a 67 that left him six strokes off the pace at 136.

"I just need to get to sniffing at the lead the next two days," said Miller, who has won this event the past two seasons.

"I'm not in bad position. I'm capable of shooting those real low rounds and I could get back in there in a hurry," said the man who has fired a pair of 61s over this short course.

Maltbie, a jaunty, chipper 24-year-old who collected some $81,000 as a first-year man last season, was trailed by Jim Colbert in second with a 65-133.

Ban Sought On Steel Shot

Washington (UPI) — The Fish and Wildlife Service today proposed a ban on use of lead shot for hunting ducks, geese, swans and coots in certain areas beginning in 1976.

In a final environmental impact statement submitted to the Council on Environmental Quality, the agency said studies show that more than 1.6 million ducks die each year after ingesting lead shot left at the bottom of marshes and waterways.

Opponents to the change say steel shot, the only alternative presently available, is lighter and would result in more birds being wounded instead of killed.

But the agency said its tests showed about 369,000 more ducks probably will be crippled each year if there is a conversion to steel shot. That loss would still be far under the number dying from lead poisoning, it said.

The proposal calls for lead shotgun shells to be banned for waterfowl hunting starting in 1976 in selected areas of the Atlantic Flyway.

Ralston Eyes Repeat Title

Millard — Defending champion Ralston rates as the team favorite in the Eastern I-80 Conference wrestling tournament scheduled for Saturday at Millard High School.

Ralston, rated the No. 5 team in the state by the Nebraska Scholastic Wrestling Coaches Assn. (NSWCA), is the only rated team among I-80 Conference members.

Top individual matches could materialize with a start at noon and consolation finals scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with finals following at 7:15 p.m.

RV Show Helping Industry

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

Omaha — From indications at the opening night of the Midwest Recreational Vehicle and Camper Show in Civic Auditorium here, the recreational vehicle (RV industry is back on its feet.

The national gas shortages of recent years slowed RV sales somewhat. Many borderline manufacturers went by the wayside and even the biggest operations had to curtail their operations.

"We're back at almost full production," said Winnebago representative Charlie Garcia. Garcia said the Forest City, Iowa, RV maker is putting out over 170 units weekly but is not staffed to the extent it was before the energy crisis began to take its toll in late 1972.

Max Leach of Lincoln's Leach Camper Sales said he looks for a good year in 1976.

"We're getting more of the first-time buyers back," Leach said. "The last couple of years the first-time buyers were kind of scared away by the gas situation. Now that it's a little more stable, we're starting to pick up that business again."

Both Leach and salesman Karel Walek agreed people are still looking at the more luxurious campers and motorcoaches.

No Hold Back

"No, they're not seeming to hold back," said Walek. "All the extras is still a popular way to go."

Marian Sothan of Lincoln's Apache Camper Sales is also optimistic for a good year in 1976.

"We've made some improvements in our camper designs from last year and the interest already in this year's show has been real good," she said. "We had a good year last year and think this one will be better."

Garcia also noted Winnebago has made improvements in its line of Type A and Type B motorcoaches.

"We've tried to make our interiors a little more eye apealing," he said. "Last year we sold the majority of our Type A units, the Braves through the Chieftans. This year we anticipate the sales will kind of even out between our Type A and Type B units (the Mini-Winnie)."

Garcia's thoughts the Mini-Winnie-type motorcoaches are going to come on strong in 1976 was also felt by other dealers who displayed a large percentage of the smaller motorcoaches or van conversion units. While buyers are not skimping on luxury interiors and all the extras, many are looking to cut corners on gas consumption of their RV units.

According to show promoter Dick Schaefer, units displayed ranged in price from the $200-range pickup toppers to the $54,000 FMC motorcoach.

The Midwest show runs through Sunday. Hours are 6-11 p.m. Friday, 1-11 p.m. Saturday and 1-7 p.m. Sunday.

Morning ✶ ✶ Briefing
A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

Quarterback Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys has been named to the National Football Conference Pro Bowl squad. He replaces Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton, suffering from chronic tendonitis in his throwing arm.

Bob Roesler, sports editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, Friday was elected president of the Professional Football Writers of America.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said Friday he will decide over the weekend if he wants to be considered for the head coaching job of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles.

The Miami Dolphins Friday named John Sandusky of the Philadelphia Eagles' coaching staff as their new offensive line coach, replacing Monte Clark who became the San Francisco 49ers' head coach this week.

BASKETBALL

Virginia Squires' reserve center David Vaughn was convicted Friday of misdemeanor charges arising from a police chase last July. He was sentenced to two 30-day jail terms and fined a total of $850.

Los Angeles Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke has denied he's thinking of firing Coach Bill Sharman because of the NBA club's 23-21 record.

Mike Thompson, star Minnesota Gopher center, has been declared ineligible by the NCAA for allegedly selling basketball tickets at more than face value, AP reported Friday.

OTHER SPORTS

Wayne Zahn held the lead Friday in the $100,000 Showboar Invitational bowling tournament going into the final eight rounds of match play. He had a total pinfall of 10,575, followed by Earl Anthony with 10,491, Roy Buckley with 10,489, Jim Stefanich with 10,482 and Billy Hardwick with 10,480.

Few Lack Measles Shots

The number of Lincoln Public Schools students who have had immunizations for red measles or rubeola "is far better than had been anticipated," Helen E. Weber, health services superviser, said Friday.

Noting early estimates of non-immunized children were up to about 1,000, Mrs. Weber guessed that "we're probably down to under a hundred" who either have not been vaccinated or for whom there's no confirmed shot record.

"In many instances," she said, "it is just a situation where our records are not current." School nurses are continuing to make personal calls to parents, and most children who need them are getting their measles shots immediately.

Only a few letters needed to be sent to parents whom the schools could not contact by phone, Mrs. Weber said. "If we do not hear anything from these people who have not responded to either a call or a letter, the enforcement day will be Monday, the 26th," the first day of second semester.

Students must be vaccinated by then or be suspended from classes until they get their shots. The date was moved ahead from Jan. 21, since there will be no classes the following two days in semester break.

Mrs. Weber said she hopes no suspensions will be necessary.

Tree Of Lights Campaign Tops Christmas Goal

The Salvation Army in Lincoln has announced the 1975 "Tree of Lights" campaign exceeded its $40,000 goal by raising $40,738.

Capt. Peter Vander Vliet, commanding officer of the Salvation Army, said the funds "enabled many less fortunate persons to have a more meaningful Christmas and will go far in assisting the Army to continue it's programs."

New officers for 1976 are: Julius Humann, chairman; Mrs. Leita Lewis, vice chairman; Bonnie McGlasson, secretary; Donald Huffman, treasurer. New members of the Salvation Army Advisory Board are: Dallas Johnson, Dean Leitner, Nancy Ginger, Don Peterson, Gerald Henderson and Barbara J. Lautzenheiser.

Life Begins At Forty:

Readers Invited To Suggest New Name For Column

By JOANNE FARRIS

When I am out in a group and someone mentions this column I often am asked "Why do you call it 'Life Begins at Forty'?" Of course, the answer is that I inherited the title when I took over the column a little over a year ago. But I have kicked around with an editor or two the idea of changing the title. I am inclined to agree that another title might be more meaningful, but no one has come up with a fitting new name.

I'm inviting my readers to submit their suggestions for a new column name; we'll have a column-naming contest, and if we get a usable new one we'll adopt it and acknowledge its creator. Fair enough? Send column title suggestions to Joanne Farris, care of this newspaper.

Even though I am not happy with the present title, I do believe that this column should be written for middle-aged as well as senior readers. One of my big concerns is that middle-aged persons begin now to consider how they want their lives to be when they are old, and plan so that their hopes for the future can be realized.

In order to assure the kind of future they want, persons now in their 40s and 50s need to make themselves aware of some of the pressing problems being faced by today's elderly. Meaningful changes in the way we as a nation look at and look out for our old citizens will occur only through the combined efforts of many persons of all ages.

Middle-aged adults who look ahead to their retirement years know how important it is to develop now some leisure-time pursuits which are individually meaningful and pleasurable. As the redoubtable Dr. Edith Lord of the University of Miami puts it: "Every person needs to have two hobbies: one which he cannot do alone; another which he must do alone." As our regular work-week becomes shorter, wise use of leisure time grows increasingly significant; those who find wise users for their leisure hours will have rich lives.

"Life Begins at Forty" was a best-selling book, later a play, and then a movie in which Will Rogers starred. The phrase has become in some instances a cliche, though others find the idea inspiring. One reader wrote to me not long ago: "I am 53, and I feel that ever since I turned 50 it's all downhill. My life really is not different in any important way from what it was when I was 49, but I feel differently about it, and I get depressed about it."

External influences, such as the way she thinks people look at her or treat her since she has passed an invisible age marker, are making this woman's fears of aging self-fulfilling. In a case like hers it's important not to accept anyone else's spoken or unspoken appraisal of what our age means.

Life Begins At Forty:

Readers Invited To Suggest New Name For Column

By JOANNE FARRIS

When I am out in a group and someone mentions this column I often am asked "Why do you call if 'Life Begins at Forty'?" Of course, the answer is that I inherited the title when I took over the column a little over a year ago. But I have kicked around with an editor or two the idea of changing the title. I am inclined to agree that another title might be more meaningful, but no one has come up with a fitting new name.

I'm inviting my readers to submit their suggestions for a new column name; we'll have a column-naming contest, and if we get a usable new one we'll adopt it and acknowledge its creator. Fair enough? Send column title suggestions to Joanne Farris, care of this newspaper.

Even though I am not happy with the present title, I do believe that this column should be written for middle-aged as well as senior readers. One of my big concerns is that middle-aged persons begin now to consider how they want their lives to be when they are old, and plan so that their hopes for the future can be realized.

In order to assure the kind of future they want, persons now in their 40s and 50s need to make themselves aware of some of the pressing problems being faced by today's elderly. Meaningful changes in the way we as a nation look at and look out for our old citizens will occur only through the combined efforts of many persons of all ages.

Middle-aged adults who look ahead to their retirement years know how important it is to develop now some leisure-time pursuits which are individually meaningful and pleasurable. As the redoubtable Dr. Edith Lord of the University of Miami puts it: "Every person needs to have two hobbies: one which he cannot do alone; another which he must do alone." As our regular work-week becomes shorter, wise use of leisure time grows increasingly significant; those who find wise users for their leisure hours will have rich lives.

"Life Begins at Forty" was a best-selling book, later a play, and then a movie in which Will Rogers starred. The phrase has become in some instances a cliche, though others find the idea inspiring. One reader wrote to me not long ago: "I am 53, and I feel that ever since I turned 50 it's all downhill. My life really is not different in any important way from what it was when I was 49, but I feel differently about it, and I get depressed about it."

External influences, such as the way she thinks people look at her or treat her since she has passed an invisible age marker, are making this woman's fears of aging self-fulfilling. In a case like hers it's important not to accept anyone else's spoken or unspoken appraisal of what our age means.

Shipping Costs May Truck Higher

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Major increases in shipping costs, particularly for small-volume shippers, may soon go into effect as a result of a rate application filed by the general commodity division of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association.

General commodity truckers, numbering roughly 125 firms, have asked the Nebraska Public Service Commission for a restructuring of intrastate tariffs.

Although specific data backing up the request will not be submitted until later, labor and material costs are expected to be cited.

Commission rate analysts are studying the proposal and could not say now how much added revenue the new tariff schedule would generate for the firms.

However, James Paine, chief of the commission's motor transportation division, said the greatest increase would fall on less than truckload shipments.

For instance, for one category of durable goods the minimum shipment charge would increase from $6.97 to $9.05. In November the commission agreed to increase minimum charges by one dollar across the board on an emergency basis. So when pre-November rates are considered the increase for this particular class would be from $5.97 to $9.05.

In addition, Paine said the truckers are also seeking added charges for lighter shipments. Presently, charges are the same for all shipments under 2,000 pounds. The general commodity carrier's proposal seeks to increase the charge on a 2,000-pound shipment and to set up separate charges on loads less than 1,000 pounds and on those less than 500 pounds.

Paine said for some heavier truckload shipments the charges would actually be cheaper than present rates.

Charges for redelivery, C.O.D. and storage would also be increased.

Paine said the total percentage increase in rates the proposal would cause will not be known until the commission staff has audited a sampling of trucking firms.

In a related development, Mills Film Transfer of Lincoln has appealed a commission order forcing its rates up to levels charged by other commodity carriers to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Mills, a low-overhead firm which moves a large volume of liquor between Omaha and Lincoln, prior to January was charging rates 5% below what its competitors charged.

Mills asked to be left out of the 6% rate increase given other truckers in November on the grounds the higher rates would hurt the firm's volume of shipments.

The commission recently refused to exempt Mills from the increase and ordered the firm to charge the same as its competitors.

Copies Of New Rules Seem To Be Scarce

A revised set of rules has been adopted for the state personnel system, but a labor group claims state employes can't find a copy of the rules to see what they say.

"No one knows what they say," said Roger Schulz, executive director for the Nebraska Association of Public Employes. "Apparently not enough were printed."

However, State Personnel Director Roy Gardner said 1,000 copies of the revised rules were printed and distributed to state agencies.

"That's one copy for every 16 employes (in the state personnel system)," Gardner said.

Schulz said some Roads Department employes had one of the new rules applied against them, but were unable to find a copy of the rules.

Gardner said it's each agency's duty to see the rules are distributed.

Debate Is On Between Burrows, NFO Chief

State Sen. George Burrows of Adams Friday agreed to meet the state president of the National Farmers Organization, Ed Tvrdy of Surprise, in an open debate.

Earlier this week, Burrows asked the state justice department for an investigation into NFO financial affairs saying mismanagement was ruining the good name of the organization.

Tvrdy answered Burrows' comments with a debate challenge.

Burrows told Tvrdy in a letter that he found a site for the debate at Beatrice — the Commercial Savings and Loan — and suggested Jan. 23 as the date.

The lawmaker said Gordon "Bud" Pentz of radio station KWBE in Beatrice has agreed to act as moderator. Pentz, said Burrows, "has a firm reputation as a strong and fair moderator."

Burrows said Pentz wanted to, in advance of the debate, discuss the format and rules. His suggestion was for 30-minute periods with rebuttals and questions.

State Bicentennial Birthday Party Planned

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Plans for Nebraska's Bicentennial Birthday Party were formalized Friday, following approval of a $10,000 grant from the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

The party, in the new University of Nebraska Fieldhouse, is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. Sept. 3, 1976, the opening night of the 1976 Nebraska State Fair.

Invitations will be sent to one outstanding high school vocal student from each of the 385 Nebraska High Schools and guest of honor, singer Kate Smith.

Miss Smith has agreed to perform that night with the high school students en masse, in addition to her own show.

Representing the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, Fair Manager Henry Brandt said the musical program "will bring together citizens from across Nebraska, young and old, from all walks of life for an evening of entertainment, education and reflection."

The program will be arranged and staffed by the University of Nebraska Music Department. Accompanying the mass choir will be either the Lincoln Symphony or a university orchestra.

In other action, the commission approved $7,557 in matching funds for the following projects:

—$2,500 for the Sioux County Museum;

—$2,000 for restoring the baled hay church in Arthur;

—$2,000 for a social science teacher conference with instructors from 14 to 16 states discussing Nebraska's Bicentennial Curriculum project;

—$1,057 for coordination of the National Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania. The wagon train is scheduled to begin it's month-long trek across Nebraska March 27, crossing the Wyoming border at Henry.

The commission also endorsed the following projects:

—the Liberty Belle Horse Drill Team from the Scottsbluff area;

—the proposed all-ethnic festival June 5 and 6 in Omaha;

—the Nebraska Bicentennial Peace Jubilee July 4, 1976, in Seward;

—and the statewide arboretum, proposed by the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum Council.

Controversy Delights Director

Frank Harrington, regional director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Association said in Lincoln Friday the controversy surrounding the I-80 Sculpture project "was the best thing that could have happened."

The project is "the best known" of any proposed so far," from the East Coast to the West," Harrington said. "Frankly, I'm delighted."

The Nebraska Legislature voted Wednesday to approve the 10 sculptures destined for rest stops along the Interstate.

School Plan May Cost $2.5 Million

Omaha (AP) — Owen Knutzen, superintendent of the Omaha School District, told reporters Friday that the school district will need a total of 131 new buses to move students next fall so the district will be in line with a court-imposed desegregation order

However, Knutzen said officials are still studying several methods of transporting students, including public transportation and school bus rentals

The cost of the buses, if all are purchased, would be about $2.5 million, Knutzen said, adding that the figure does not include the upkeep expenses for the vehicles

In the meantime, the court-appointed interracial committee formed to come up with ways to aid in the implementation of the desegregation plan has done just that, according to its chairman, Dale Te Kolste.

Te Kolste said the committee has agreed unanimously that a citizens committee to help with public acceptance of the approved plan is urgently needed.

"It is apparent from experiences in other cities that community-wide support is needed for the integration plan, as finally approved by the court, in order to achieve a peaceful and effective integration of the schools in the Omaha School District, Te Kolste said Friday.

The committee has recommended the formation of a "Concerned Citizens for Schools" (CCS) The objective of the committee would be to achieve community-wide support for the final integration plan

Te Kolste said that more than 20 organizations have already indicated their willingness to join such an effort Following successful methods used in some other cities, the interracial committee is also recommending that a communications committee and a steering committee be set up to keep the public fully informed

Shipping Costs May Truck Higher

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Major increases in shipping costs, particularly for small-volume shippers, may soon go into effect as a result of a rate application filed by the general commodity division of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association.

General commodity truckers, numbering roughly 125 firms, have asked the Nebraska Public Service Commission for a restructuring of intrastate tariffs.

Although specific data backing up the request will not be submitted until later, labor and material costs are expected to be cited.

Commission rate analysts are studying the proposal and could not say now how much added revenue the new tariff schedule would generate for the firms.

However, James Paine, chief of the commission's motor transportation division, said the greatest increase would fall on less than truckload shipments.

For instance, for one category of durable goods the minimum shipment charge would increase from $6.97 to $9.05. In November the commission agreed to increase minimum charges by one dollar across the board on an emergency basis. So when pre-November rates are considered the increase for this particular class would be from $5.97 to $9.05.

In addition, Paine said the truckers are also seeking added charges for lighter shipments. Presently, charges are the same for all shipments under 2,000 pounds. The general commodity carrier's proposal seeks to increase the charge on a 2,000-pound shipment and to set up separate charges on loads less than 1,000 pounds and on those less than 500 pounds.

Paine said for some heavier truckload shipments the charges would actually be cheaper than present rates.

Charges for redelivery, C.O.D. and storage would also be increased.

Paine said the total percentage increase in rates the proposal would cause will not be known until the commission staff has audited a sampling of trucking firms.

In a related development, Mills Film Transfer of Lincoln has appealed a commission order forcing its rates up to levels charged by other commodity carriers to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Mills, a low-overhead firm which moves a large volume of liquor between Omaha and Lincoln, prior to January was charging rates 5% below what its competitors charged.

Mills asked to be left out of the 6% rate increase given other truckers in November on the grounds the higher rates would hurt the firm's volume of shipments.

The commission recently refused to exempt Mills from the increase and ordered the firm to charge the same as its competitors.

Copies Of New Rules Seem To Be Scarce

A revised set of rules has been adopted for the state personnel system, but a labor group claims state employes can't find a copy of the rules to see what they say.

"No one knows what they say," said Roger Schulz, executive director for the Nebraska Association of Public Employes. "Apparently not enough were printed."

However, State Personnel Director Roy Gardner said 1,000 copies of the revised rules were printed and distributed to state agencies.

"That's one copy for every 16 employes (in the state personnel system)," Gardner said.

Schulz said some Roads Department employes had one of the new rules applied against them, but were unable to find a copy of the rules.

Gardner said it's each agency's duty to see the rules are distributed.

Debate Is On Between Burrows, NFO Chief

State Sen. George Burrows of Adams Friday agreed to meet the state president of the National Farmers Organization, Ed Tvrdy of Surprise, in an open debate.

Earlier this week, Burrows asked the state justice department for an investigation into NFO financial affairs saying mismanagement was ruining the good name of the organization.

Tvrdy answered Burrows' comments with a debate challenge.

Burrows told Tvrdy in a letter that he found a site for the debate at Beatrice — the Commercial Savings and Loan — and suggested Jan. 23 as the date.

The lawmaker said Gordon "Bud" Pentz of radio station KWBE in Beatrice has agreed to act as moderator. Pentz, said Burrows, "has a firm reputation as a strong and fair moderator."

Burrows said Pentz wanted to, in advance of the debate, discuss the format and rules. His suggestion was for 30-minute periods with rebuttals and questions.

State Bicentennial Birthday Party Planned

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Plans for Nebraska's Bicentennial Birthday Party were formalized Friday, following approval of a $10,000 grant from the Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

The party, in the new University of Nebraska Fieldhouse, is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. Sept. 3, 1976, the opening night of the 1976 Nebraska State Fair.

Invitations will be sent to one outstanding high school vocal student from each of the 385 Nebraska High Schools and guest of honor, singer Kate Smith.

Miss Smith has agreed to perform that night with the high school students en masse, in addition to her own show.

Representing the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, Fair Manager Henry Brandt said the musical program "will bring together citizens from across Nebraska, young and old, from all walks of life for an evening of entertainment, education and reflection."

The program will be arranged and staffed by the University of Nebraska Music Department. Accompanying the mass choir will be either the Lincoln Symphony or a university orchestra.

In other action, the commission approved $7,557 in matching funds for the following projects:

—$2,500 for the Sioux County Museum;

—$2,000 for restoring the baled hay church in Arthur;

—$2,000 for a social science teacher conference with instructors from 14 to 16 states discussing Nebraska's Bicentennial Curriculum project;

—$1,057 for coordination of the National Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania. The wagon train is scheduled to begin it's month-long trek across Nebraska March 27, crossing the Wyoming border at Henry.

The commission also endorsed the following projects:

—the Liberty Belle Horse Drill Team from the Scottsbluff area;

—the proposed all-ethnic festival June 5 and 6 in Omaha;

—the Nebraska Bicentennial Peace Jubilee July 4, 1976, in Seward;

—and the statewide arboretum, proposed by the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum Council.

Controversy Delights Director

Frank Harrington, regional director of the American Revolution Bicentennial Association said in Lincoln Friday the controversy surrounding the I-80 Sculpture project "was the best thing that could have happened."

The project is "the best known" of any proposed so far," from the East Coast to the West," Harrington said. "Frankly, I'm delighted."

The Nebraska Legislature voted Wednesday to approve the 10 sculptures destined for rest stops along the Interstate.

School Plan May Cost $2.5 Million

Omaha (AP) — Owen Knutzen, superintendent of the Omaha School District, told reporters Friday that the school district will need a total of 131 new buses to move students next fall so the district will be in line with a court-imposed desegregation order.

However, Knutzen said officials are still studying several methods of transporting students, including public transportation and school bus rentals.

The cost of the buses, if all are purchased, would be about $2.5 million, Knutzen said, adding that the figure does not include the upkeep expenses for the vehicles.

In the meantime, the court-appointed interracial committee formed to come up with ways to aid in the implementation of the desegregation plan has done just that, according to its chairman, Dale Te Kolste.

Te Kolste said the committee has agreed unanimously that a citizens committee to help with public acceptance of the approved plan is urgently needed.

"It is apparent from experiences in other cities that community-wide support is needed for the integration plan, as finally approved by the court, in order to achieve a peaceful and effective integration of the schools in the Omaha School District, Te Kolste said Friday.

The committee has recommended the formation of a "Concerned Citizens for Schools" (CCS). The objective of the committee would be to achieve community-wide support for the final integration plan.

Te Kolste said that more than 20 organizations have already indicated their willingness to join such an effort. Following successful methods used in some other cities, the interracial committee is also recommending that a communications committee and a steering committee be set up to keep the public fully informed.

Filing For Trademark Not Deemed Significant

Attorneys for Nebraska Educational Television filed a trademark application in Washington, D C., this week for the network identification symbol, or logo

But it's "not that significant of a development as far as NBC is concerned," explained Pat Connolly of the Washington law firm of Dow, Lohnes and Albertson.

"As far as the controversy" over rights to the carbon copy logos developed independently for NBC and NETV, Connolly said "prior use" is the issue his firm is concerned with, "not who filed first"

NETV developed its N logo seven months ago and first used it last fall NBC unveiled its logo, different only in color, on Jan 1

An NBC spokesman said Friday he assumes but isn't certain that the network has also filed with the U S Office of Patents and Trademarks an application to register its service mark Such a logo must be used before it can be protected by copyright status

Connolly explained the low-key concern over filing, saying that applications get "lost" in about a two-month processing, then notice is published in the patent office gazette, after which challenges can be made for 30 days

Any dispute over trademark rights through official channels could take six months to resolve, he said.

Filing For Trademark Not Deemed Significant

Attorneys for Nebraska Educational Television filed a trademark application in Washington, D.C., this week for the network identification symbol, or logo.

But it's "not that significant of a development as far as NBC is concerned," explained Pat Connolly of the Washington law firm of Dow, Lohnes and Albertson.

"As far as the controversy" over rights to the carbon copy logos developed independently for NBC and NETV, Connolly said "prior use" is the issue his firm is concerned with, "not who filed first."

NETV developed its N logo seven months ago and first used it last fall. NBC unveiled its logo, different only in color, on Jan. 1.

An NBC spokesman said Friday he assumes but isn't certain that the network has also filed with the U.S. Office of Patents and Trademarks an application to register its service mark. Such a logo must be used before it can be protected by copyright status.

Connolly explained the low-key concern over filing, saying that applications get "lost" in about a two-month processing, then notice is published in the patent office gazette, after which challenges can be made for 30 days.

Any dispute over trademark rights through official channels could take six months to resolve, he said.
